Ex-Convict Charged With Murder

Coed Strangling is Linked To K.C. Kidnapping Case

OLATHE, Kan. (AP)— Police Saturday linked the strangling of a pretty female university student to the kidnaping and thwarted ransoming Friday of another young woman, charging ex-convict Thomas Preston Lamb, 28, in the killing of Karen Sue Kemmerly in early December.

The kidnaping charge was filed Friday after Joseph J. Childs ransomed his blond, 18-year-old daughter, Patricia Ann, for $3,500, setting off a wild chase in which Lamb was injured and captured after his car slammed into a police blockade.

The first degree murder charge, coupled with a second kidnaping accusation, was filed in the pre-dawn hours Saturday. The charges named him as the abductor and killer of Miss Kemmerly, 24, a graduate student at the University of Missouri-Kansas City. Her body, nude and frozen, was found in a cornfield Dec. 7 near Olathe. She had last been seen Dec. 2, when she attended her classes. An autopsy showed she had been strangled.

Lamb was being held in the Johnson County Jail on a $50,000 bond. He was to be arraigned Monday on all three charges.

At Fort Scott, Kan., Sheriff Ray A. Cummings said officers searching the quarters in which Lamb had been occupying since his parole found articles believed to have been the property of Miss Kemmerly. He would not describe them. Cummings said the officers obtained a search warrant and went to the house after the capture of Lamb yesterday.

Police, meanwhile, moved to prevent possible prejudicing in the case against Lamb, of Fort Scott, Kan. Magistrate Earl Jones issued an order that the bill of particulars in the case not be revealed.

Childs, a salesman for Munns Medical Supply Co., handed the money over to the kidnaper as police and the FBI waited to close in after the man sped away. In the chase, one officer was shot and wounded. Two police officers were injured in a collision with Lamb's car and two others were injured when Lamb's car rammed a police roadblock.

Miss Childs was unharmed and safely reunited with her father after her abductor made her count the money, most of it crisp, new $100 bills.

The ransom was arranged through three phone calls after Miss Childs failed to return from a short trip to the Metcalf South Shopping Center Thursday night.

Suspect Captured

Thomas P. Lamb, suspected of kidnaping an eighteen-year-old girl, Patricia Childs, is carried to an ambulance after he was injured when he rammed a police roadblock. Miss Childs was released when her father gave Lamb $3,500. A policeman was shot during the chase north of Olathe. (UPI)

Israeli Air Strikes Have Pushed Battle of Egypt to Danger Point

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli air strikes at Cairo's doorstep have dramatically pushed the battle of Egypt into a new and dangerous phase.

"It is just one more step on the road that is slowly but inexorably leading to another all-out war in the Middle East," says one Western military expert here.

The escalation occurred when Israeli planes, which had been bombing and strafing the Egyptian side of the Suez Canal for months, began hitting military targets in the Nile Delta this month. Once the planes reportedly hit within six miles of Cairo's northeast suburb.

Prime Minister Golda Meir told an interviewer Friday that the raids were designed to limit Gamal Abdel Nasser's freedom of action, to force the Egyptian president to ease what she called aggressive pressure against the Israeli held-Sinai and to prevent him from planing new war aims.

There have been suspicions that the strikes hitting so close to Cairo with little or no opposition might be designed to topple the Nasser government.

Not so, Mrs. Meir said, adding: "If as a side effect there is a change in the Egyptian regime I won't cry about it."

Later she said the raids were meant more to cut Nasser "down to size."

Cairo holds the view the air strikes prove that Israel is getting nervous and tense. Said Cairo's chief spokesman, Ahmed Esmat Abdel Meguid: "It is obvious that Israel's aim is that this escalation would have political and psychological effects. But once more, the Israelis are mistaken in their estimation..."

The air attacks on the delta ended nearly one year ago.

Both sides have taken heavy casualties in cross-Suez firefights, commando raids, aerial clashes and bombardment.

The Israelis claim they are winning.

"We are taking fewer casualties than ever before," said one Israeli military informant. "There is still a lot of firing going on along the Suez, but it is primarily limited to small arms, sniping and mortar fire."

Second Kidney Rejected

Eugene Horner, 54, 1521 West Main, has rejected his second kidney transplant in three months and must once again turn to a machine for life.

Dr. Robert Cross of General Hospital in Kansas City told The Democrat-Capital Saturday that Horner's second transplanted kidney was removed in an operation Thursday. He received the kidney from an anonymous donor Nov. 29, and for a while was reported as "doing very well."

Dr. Cross reported that Horner "is doing fine" despite the rejection. The first unsuccessful transplant attempt was in October.

Horner will now have to go back to an artificial kidney machine. He has used the kidney machine since July 28, after learning last April that he was suffering from complications of endstage kidney disease. Both of his kidneys were permanently damaged beyond repair.

Horner should be coming home soon, said Dr. Cross, to resume his six-hour vigil at the machine twice weekly to stay alive. He lives and functions normally the rest of the time.

Dr. Cross also said that another transplant attempt on Horner will be made as soon as a donor is available.

Mrs. Nona Hickenbottom, formerly of Sedalia and now of Whiteman AFB, was the first Sedalian to receive a kidney transplant. Her operation was performed April 30 at St. Luke's Hospital, Kansas City, after a 10-year-old donor was killed when struck by a car while he was riding his bicycle.

Mrs. hickenbottom is reported to be able to do light housework.

NEWS IN BRIEF

MY THO, Vietnam (AP) — Two South Vietnamese generals were eased out of their commands in the vital Mekong Delta because they were lax in countering increasing enemy infiltration and attacks, reliable sources said Saturday.

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong hauled two American captives from one village to another, placed them on exhibit, then shot them to death, a statement by the U.S. Command said.

HONOLULU (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, heading homeward from his Asia-Pacific tour, said Saturday the United States is determined to avoid being called on "to bail out" small countries when there are flareups within their borders.

Claims Statehood Is Ten Years Off

SAN JUAN (AP) — One year after pulling the biggest political upset in island history, Luis A. Ferre, a U.S.-style governor who wants Puerto Rico to be the 51st American state, believes statehood is still at least 10 years away.

When and if Puerto Rico asks for statehood, however, Ferre said it will be "impossible" for Congress to deny it.

In a wide-ranging interview here, the 65-year-old governor also said:

—Polls show 64 per cent of island voters want the presidential vote for the island and that President Nixon soon will name a special committee to study the matter.

—Ferre expects to reach final approval in about six months on contracts for Kennecott Copper Corp., and American Metal Climax to mine copper deposits in the island's central mountain region. Copper ore reserves are estimated at 243 million tons and should support a mining industry for 30 years.

—The terrorist bombs that have exploded in island hotels recently are more like "fire crackers" and are intended mainly to attract publicity.

—Fidel Castro and Cuba are behind terrorist bombings and fires because "he can hurt the United States by hurting Puerto Rico."

—That he probably will run for governor again in 1972 and is confident of victory.

Ferre, a trim, energetic man who works long hours has won begrudging praise from many of his opponents.

Munoz, the grand old man of Puerto Rican politics at 71 and the architect of the commonwealth status, saw his Popular Democratic party go down to defeat to the Ferre forces in 1968 for its first loss at the polls since its founding 25 years ago.

Commission Check Of Traffic Standards

The Missouri State Highway Commission is making a study of the traffic signals on Broadway to determine if something can be done to make them safer for motorists.

Mayor Ralph Walker wrote the commission on Jan. 3 and W. H. Dill, district engineer, replied in a letter to Walker Saturday. Dill said that after the commission has an opportunity to review the accident history and possible remedial measures that may be taken, he will again contact Walker.

Walker wrote the commission after Adrian M. Reid, 53, Route 4, was killed Jan. 2 when his pick-up truck struck the west traffic standard at Broadway and Grand. His was the second death resulting from crashes against that light structure.

Ironically, the overhead traffic signals — which are supported by the heavy concrete standards — were installed as a safety measure so that motorists could have unobscured views of the lights.

Eight accidents with injuries and numerous other accidents at the intersection have occurred since the lights were turned on Nov. 21, 1967.

Although Walker specifically asked for help from the commission on the signal post and and island at Broadway and Grand, Dill indicated the commission will consider the other four intersections of that type on Broadway between Engineer and Grand.

Explosion Is Thwarted

ELLINGTON, Mo. (AP)—The General Manager of Ozark Lead Co., said Saturday he has no idea why several hundred cases of dynamite were wired to explode at the company's lead mine in southeast Missouri.

Harold Krueger said six rubber-tired magazine trucks containing several hundred cases of dynamite were connected to a blasting cap and detonator.

Authorities are continuing an investigation to determine who wired the box-like magazines to explode some time Thursday.

"We've had no labor trouble at the mine. Whoever set up the dynamite must have mental problems," Krueger said.

He said John Bell, a mine employe, disconnected the explosive device Thursday but thought little of it and made no report.

Reynolds County Sheriff Bill Scott learned of the incident Friday from a mine foreman who came across the unhooked device.

Authorities said about 35 miners were on duty Friday when the device was reported. They said if the dynamite had exploded the blast would have collapsed all levels of the mine.

Counties to Receive 100 Per Cent Funds

CARROLLTON — All six counties in the Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corp., will receive 100 per cent funding by the federal government for the commodity food program, according to Charles Thomas, executive director.

Thomas informed the board of directors Thursday that the program for low income families will be administered by the State Division of Welfare.

He also said that the Community Organization program of the Office of Economic Opportunity in cooperation with the University of Missouri Extension Center would establish an educational program to assist users of commodity foods in their preparation so that the full value of the foods can be received.

Counties in the MVHRDC are Pettis, Saline, Ray, Chariton, Carroll and Lafayette.

W. K. Schilb, 2408 Dennis Road, Sedalia, was introduced to the board as a new Pettis County delegate representing the business community.

Missouri's Legislature Prepares for Session

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — It's almost like an instant replay as the Missouri legislature prepares for a special session Monday to appropriate a little more than $10 million in emergency funds for some agencies and institutions.

A year ago, on Sunday, Jan. 19, the Associated Press carried a story that started out this way:

"Two tough political gladiators are now squared off in the legislative arena for five and a half months of combat.

"The fight is already bitter and the outcome is uncertain. But some state officials fear it may result in a do-nothing session of the legislature, with even operating appropriations for the state government in jeopardy.

"Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said when the session started Jan. 8 he was pessimistic about the outlook.

"Now that he and Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, the president protem of the Senate, have locked horns openly the outlook is even foggier."

The 1969 regular session was pretty much of a bust and Hearnes had to call a special session in September to get his embattled income tax increase bill passed.

Blackwell promptly pounded on it and forced a referendum test by the voters. Just last Thursday, Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick announced that Blackwell's supporters had collected enough voter signatures to force the referendum election.

And that could well be an issue in this special session that Hearnes would like to keep as brief as possible. The constitutional minimum time would be five days but no one holds out much hope that it can be completed in so short a time.

Hearnes already has outlined many of the items he wants included in the emergency appropriations but he has said too, he will not make public until Monday what he would like done about the referendum election.

The petitions call for the election to be held in conjunction with the general election next November. But some time ago Hearnes suggested if the petition campaign was successful perhaps the election could be held in April, along with municipal and school elections.

Blackwell said he didn't know whether changing the date would be legal but he would not contest an earlier vote. He said he just thought the people should have final say on whether they pay higher taxes.

So the same two political gladiators are squared off in the same arena with their verbal swords poised.

There may be an effort to disarm Blackwell, however. The Senate majority Democrats voted 15-8 last fall to depose him as president pro tem. It is expected they'll try to recruit a few minority Republicans so they'll have at least the 18 votes necessary to oust Blackwell from the Senate's top position.

If they manage, veteran Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, has agreed to serve as temporary president pro tem for the rest of this legislative term.

Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty, said he was sure an effort would be made against Blackwell but he wasn't sure when. It's bound to enliven - and probably lengthen - the session.

Democratic Challengers Hope to Reverse Trends

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic challengers hope to reverse a decade of Republican gains in the nation's State Houses next November when 35 states elect governors.

Thirty-two states, including nine of the 10 biggest states, and about 70 per cent of the U.S. population now have Republican governors, and the GOP is mapping a political defense of this near record roster.

In five of the past six national elections, Republicans have gained governorships from the Democrats, and the sixth was a political standoff.

The GOP now holds its greatest number of governorships in 50 years.

But this time, 24 Republican governorships, and only 11 held by Democrats, are on the line. And the problem of defense is the more difficult in an era of steadily rising state expenses and taxes.

Republicans now appear particularly vulnerable in eight states, with perhaps as many more races too uncertain to rate the odds at this point.

In the biggest states, California Gov. Ronald Reagan and New York's Nelson A. Rockefeller now are favored to win and continue GOP administrations.

The third largest state, Pennsylvania, is high on the Democratic target list. Republican Gov. Raymond P. Shafer cannot run for another term, but the spending and the taxes which marked state government during his term will resound as a major campaign issue.

Indeed, if there is a common thread in the state campaigns ranging from Maine and Florida to Hawaii and Alaska, it is summed up in that one word: taxes.

In Ohio, another of the big 10, Democratic strategists hope they can hold down in-party rivalry and look on while Republicans battle over a nominee to succeed GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Taxation Group Opposes Program

By TERRY SMITH
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

"We are not here to deprive the low income people of a place to live," but rather to "oppose the present program presented by the local government," was the theme of a meeting of Citizens for Equitable Taxation at the Farm and Home Building at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Reasons for opposing the program were many. The main points in opposition centered around the belief that government public housing would place the burden on the taxpayer by paying for the management and maintance of the buildings, and the loss of attainable property tax if the projects were privately owned.

It was also brought out at the meeting that a possibility existed for the project to turn into a "slum area" as other similar government rental projects have done.

The CET group also claims to be interested in social problems which they feel will arise in a low rental government project.

It was stated in discussion that people living in low rent housing have very little chance of actually bettering themselves in the eyes of the community. They have no way to gain a sense of pride since they are not actually paying their own way in the community they said.

It was also mentioned that low income families will be concentrated in housing with other in similar situations, and would not be allowed to learn new values by association with a new environment, according to CET.

The Sedalia Housing Authority has a contract with AMCON International of Memphis, Tenn. AMCON plan to begin digging operations some time next month.

Ground breaking ceremonies were held Friday at the site of the new HUD development at 24th and Engineer.

CET proposes to center a program around FHA projects 2351 and 236 projects which were presented at the meeting by Larry Stretch and Bob O'Dell, representatives from the Kansas City FHA office. They were invited by CET to explain the programs.

The 2351 and the 236 programs are available to low income families, the aged and the handicapped. The 2351 program provides a way for the low income family head to eventually pay for and own his own home, while the 236 program involves the assistance to renters by FHA in rental housing programs.

Under the FHA program, private contractors build units and put them on the market. The Federal Housing Authority has no share of the construction cost other than financing the homes for low income families.

The family, under the 2351 program, would be required to pay $200 down and monthly payments not less than 20 percent of the adjusted monthly income of the family. The hope of the program is to eventually move the burden of payment to the buyer and away from the FHA as the buyers monthly income becomes greater.

Under the 236 program, the units are constructed by private constructor and put up for rent. FHA will assist in payment of the rent based on income levels. The tenents pay 25 per cent of their monthly income toward the rent, while

Sex Education Originator Out of Work

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Six years ago a small-town educator launched the nation's most controversial sex-in-the-classroom program.

Now the program is temporarily out and the educator is permanently out.

"Officially, I resigned," says Paul W. Cook, 60, supreintendent of the 35,000-student Anaheim Union High School District. "Actually, I was forced out by a school board which yielded to a deliberate campaign by a noisy minority."

Cook is the central figure in a controversy which has focused national attention on the mores of this city of 165,000, heretofore best known as the home of Disneyland and the California Angels baseball team.

The district's Family Life and Sex Education courses, voluntary but attended by 95 per cent of students in grades 7 through 12, have been accused by some of ruining the lives of thousands of children by exposing them to sex too early, and praised by others as a source of truth for confused adolescents.

Parental permission was required before students could take the courses. The response at first was generally enthusiastic, Cook says, but some parents who originally favored the program have turned against it, fearful of creating an unwanted image for their city.

Sex education was the major issue in a recent school trustee election and two men who opposed Cook's policies won posts on the five-man board. Shortly afterward the Sex education program was suspended and Cook was, as he phrases it, "stripped of administrative duties."

His $30,000-a-year contract had two years to run but a settlement was reached under which he remains as consultant until the end of the school year.

Cook, superintendent since 1957, put his career on the line a year ago when he rejected demands by some townsmen that he modify or drop the program, which he says was "about 15 per cent concerned with sex and the rest with human relations in the family."

"Eighty per cent of the parents and virtually all of the students liked the program and wanted it continued," he says, "so I decided to stay with it. I could not turn my back on the youngsters' need to mature normally, to find honest and Cook, until recently superintendent of Anaheim Union High School District, says he was "forced out by a school board which yielded to a deliberate campaign by a noisy minority." scientific answers to the questions raised by the deviate and pornographic movies, magazines and books to which they are constantly exposed."

Cook believes the attack on sex education in Anaheim is a part of a national campaign started by the Christian Crusade of Tulsa, Okla., headed by Fundamentalist preacher Billy James Hargis, and later taken up by the John Birch Society, a power in the politics of Anaheim, Santa Ana and other areas of Southern California's rich and conservative Orange County.

"They concentrated on us because our program was successful," he said. "We sold more than 1,600 copies of our course outline at $10 each, mostly to other school districts."

Whatever the reason, Rex Westerfield, western director of public relations for the Birch Society, said in his headquarters at San Marino, Calif.: "We do feel responsible to some extent for Mr. Cook being out of work. It appears our campaign against sex education in the schools has been effective in Anaheim."

A foreword to the 307-page course outline developed by Cook and the district's teachers says it gives "full and frank information on the anatomy and physiology of sex, together with a scientific vocabulary which enables our students to talk with one another and with adults in an intelligent and dignified manner."

"The essential emphasis of our instructional program," the foreword continues, "is a dialogue developed between the Family Life and Sex Education teacher and the students, and among the students themselves. In these dialogues they consider thoughtfully a wide series of important questions, including boy-girl relationships, dating, going steady, engagements, marriage, premarital and extra-marital sex relationships ... We are concerned that our boys and girls ... may develop a set of personal standards and ethical beliefs which will help guide them to happier and more successful relationships."

Cook received so many queries from over the country about the sex-education controversy in his district that he prepared a nine-page letter, including some of these questions and answers:

Q. Doesn't teaching children about sex make them more likely to engage in premarital sex activities?

A. No. On the contrary, the discussion of the hazards of premarital sex activities tends to develop the understanding and awareness young people need to manage their physical desires ... We encourage continence and we provide the children with sound, logical and understandable reasons why premarital sex is a dangerous and self-defeating activity.

Q. Why can't parents teach their children about sex?

A. They can. But many parents have told us there is a lack of communication and understanding between them and their children which makes discussions relating to sex unsatisfactory. Others have been frank to admit that their own information about sex is inadequate, that they do not know the proper terminology, and that they feel embarrassed.

Road Contract Is Awarded To W. J. Menefee

The Missouri State Highway Commission has awarded contracts totaling $133,357 to the W. J. Menefee Construction Co. of Sedalia for work on 19.2 miles of State Supplementary Routes B and Y in Pettis County.

E. J. Sooter, Jr., the commission's engineer in charge of construction activities for this district, will direct the work with J. R. Holman of Sedalia as the resident engineer in charge of both projects.

The Route B improvement is for 10½ miles from Route 127 northeast to U.S. Route 65 and will cost $72,881. The Route Y project is for 8.8 miles from Route 127 east to U.S. Route 65. Total cost is $60,477.

Both contracts call for leveling course work and bituminous mat surfacing, and the contractor has been notified that work may begin on or about Jan. 19.

School Ownership Changes Thursday

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ownership and control of Fontbonne College, a four-year liberal arts college for women, has been transferred from the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet to an 18-member board of trustees, it was announced Thursday.

Sister Roberta Schmidt, president of Fontbonne, which has an enrollment of about 800, said the college will continue to be identified as a Roman Catholic college.

"Now as in the past the college will be guided by the spiritual and intellectual ideas of the Sisters of St. Joseph, who will continue to be its core group," Sister Roberta said.

The board of trustees consists of 11 laymen and seven Sisters of St. Joseph.

Magnolia Tree Grows in Brooklyn

NEW YORK (AP) — A magnolia tree grows in Brooklyn and neighborhood children are raising money to make sure it won't be destroyed by an urban renewal program.

The four-story-tall, 85-year-old magnolia grandiflora, which normally flourishes in the South, has been protected from wintry winds by a brownstone apartment building in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section.

The community is selling raffle tickets — shaped like magnolia leaves — for a fund to raise $5,000 to save the building from the wrecker's ball. The horticulture Society of New York is pitching in by paying neighborhood kids one cent for each seed of the hearty tree they bring in.

The society says the tree, an evergreen, is the largest and oldest of its kind north of Baltimore.

Few Europeans Show Concern Over Celibacy

LONDON (AP) — A survey of European countries shows that the Roman Catholic rule on priestly celibacy, the subject of deep controversy in some areas, faces little challenge among the clergy elsewhere.

The question was brought forward forcefully this month when the Dutch Pastoral Council, a national body of clergy and laity, voted 90-6 in favor of ending the obligation of celibacy as a condition for ordination. There were 100 abstentions—the bishop members of the council.

Pope Paul VI has called the rule against marriage an "incomparable treasure" of the Latin Church, and has lamented as "our crown of thorns" the current controversy. In 1967 he rejected any change in canon law on the subject.

Since celibacy is a matter of the Church's universal discipline, the concensus is that, even if the Dutch bishops make the council's recommendation their own, they cannot change the law even for Holland on their own responsibility.

But recent Dutch surveys have shown 72 per cent of Dutch Catholics, including clergy, want the celibacy rule ended.

In a few European countries an increasing number of priests are giving up active office, many to wed. Four hundred left in Holland in two years; around a hundred left last year in Britain. But most of Europe's priests are content with their lot or at least keep silent. And most of those who have left say they would continue to exercise their priestly functions or return to them, if permitted to do so as married men.

Some bishops worry more about the effect all this talk may have on recruiting clergy. Many young men, they say, are adopting a wait-and-see attitude toward the celibacy question before committing themselves to the priesthood.

The German news magazine Der Spiegel says about two-thirds of the priests it polled favored lifting the relationship between priesthood and celibacy. But many said they did not want marriage for themselves.

Italy's conference of bishops is scheduled to discuss problems of the priesthood in June. It is making a 212-question poll of all parishes. The words "marriage" and "celibacy" don't appear, since the celibacy question is judged finally settled, but priests will reply to a question about psychological problems they face.

The only official poll on celibacy, carried out in Turin with approval of Michele Cardinal Pellegrino, showed that of 465 priests who replied 304 favored admission of married men to the priesthood, with 76 unconditionally against. A total of 301 backed optional celibacy for priests, with 104 wanting it to remain mandatory.

In Austria, about 2,000 priests were asked for their views and "a considerable number" favored being allowed to marry.

Church sources in France say that requests from priests to be allowed to marry rose from 10 in 1962-63 to 116 in 1968. There are 41,076 priests in France.

"The situation in Belgium is extremely quiet," said Msgr. Joseph Schoenmakers, auxiliary bishop in the Malines archbishopric. "The problem, of course, exists but not with any acuteness now. But any decision in Holland would have possible consequences here."

The problem has hardly touched the Roman Catholic cantons of Switzerland. Spanish bishops have told their clergy that celibacy is here to stay.

Polish bishops maintain a strict posture against any change in rules.

Historically the Church's view of celibacy has not been unchanging. St. Peter, regarded as the first Pope, and many bishops and priests of the early Church were married men.

The discipline of celibacy appears to have taken hold in the Latin Church in the fourth century. In 1139 the Second Lateran Council put celibacy in the Church's rule-book of canon law and made marriage a direct impediment to the reception of holy orders. The Eastern Rite Catholic Church, like the Protestants, never made celibacy mandatory for all clerics.

Negro Church Will Have White Pastor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — An all-Negro church here is scheduled to get a white minister next month.

The Rev. Douglas H. Miller, assistant pastor of First Presbyterian Church, said Thursday he will assume the ministry of all-black Calvary Presbyterian.

The Rev. Mr. Miller, 28, said the move was unusual but, "I think the times demand it . . . I look at it as a great challenge. My wife and I are both looking forward to it."

A native of Atlanta, the minister said he became acquainted with Calvary Presbyterian's 58-member congregation by preaching at the church one Sunday a month for the past year. Last month he was offered the job on a permanent basis.

New Superintendent

MOUNT VERNON, Mo. (AP) —Dr. Zane Ford, 44, superintendent of schools at Marshfield, Mo., the past eight years, has been named superintendent of the Mount Vernon school district.

Dr. Ford was an assistant professor of education at St. Louis University before going to Marshfield.

At Mount Vernon, he will succeed Paul Mitchell, who is retiring after ten years as superintendent.

Welfare Package Warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Final congressional passage of the $19.7 billion welfare and labor department appropriations bill could mean a halt in extra medical, antipollution, and certain education programs, a high government official says.

The warning, issued Friday by Creed C. Black, assistant secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, came three days before Congress reconvenes and acts on the measure which would appropriate $1.3 billion more than the administration wants.

Black, in a 10-page letter to Republican members of Congress, said "we could not make a single discretionary grant or loan for the rest of the year" if the entire $19.7 billion is appropriated and the President asks the departments to offset the expenditure impact.

"The consequence to medical research, health services, air pollution programs, rehabilitation, education research and a myriad of other project-supported activities are obvious," Black said.

President Nixon is expected to veto the measure if passed in its present form. This would open the way for an attempt by the Democratic-controlled Congress to override the veto, a struggle the administration has been gearing up for in recent weeks.

Program

the FHA will pay the balance. This includes all utilities.

The advantages of both programs according to CET are that they are privately owned, and therefore taxable by the city, and that the private owners are responsible for the maintenance of the buildings.

This differs considerably from the program Sedalia has adopted, where the burden of management is put on the city. Since the buildings will be city owned, they will not be taxed, presenting a double loss to the city budget, CET said.

Strong points stressed at the meeting were that the buildings would be privately constructed and financed. The programs outlined by FHA are for low income families and not for the assistance of construction, as with HUD development in association with the city.

Other points mentioned were that under private ownership, the burden of management and maintenance would be placed on the owner of the buildings or projects and not the city, and that under private ownership, land and buildings will be tax supported.

"FAITH" IS AN EXTRA INGREDIENT

As we fill each prescription, we know that in addition to the ingredients that your physician specifies, there is an extra intangible ingredient that does not appear in writing. It is 'Faith' that through his knowledge and experience he has prescribed a medicine that will help to cure or relieve an illness.

Sometimes, this 'Faith' can be as important as the medicine itself. We too have a great deal of faith in the accuracy of the prescriptions we dispense and we derive much satisfaction when you tell us on a future visit that someone in your family is now well.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine and we will gladly deliver it without charge. If you prefer you may pick it up at our drive up window. We keep accurate records for tax and insurance purposes. We carefully fill welfare prescriptions and deliver or mail free of charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Israeli

an says he believes Egypt has suffered about 1,000 dead since last April, compared with the Israeli death toll of 131 in Sinai fighting.

Since the 1967 Middle East war, the Israelis claim, they have knocked down 64 Egyptian jet aircraft, 50 of them since last March 8. The Egyptians say they have shot down 128 Israeli warplanes. That would be nearly half Israel's entire fighter force, according to the London-based Institute of Strategic Studies. Israel says it lost only nine planes to the Egyptians since 1967.

Israeli pilots say they rule the Egyptian skies. "It doesn't matter to me which side of the Suez Canal I am flying these days," one pilot was reported saying. "It's all the same."

If what the Israelis say is true —and the evidence seems in their favor — how did it come about in the face of Egypt's massive supplies of Soviet Aircraft, missiles, antiaircraft weapons and radar nets?

One has to dip into some recent military history for the answers.

The battle of Egypt actually was sparked by an artillery duel on Oct. 26, 1968. Until then, the blocked waterway separating the two armies had been relatively quiet, except for a spate of violence in the hot summer following the six-day war.

The Israelis claimed the Egyptian cannon caught their troops in the open, killing 15. They immediately made plans to build what has become known as the Bar-Lev line, a system of heavily fortified bunkers and trenches bordering the canal's eastern bank.

It wasn't until February that the Egyptians really understood the Israelis were digging in to stay. By March, the entire 103-mile long front was ablaze and the Egyptian chief of staff, Gen. Abdel Moneim Riad, was killed by Israeli fire on a frontline visit.

Nasser ordered:

"We demand of every soldier at the front to account for his actions if he sees the enemy and does not fire at him."

By April most of the inhabitants of Port Said, Suez and Ismailia had been evacuated. The Egyptians launched their first commando raid against the Israelis in Sinai.

The same month, the Israelis began the first step in destruction of the Arab air defense: The Early warning radar net and radar-controlled surface to air missile—SAM—sites, the key to control of the Egyptian skies. Israeli airplanes knocked out two Egyptian radar stations in southern Jordan, part of a system that tracked Israeli planes on take off from as far away as Tel Aviv.

On June 21, Israeli commandos made their third strike into Egypt, this time taking out another radar station—a British Decca type—just south of Suez.

Fighting increased, and on Sept. 9, Israel launched its most ambitious ground operation against Egypt since the 1967 war. An amphibious force, using tanks and supported by aerial cover, landed on the Egyptian-held west coast of the Suez Gulf and for 10 hours rolled over army camps, guard posts—and radar stations.

Now the Egyptian air defense could not tell where or when the Israeli fighter-bombers would strike. But strike they did—day after day on the canal and the Suez coast.

By November, a member of the Israeli general staff would say that Israel's planes had knocked out all the Soviet-supplied SAM 2 sites along the canal. All Egyptian radar sites had been destroyed or damaged, he added.

There were eight SAM sites on the canal and the Egyptians hurriedly set about replacing some of them—apparently stripping equipment from emplacements near Cairo, reliable informants believe.

The Israeli jets went back to work and by last Christmas the replacements also had been reported knocked out.

The sky road was open to Cairo and on Jan. 7 the Israelis struck Inshas, Tel el Kabir and Dahshur, bracketing the Egyptian capital.

The planes were back over the Nile Delta Jan. 1 hitting an air force depot at El Khanka and Tel el Kabir, reportedly Egypt's largest military installation.

Three days later, the planes ranged along the gulf and canal and 45 miles inland toward Cairo, hitting at military camps, motor pools and another radar station.

For the first time since the inland strikes started, the Israelis said, an Israeli airplane was knocked down by a antiaircraft fire, the pilot baling out into Egypt.

'America Sings' Is Presented

An entertainment consisting of speech illustrated popular songs with the theme, "America Sings," was provided by Ernest Huntzinger, Jr., who fascinated music lovers at the Sedalia Knife and Fork club dinner meeting in Bothwell Hotel Friday night. At the conclusion he was accorded a standing ovation shared by a Sedalian, Mrs. Della M. Berthouex, accompanist.

Louis R. Hughes, Jr., was program chairman.

The invocation was given by Don Livingston.

President Henry Keeler introduced the following guests: Capt. and Mrs. David Burr, Whiteman Air Force Base, with Mr. and Mrs. W.K. Van Vickle; Mrs. Oeo Rowley, Mitchell, S. D., with her daughter, Mrs. James Giokaris; Robert Mascher, Omaha, Neb., with Orrin Smith.

Recognized on the occasion of their 59th wedding anniversary were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wertz.

President Keeler appointed the following nominating committee to present a slate of officers for election at the February meeting: Chairman Russell Rhoads; Dr. Lawrence Geigher and John St. Clair.

Serving on the reception committee were: Mrs. and Mrs. T.L. Heinze, Mr. and Mrs. K.P. McCrary, Mr. and Mrs. W.L Reed and Miss Hazel Palmer; dining room hostesses, Mrs. K.U. Love and Miss Cecile Tilberry.

The next meeting will be held Wednesday evening, February 18 at Bothwell Hotel when Rabbi Morris Hersman will give a humorous and inspirational talk.

Zenith's New Hearing Aid Breakthrough!
A fuller, richer world of sound is yours because with the E.L.P.A. you get a choice of two highly selective tone settings specifically designed for those who require a high power aid. The E.L.P.A. offers you more hearing enjoyment from a single battery over a longer period of time (at least 120 hours) than any other high-power hearing aid Zenith has ever made. Convenient switch lets you cut out distracting room sounds when you use the telephone. See for yourself why the E.L.P.A. sets a new standard in hearing help.

Question

My wife passed away recently and now I must change the beneficiary of my insurance policies. Are there any problems I should anticipate in doing this?

Answer

Very probably you will need to complete a "change of beneficiary" form for each company involved. But it is possible you may have some problems. For example: if you have minor children, naming them beneficiaries of your life insurance is not the best way to channel insurance proceeds to them. You should discuss a "life insurance trust" with the trust officer of your bank.

Before you make the decision to leave your insurance to anyone who is not related to you, discuss this with your attorney. There is a common law principle that a beneficiary must have an insurable interest in the life of the insured. If your friend should not qualify on this basis, the insurance proceeds might transfer to your heirs.

There is also a possibility that during your wife's lifetime you transferred ownership of your insurance to her. Under certain circumstances your insurance may then be an asset of her estate which may or may not ultimately revert to you for a decision regarding a new beneficiary.

JAKARTA (AP) — More than 1,000 students besieged the Indonesian Mines Ministry today to demonstrate against the government's fuel prices hikes and allegedly corrupt officials.

About 100 troops armed with automatic weapons stood by in the drizzling rain, but there was no violence and no arrests. The students said they planned to demonstrate Saturday outside the Finance Ministry.

The students booed and jeered when Mines Minister Soemantri Brodjonegoro came outside to talk to them. After trying to explain the price hikes, the minister ordered them to disperse.

The students charged that corrupt officials crowd government departments and are bleeding Indonesia and sabotaging development.

MANILA (AP) — Twelve prisoners who invaded another cell with bamboo and aluminum daggers they had made and killed 14 other inmates five years ago have been sentenced to death in the electric chair.

Judge Pedro A. Revilla read the execution order in Manila Thursday at the request of a judge in Davao, 610 miles to the south, where the prison murders took place. Six others were acquitted for lack of evidence.

The men were kept in their prison cells at Davao and were not present to hear the sentence.

Reports of the trial gave no indication of the reason for the attack.

RIVIERE DU LOUP, Que. (AP) — A handyman who admitted he started the fire that killed at least 39 persons at a home for the aged in Notre-Dame-Du-Lac, Dec. 3 was charged Thursday with noncapital murder. A preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 23.

Louis Chiasson, 64, had testified before a coroner's inquest: "I only wanted to set a small fire so that I could put it out and so that everyone would realize how useful I was around the home."

The fire in the middle of the night leveled the three-storey, 75-year-old building. Twenty-nine inmates and the three staff members on duty escaped. Chiasson had been a resident, unpaid handyman at the home for the past eight years.

Ann Landers

No Need To Wed, Services are Free

Dear Ann Landers: I am 22 and have been going with a man 26. Our romance began about a year ago when I went to work for Roy.

Ann, I do everything for him I can possibly think of. I put in a full day at the store, then I cook for him, do his laundry, clean his apartment, take his suits to the cleaners, write letters to his mother, feed his dog and even wash his convertible.

Sunday, when Roy and I were walking up the steps of the church, we ran into his cousin. I went on ahead, thinking maybe they wanted to talk, just the two of them. I heard her say, "Gee, Roy, don't you think it's about time you got married?" He answered in a low voice he thought I wouldn't hear, "Me get married? Never! Why buy a cow when milk is so cheap?"

They both laughed and I wanted to die right then and there. Roy doesn't know I heard him. What should I do? — The Work Horse

Dear Friend: Obviously you consider yourself a horse and Roy thinks of you as a cow. I think you are a bit of a jackass, myself.

Stop running yourself ragged for him and see if it improves the relationship to the point where Roy thinks of you as a sweetheart instead of a dairy animal. If Roy doesn't ask you to marry him within six months, buzz off and let him hire a cook and a maid, do his own errands, and take his convertible to a car wash.

Dear Ann Landers: You can title this letter: "If you are in an accident, make sure you are at fault." If you aren't, you'll never collect.

Two years ago a careless driver slammed into me from the rear. I was the last in a row of slow-moving vehicles waiting for a truck to get off the highway.

I have lost many days from work, put up with indescribable pain, and run up some very big bills. I could go on for pages and tell you how I have suffered as a result of an accident which was not my fault. The insurance company representing the man who hit me is using every trick in the book to keep from paying off.

I've gone from doctor to doctor and no one wants to have anything to do with me. When they hear a lawsuit is pending, they say, "I can't find anything wrong." One doctor would not see me a second time after my attorney contacted him.

My case is going to court soon. How can I convince a jury that I do have pain when the doctors say they can't find any evidence that I have been injured? — Unsigned

Dear Unsigned: When a patient presents his problem as a legal one rather than a medical one, the doctor is apt to wonder whether he is seeking legitimate medical help. You may be a completely honest person with a valid case, but the fakers who holler "whiplash" and try to sock it to the insurance companies have made it difficult for victims with legitimate complaints.

Go to an orthopedic physician who has not seen you. Do not mention the lawsuit. If he says he can find no evidence of physical damage, you'd better get help for your nerves from another kind of doctor.

Do you feel ill at ease... out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Folk-Rock Duo Will Perform

Something refreshingly different in folk-rock music is headed for the Sedalia area when the Sedalia Council on the Arts presents itts first music activity of the new year.

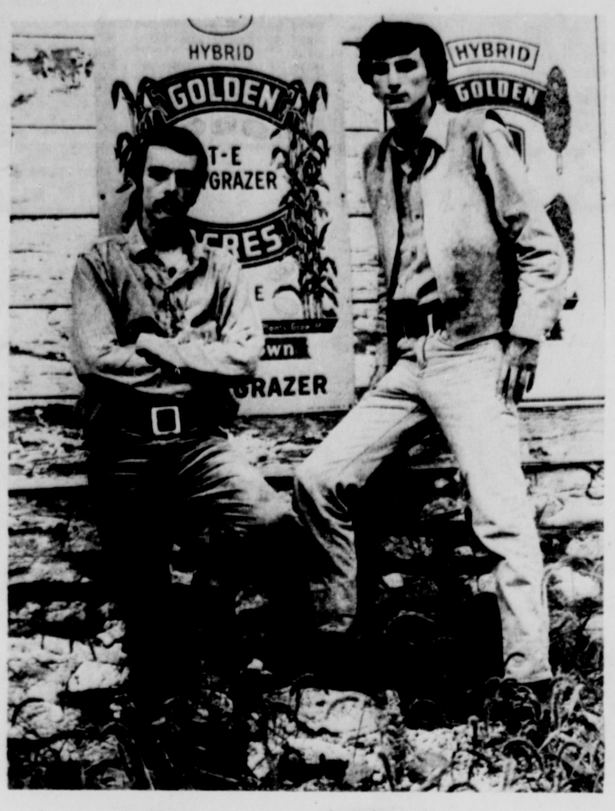
Mrs. Thomas Hopkins, president of the council, has announced the signing of a contract with Brewer and Shipley for two concerts at Smith-Cotton Auditorium the nights of Jan. 29 and 30.

"The Council on the Arts board is pleased to sponsor this folk duo, which should have wide appeal, especially for our young people," Mrs. Hopkins said. "The policy of the board is to offer performances in as many art forms for all ages as possible."

Brewer and Shipley are noted for their ability to produce creative harmony, both lyrically and musically. Both play the guitar, using mostly open chord tuning. They write and perform their own material, along with some Bob Dylan and Buffalo Spring songs.

Some of their record hits include "Rise Up, East Rider," "Down in L.A.," "Keeper of the Keys" and "Time and Changes." Brewer and Shipley have also made many appearances at night spots and college campuses in the Midwest.

Concert times will be 8 p.m. both nights. Admission will be by season ticket or door purchases.



Brewer and Shipley

A noted folk-rock duo, Brewer and Shipley, will be the first 1970 presentation of the Sedalia Council on the Arts Jan. 29-30 in the Smith-Cotton Auditorium.

Farmers Hear Talk On India

"India feels that the agricultural industry is more important than the trip to the moon," Hubert Kiehl told members of the Pettis County Farm Bureau Tuesday evening at a dinner meeting at Wesley Methodist Church.

Kiehl and his wife were members of a group of Missouri farm residents selected for a six week trip to India last summer, sponsored by the Farmers and World Affairs Exchange. The free trip was made possible through a contract with the federal government and private donations.

Using irrigation, Kiehl stated, farmers in India are able to produce as many as four crops a year. Kiehl, pointed out the contrast of old and new irrigation methods used in the country.

Another contrast, Kiehl mentioned, was the wooden plow which is still a part of India's agricultural scene. Although modern tractors and farm equipment are available, parts are difficult to obtain.

The Indians are most motivated to turn toward modern agricultural methods because of the many kinds of grain which they can produce with seeds which are as costly as $50 per pound.

Mrs. Kiehl said that she and her husband encountered a problem when she wore a bright red "Sari" one day which someone in India had given to her. It seems that red is the traditional marriage color and that the man to whom they were speaking thought Kiehl was attempting to present his wife to him as a bride.

The Keihl's were introduced by Otis Thomas, president of the Pettis County Farm Bureau, who presided over the meeting.

Travelogue On Scotland At Auditorium

Jonathan Hagar, a newspaperman for more than 20 years, will acquaint his audience with Scotland at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Smith-Cotton High School auditorium, when he will personally narrate his film, "Scotland Afore Ye" on the Rotary-sponsored travel and adventure series of travelogues.

Jonathan Hagar

Hagar, as a London correspondent for Stars and Stripes, covered the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II and wrote a guide book for American servicemen on cities of the British Isles. With an undiminished zest for travel and adventure, he now devotes his entire time to the travelogue platform and to the production of travelogues and educational films.

Scotland is presented in all is rugged splendor, as Hagar takes his viewers and listeners along the high roads to discover the country's historic cities and its romantic lochs and bens. Edinburgh's Princess Street, Holyroadhouse, Glasgow Loch Lomand and the beauties of Scotland's varied coastline will be presented.

Scotland's sheep, shaggy Highland cattle and superb fishing also are captured in brilliant color. Hagar makes it a person-to-person story spiced with humor and a spectacular look at a great and noble land.

Admission is by season ticket, or single admission ticket which may be purchased at the door on Tuesday night.

New Zealand is Upset Over Agnew Outbreaks

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Scores of New Zealanders in the streets of Auckland today were aghast at the impression the world got of their country during the visit of U.S. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

"New Zealand is like middle America, conservative and hardworking. The people here just don't go along with these activities against the vice president," declared a U.S. Embassy official to reporters at the height of the riots outside Agnew's hotel.

Interviews with Auckland people bore out this observation.

Taxi drivers, shop assistants and civil servants all expressed anger at the demonstrations Thursday and Friday.

"We need vigilantes to handle this," commented a bus driver.

"Shave their heads and send them to Vietnam," was one of the many remarks made in Auckland that had an American ring to it.

The hardcore anti-Agnew demonstrators were interested not only in getting out of Vietnam but also in building up what they term "revolutionary power" to overthrow the "stagnant" establishment.

Most New Zealanders tried to act as though the demonstrators shouting insults and waving Viet Cong flags at Agnew did not really exist. Local newspapers were extremely low key in their coverage staffers of one paper saying the editors had decided to play down the demonstrations "in the interests of the public."

But the sustained nature of the demonstrations and obvious organizational skill of their leaders indicated that New Zealand and its three million people —who have lived a placid life on this southernmost country in the Pacific Ocean—might in the 70s get their share of the revolutionary violence that swept so many nations in the 60s.

Court Rules On Expression

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A federal judge ruled Thursday that a shopping plaza does not have the right to prohibit distribution of literature on its mall.

Security guards at Portland's Lloyd Center told three young persons distributing antiwar pamphlets on Dec. 14, 1968, that they would be arrested if they did not leave. The center is an eight-acre complex with more than 150 stores and professional offices.

Danforth For Ouster Of Sheriff

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri Atty. Gen. John Danforth, accusing Sheriff Clyde Orton of Pemiscot County of "willful and fraudulent violation and neglect of his official duties," asked the Missouri Supreme Court to remove Orton from office Friday.

State liquor agents and highway patrolmen last weekend raided cafes accused of selling liquor or beer without a license in the southeast Missouri county.

Orton has denied any knowledge of widespread violations of liquor regulations and that he threatened liquor control officials from Alabama and Mississippi investigating an alleged bootleeging operation in Pemiscot County.

Missouri's liquor control supervisor, Harry Wiggins, said officials of the two southern states complained that whiskey was being shipped to dry counties in Mississippi and Alabama from southeast Missouri.

The attorney general, in his ouster petition, said Missouri law "makes it a misdemeanor for any person exercising or holding any office of public trust to be guilty of wilful and malicious oppression, partialty, misconduct or abuse of authority in his official capacity or under color of his office.

Orton, the petition said, "while acting in his official capacity . . . from Jan. 1, 1957, to he date of the filing of this information, knowingly, wilfully and unlawfully did commit acts" prohibited by state law.

The suit said while Orton has been sheriff, there have been "numerous and repeated open and notorious violations of the criminal laws of Missouri with respect to the sale of liquor and beer, and to gambling, which violations were widespread and general" in Pemiscot County.

Danforth's petition said in some cases the sheriff was advised of violations but did not investigate them.

The ouster suit was believed to be the first in Missouri since former Atty. Gen. John M. Dalton ousted the late Arthur C. Mosley of St. Louis County for permitting carnival gambling.

Enrollment in the University of Missouri-Rolla's 17 Ph.D. programs for 1969-70 shows an increase of 53 per cent over last year.

Guests of Honor

The recent gala opening concert of the Kansas City Philharmonic season honored select out-of-town guests with a festive pre-concert dinner at the Kansas City Club. Pictured are Mr. and Mrs. Abe Rosenthal, right, of Sedalia, with Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Wilson, Kansas City. Mrs. Wilson is president of the women's Philharmonic division. The Rosenthals were feted for their interest in bringing the Kansas City Symphony to Sedalia. Following the dinner-reception the guests were treated to a rare appearance of the world-renounced violin solist Yehudi Menuhin.

Anti-Inflation Moves Are Slowing Down Production

WASHINGTON (AP) — Evidence is mounting that the government has fought one part of inflation to a standstill but its campaign against price increases still has quite a way to go.

Three reports Friday clearly confirmed what became apparent the day before: real production is no longer increasing and the effects of restraint are beginning to show up in personal income.

The figures could, although there's no assurance they do, mean the corner has been turned on the inflationary binge that last year brought the greatest price increases since 1951, a Korean War year that also saw the beginning of the economic decline into the recession of 1953-54.

Industrial production, personal income and housing starts reports for December showed the effect of the administration policies. Production dropped for the fifth straight month, while income showed the smallest gain of 1969 and the depressed housing industry saw new starts drop further yet behind the number needed to meet the national goal of 26 million new homes between 1968 and 1978.

Taken together, they provided dramatic corroboration for Thursday's Gross National Product report showing that the economy grew not at all during December.

Industrial production, perhaps the most significant of the three, fell three-tenths of one per cent and ended December at 170.9 per cent of the 1957-1959 average against which it is figured. Output for the year was 4.4 per cent above the 1968 figure.

Personal income was the only one of the three to show an increase, but that was smaller than any other month of 1969 and continued the tapering of income growth that began in September. The month's gain was $2¼ billion, compared to average gains of $5¼ billion in the first eight months and $3¼ billion from September through November.

Nearly all the December increase was attributed by the Commerce Department to wages and salaries, while income and dividends paid to business owners declined.

Housing starts, figured at a seasonally adjusted annual rate, fell to 1,245,000 units compared to 1,297,000 in November and 1,507,000 in December 1968. The industry's long slide into deep trouble, caused by tight money and high interest rates, began early in the year. But it has yet to push the industry as low as 1966, when starts fell to 845,000 in October.

The hard economic indicators are the core of economic forecasting, but government economists are reluctant to say when price increases will be controlled. White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler cited the wholesale and consumer price indexes Friday as evidence the administration's policies are working, but prices still are rising at 5 per cent or so annually, the highest in years.

Consumer prices, Ziegler said, rose 6.4 per cent in the first six months of 1969 and only 5.4 per cent in the next five months, through November. Wholesale prices climbed 6.3 per cent in the first half and 3.2 per cent in the next five.

December figures aren't out yet, but the consumer index for that month will be released Monday at the Labor Department.

Several Firms to Benefit From Tax Bill Fine Print

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tax reform bill of 1969, launched as a means of closing tax loopholes, ended up with enough fine print in its 1,004 sections to benefit a number of special industries and corporations.

Now that the bill has become the 255-page Public Law 91-172 and the Treasury Department has started spelling out its effects in regulations, the benefits to certain industries and corporations are evident.

The investment credit, by which businesses recovered 7 per cent of equipment outlays, is repealed retroactively to April 18, 1969. But the repeal is surrounded by special transition provisions, so that:

—Lykes Steamship Co., New Orleans, building a new barge-carrying ship, can claim the exemption not only on the ship, which was contracted for before the deadline, but also the barges, which were not.

—Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and McDonnell-Douglas Corp. can claim it on equipment to finish orders for jumbo aircraft.

—Seatrain Shipbuilding of New York has an exception from the rule which makes contracts between affiliates ineligible.

—Uniroyal, Inc., which may have been eligible anyway, is assured of credit on a $73 million plant in Ardmore, Okla.

—Twenty-nine pipeline companies who contended they would have contracted for equipment in time except for paperwork delays by the Federal Power Commission, are cleared to claim credits that may go to $39 million.

Railroads didn't get a blanket exemption on rolling stock ordered through 1970—as the bill provided at one stage. But they got a compensating privilege, to depreciate the rolling stock in just five years.

Attempts to tighten down tax preferences in some other areas of the law also were eased or exceptions were retained in the final draft.

A limited and indirect tax on some interest paid by municipal bonds was voted by the House. The Senate Finance Committee knocked it out after state and local officials dealers and financial institutions mounted a strong counterattack. The deletion stuck.

The House voted to require foundations to divest themselves of control of businesses, cutting their holdings to 20 per cent of the stock of any one company, but the basic provision was eased substantially in the end. The foundations must cut down to 50 per cent holdings in the near future, 35 per cent in the long term.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and gas pipelines got legislative underpinning for their plans to use accelerated depreciation for tax purposes on new equipment, while basing rates on slower straight-line depreciation. This enables them to accumulate working capital.

Oklahoma Senator Wants Meteorite

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oklahoma's senior senator says he wants the Smithsonian Institution to display the "Lost City Meteorite" in Oklahoma, where it was found six days ago.

A spokesman at the Smithsonian said Sen. Fred R. Harris' letter of request had not been received Thursday, but that the display in Oklahoma "undoubtedly will happen in time."

The meteorite has generated widespread scientific interest since it was discovered on a snow-covered rural road near Lost City in northeastern Oklahoma on Jan. 9, just six days after it plummeted to earth.

Much of the interest lies in the fact that meteorites are seldom located in such a short time, and the rapid recovery may lead to new discoveries and findings.

Loss is Staggering In Nation's Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — A national survey has found a staggering amount of vandalism and other crime in the public schools, causing school officials to take drastic measures ranging from electronic surveillance to police dogs.

In a rare nationwide survey on school vandalism, the Baltimore school system learned 36 districts that responded suffered $6.5 million in damages at the hands of arsonists and vandals during the 1967-68 academic year.

The report, made public Friday by a Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee, told how schools are becoming virtual fortresses outfitted with closed circuit television networks, sensitive microphones, flood lights, police dogs and high fences sometimes topped with barbed wire.

That report included some of the following data:

—In New York City alone 243,652 school windows were broken during the 1967-68 school year with a replacement cost of $1.21 million. In addition, New York had 196 school fires and 2,757 larcenies.

—Oakland, Calif., where new security precautions include audible and silent alarm systems, night lighting and fences, the 1967-68 vandalism loss was $309,002.

—Los Angeles reported 5,138 incidents costing $940,124 while Washington, D. C., reported about eight times as many—43,728—but costing only $410,463.

In addition to the report on crime in the schools, there was a warning Friday that increased political turbulence may be in store at the nation's high schools.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, writing in the Parents and Teachers Association magazine, said the nation's high schools are being targeted for campaigns by New Leftists hoping to widen the gaps between students and administrators.

The survey and Hoover's article were released independently and there was no implication that the New Left was responsible for the recent problems in the schools.

Specifically, Hoover said the Students for a Democratic Society is attempting to characterize school principals as the "on-the-spot symbol of the hated Establishment."

Kirkpatrick Says Party Must Update

MEXICO, Mo. (AP)—Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick said today Missouri's Democratic party must modernize its approach if it expects to win in 1970 and 1972.

"Our party too long has followed a structure which is proven to be outmoded," he said. "Not only have the problems of our two metropolitan areas outpaced the weak response to them by state government and our party, our inner organization has also failed to be updated. . .

"The organization and psychology which worked for the 1940 voter simply will not work for the 1970 or 1972 voter."

Kirkpatrick made his critical comments in remarks prepared for a meeting of the State Democratic Commission which is holding a series of hearings on reorganization of the party structure and bylaws.

Kirkpatrick said the entire process of choosing national convention delegates should be reorganized to insure that all segments of the party are represented.

School Shambles in Nigeria

LAGOS (AP) — The new school year begins this week in Nigeria, but in the war-ravaged land where the Ibos live it will be six months, perhaps longer, before the jungle drums beat out the familiar stacatto notes of: "Come, Come, to school."

There are no schools to go to. By conservative estimate more than a million and a quarter children in what was the secessionist state of Biafra have not been to school in more than two years.

Many of them—no one yet really knows how many—are lying jammed in hospital wards suffering from Kwashiorkor, the dreaded protein deficiency disease that has claimed many lives in the war.

And wonder and concern grows at what their fate will be now that the missionaries and relief workers who cared for them have been declared persona non grata by the federal government for remaining inside Biafra.

Meeting urgently in Lagos, church leaders, both Roman Catholic and Protestant, are pleading with the Nigerian government for a transition period of at least a week for turning the hospitals over to a new set of relief workers.

Even though the hospitals have been severely damaged by the war and medical supplies ransacked and vandalized, there is no shortage of African doctors, nurses and technicians in the surrendered Ibo lands.

"Among their population the Ibo tribes had an incredibly high percentage of professional men: doctors, dentists, X-ray technicians, most of whom elected to remain with the break-away state," said a missionary spokesman.

The Catholics alone ran five hospitals at Onitsha, three at Owerri, two at Umuahia and three at Enugu, the old Biafran capital. As the federal armies swept north and east, many hospital and clinic staffs moved with the children into the bush, setting up sick bays and kwashiorkor wards in abandoned schools and stores.

Under Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon's general amnesty for those misled by the revolution" there should be no shortage of African teachers. Few educators, however, see any hope of getting a new school term started until after August, the traditional four week summer recess in Nigeria, if even then. Expelling the missionaries, both Protestant and Catholic, who managed the schools will not help speed up the process.

Unlike the rest of Nigeria, where the local state governments had taken over the church schools, all the schools in the Ibo lands of eastern Nigeria were run by churchmen. The area was about to take over the mission schools when the civil war broke out 30 months ago.

For a time during the war, as the Ibos began to retreat into the bush before the advancing federal armies, the missionaries, both Catholic and Protestant, attempted to set up jungle schools.

"But they were condemned as collaborators with the federal government and the teachers were carted off," said a missionary schoolman who asked not to be identified.

With the surrender of Biafra, the main concern of missionary leaders in Lagos is the survival of the children and the safety of the priest nuns and missionaries still behind the lines.

The Catholics, in particular, are worried about the 75 priests and nuns who elected to remain in the Ibo territories when the federal armies closed the final pincer that spelled the end of Biafra. Their concern has been heightened by Gowon's fiery reaction to Pope Paul VI's speech in which he employed the word "genocide" in relation to Nigeria's troubles.

The priests and nuns, most of them Irish-born members of the Congregation of the Holy Ghost, have been included among the outside charity organizations declared persona non grata by the federal government.

Church leaders are now negotiating with federal authorities to fly them out, offering to pay their way out via commercial or chartered flights.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Monsees, Route 2, he is married to the former Nancy Menefee of Sedalia.

Banks, Savings and Loan Houses Did Well in 1969

Growth in assets in Sedalia's financial institutions paralleled that of other facets of community growth, according to a review of the statements of the four local commercial banks and two savings and loan companies.

Third National Bank, Sedalia Bank & Trust Co., Union Savings Bank and Missouri State Bank as of Dec. 31 showed a total assets increase of $5,252,949.69, for a new combined high of $57,671,314.21. When First State Savings Association's increase is included, the gain becomes $8,825,470.92, and total assets in the five institutions become $85,128,705.96.

Desposits for the commercial banks increased from $47,034,670.19 to $51,307,466.30, for a gain of $4,272,796.11, or 9 per cent. First State Savings deposits added to that of the commercial banks brings the total deposits to $75,882,886.12 and the total deposit growth to 6,867,806.04, or nearly 10 per cent.

Higher interest rates did not decrease loan activity in the community, as lending increased from a total of $44,596,886.89 to $50,636,676.47 for the five above-mentioned financial houses. This was a loan increase of $6,039,789.58, or over 11 per cent. Of this amount, First State Savings, whose loan demand for first mortgage loans on single family dwellings held firm during most of the year, increased its lending by $3,857,706.03, or more than 18 per cent.

Although, Farm & Home Savings Association has a branch office in Sedalia, the financial statement of the Nevada, Mo. based company which operates throughout Missouri and Texas does not separate the operations of its branch offices, and therefore its Sedalia figures were not available for use here. The entire operation of Farm & Home enjoyed unprecedented growth in 1969 and this growth included the Sedalia office.

It is estimated that dividends at year-end on savings deposits and certificates of deposit in all Sedalia financial houses totaled more than $3 million.

Contrary to the generally adverse trends which prevailed in the money markets throughout the country during the past year, Sedalia's financial picture has been good and funds have been available for needed growth and expansion in the community.

Even the dampener of $1,100,000 in state money being withdrawn from Sedalia banks in the last half of the year did little to dim the healthy financial glow.

Art Museum To Suspend a Fee

NEW YORK (AP) — The Museum of Modern Art has announced it will suspend its $1.50 entrance fee on Mondays to make its facilities "available to more members of the community."

"The museum has long been concerned that its admission fees may have precluded access to its resources by many people in the city," Walter Bareiss, chairman of the museum's operating committee, said Thursday.

The museum, which does not receive a public subsidy but relies on public fees and endowments for its support, has been under pressure from various groups to adopt a free admissions policy.

Starting Feb. 9, the museum will be open free every Monday, usually its lightest day, from 2 to 9 p.m.

The moose is the largest living member of the deer family.

Beer, Bananas Close Turnpike

STRATFORD, Conn. (AP) — A frozen concoction of beer and bananas closed the Honey Spot Road exit of the Connecticut Turnpike Thursday night.

A beer truck collided with a banana truck, spilling the cargoes of both. Firemen rushed to the scene and sprayed water on the mess, which froze.

Famous Aviator Dies on Thursday

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (AP) — William Thomas Piper Sr., 89, known as the "Henry Ford of Aviation" and the "grand old man of private flying" died Thursday night at Lock Haven Hospital.

Piper was board chairman of Piper Aircraft Corp., one of the larger companies in the production of low and medium priced aircraft. Piper sold 4,474 planes in 1968 for $96.7 million.

Cave Donations On the Increase

CAMDENTON, Mo. (AP) — Inflation is raising revenues at the wishing well, Eddie Miller, manager of Bridal Cave at the nearby Lake of the Ozarks, said Thursday.

Bridal Cave's wishing well is cleaned out yearly of its coins and the money is put into a college scholarship fund for a Camdenton High School graduate. Miller said among the coins recovered for 1969 there were more than four times the number of quarters and nearly twice the number of dimes as in the previous two years.

The sum collected for 1969, Miller said, was $423. Total for the previous two years was $457.05. The number of visitors to the cave was nearly the same each year, Miller added.

Dangers to Environment Subject of Voter League

Bill Young, environmental health agent, of the University of Missouri Extension Center, spoke to members of the Sedalia Provisional League of Women Voters at the Farm and Home Building at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Young spoke to 18 persons present at the meeting on the subject of pollution, and its effect on the environment in relation to human health.

Young said environmental health becomes important whenever man's environment is effected by him, which in turn effects the condition of man's mental, physical and social health.

The program of environmental health in the nation began at the University of Missouri, and this is the first year of its operation. The program's purpose is to educate the general public on "what is happening" in the area of pullution, Young said.

The presentation by Young, the first such agent of his type in the nation, was accented by color slides illustrating an analogy between life support systems found on lunar spacecrafts and those found on earth.

Man requires plenty of good air, food, water, land and waste elimination systems, it was pointed out. If any of these needs are destroyed or limited, man will feel the ill effect, whether it be on earth or in a space, the presentation showed.

Yougn closed his presentation by warning of one danger in the approach to environmental pollution problems — that of viewing problems in single units instead of an overall outlook on interacting life systems.

Publishing Concern Sold in Oklahoma

ALVA, Okla. (AP) — Brooks H. Bicknell, president and publisher of the Courier Publishing Co., Inc., Thursday announced sale of the company to the newly formed Alva Newspapers Inc.

Walter Handy, formerly of Topeka, Kan., has been named publisher of the new papers. Hayd said there will be no changes in editorial policy or staff personnel on the papers.

Will Not Tolerate Any Flag Marking

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — Nassau County Dist. Atty. William Cahn has announced that displaying an American flag altered with political inscriptions or designs will be met with "arrest and prosecution."

In a news conference Thursday, Cahn said he had acted on the complaint of a New York City fire captain, Raymond W. Gimmler, of East Rockaway.

Cahn said Gimmler, who organized a "Support Our Boys" parade in 1967, obtained a pin with a peace symbol superimposed on an American flag and gave it to him for investigation.

Cahn said that after looking into the matter and consulting with his staff he had decided that use of such pins or decals violated Section 136 of the state's General Business Law, which was passed in 1905.

He said the law prohibits placing "any word, figure, mark, picture, design, drawing, or any advertisement, of any nature, upon any flag, standard, color, shield or ensign of the United States of America or the State of New York."

Woodchucks or groundhogs hibernate up to eight months each year.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

In Combination With The Sunday Morning Capital

Sedalia, Missouri, Sunday, January 18, 1970 — B Section

Eagleton Learning the Ropes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thomas F. Eagleton, Missouri's freshman senator who used to get lost in the Senate office buildings, has learned his way around. In one year he's found his way to a position as one of the emerging spokesmen for liberal Democrats.

He has spoken up on more major issues on the Senate floor than newcomers traditionally are expected to. He has clashed legislatively with a powerful old committee chairman—and won. And he has traveled widely as a partisan speaker for his party, which he candidly says needs shaping up.

For the 40-year-old Eagleton, once a fiery St. Louis prosecutor and former lieutenant governor of Missouri, the introductory year to national politics was hectic. The stocky lawyer paused recently to assess that year.

"People tell me, 'Tom, you constantly oppose the administration. Why don't you back it in something?' Look, I don't always oppose it.

"I voted for Wally (Walter J. Hickel (secretary of the interior). I supported the draft lottery, postal reform, and Nixon's ban on chemical and biological warfare. And redrafting the welfare system—Nixon's right there. The system now is a makeshift shambles, full of inequities."

Eagleton grinned and said, "So you see, I'm not always against everything."

What the young senator did not mention in that context was that in his first year he:

—Spoke out in Senate debate and voted against the Safeguard missile defense system.

—Delivered a Senate speech and voted against Nixon's nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynesworth to the U.S. Supreme Court.

—Frequently and vigorously opposed what he considers nonessential military spending apart from the Safeguard expenditures.

—Sharply criticized Vietnam war policy, particularly U.S. support of the Thieu-Ky regime. Lately he has muted this criticism somewhat.

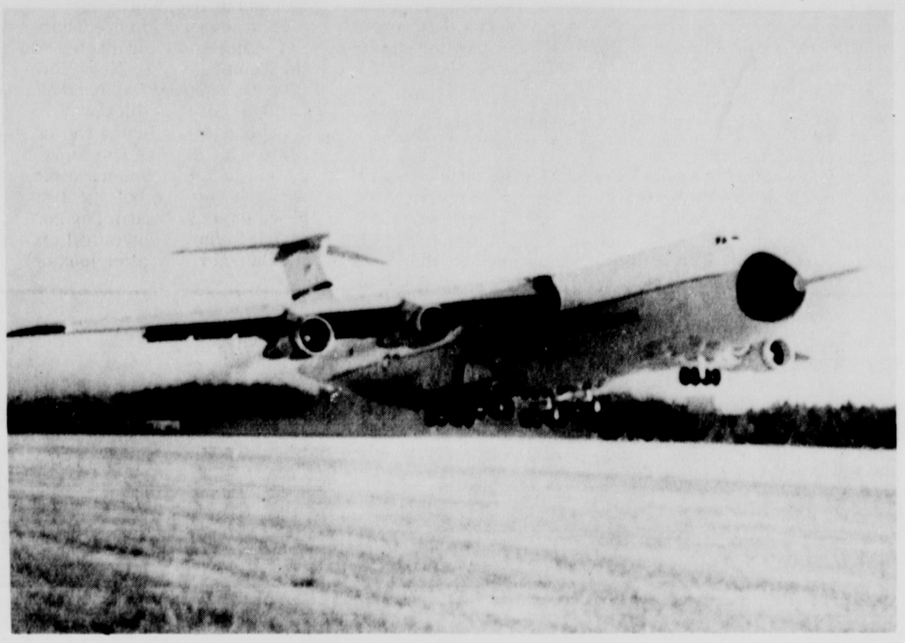
Of military spending in general, Eagleton says: "I firmly believe that this country does not have to spend 50 per cent of its budget on defense."

Eagleton had some success in this field his first year. He was a leading congressional critic of the Main Battle Tank system.

His floor victory in a clash with Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, ended with a cut of $10 million, from $50 million to $40 million, in research and development spending on the tank.

Eagleton admittedly got off to a cautious start in the Senate. "What can you do when you get lost looking for committee hearing rooms?" he said.

When he found his Senate legs, he and Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, cosponsored a resolution demanding the Saigon government relax its wartime restrictions—or face an American pullout within 60 days. Like many other war resolutions, it awaits committee attention.



Giant is Grounded

The Air Force has grounded its fleet of 10 giant C5A jet transport planes when a wing crack was discovered on one of the craft. Preliminary inspections have been ordered on all of the planes so far produced. (UPI)

Divorce Granted Under a New Law

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Robert Cummings is the first Hollywood personality to end a marriage under California's new divorce law which recognizes "irreconcilable differences" as the only ground necessary.

Superior Court Judge William B. Hogoboom dissolved the 25-year marriage of Cummings and Mary Elliott Cummings Thursday under the new law which took effect Jan. 1.

The new law holds that only one partner in the marriage need state that there are irreconcilable differences. The law applies retroactively to all cases previously filed but not yet brought to trial.

Cummings filed his divorce suit last March accusing the former actress of extreme cruelty.

In a cross complaint, Mrs. Cummings charged him with adultery, desertion and extreme cruelty, and said he used drugs.

Roof Collapses On Empty School

LEBANON, N.H. (AP) — The roof of a combined elementary and high school here collapsed today beneath the weight of two feet of snow, barely 90 minutes after some 1,200 pupils were safely evacuated from the building.

The pupils were evacuated shortly after the start of the school day when parts of the roof began to crumble.

"It sounded just like a shotgun," said School Supt. William Merrill.

The deterioration first was noted in the roof and walls of a gymnasium which connects the two facilities, school officials said.

Find Crack in Giant Plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — Discovery of a crack in the wing of a C5 Galaxy supertransport, the world's largest aircraft, has prompted the Air Force to suspend flights of the huge planes until the wings are modified and strengthened.

The Air Force currently has 10 of the airplanes which have aroused controversy in Congress because of their cost. An 11th supertransport was due to run off the Lockheed assembly line today.

Officials said Friday the crack of 8 to 10 inches in length was found as a plane was undergoing wing modifications at the Lockheed-Georgia plant in Marietta, Ga.

The break occurred in the area of the wing that earlier failed static load tests registering 125 per cent of the designed load limit, the Air Force said.

Despite the crack, officers said it was felt the planes could be flown safely.

The crack was discovered on a plane that had been undergoing flight tests at Edwards Air Force Base in California. A spokesman said the plane probably had the crack in its wing while it was being flown across country to undergo modifications ordered as a result of the earlier static test failure. The apparent weakness found during the ground tests prompted engineers to design an aluminum brace to strengthen 11 points on the huge wing.

This is the second time in less than a month that the Air Force has had to halt the flights of expensive and controversial new aircraft because of problems with the wings.

All 223 of its operational F111 swinging fighter bombers were grounded following a crash in Nevada which killed two pilots. The Air Force said earlier this week a wing had broken off the plane because of a failure in steel and that all the other F111s were being checked out.

The Pentagon planned originally to purchase 120 of the planes that generally have been praised as trouble free. But the Nixon administration cut back the order to 81 planes, largely because of spiraling costs.

The latest estimate of the total cost for the 81 planes has been $5.1 billion.

The plane in which the wing crack was discovered had logged 297 flying hours in 84 flights, authorities said. The 230-foot supertransports are designed to carry tanks, helicopters and troops.

The Air Force termed the C5 action a flight suspension rather than a grounding. According to a Pentagon spokesman, this means the planes can be flown in an emergency. If a plane such as the F111 is designated as grounded, the spokesman added, it cannot be taken aloft.

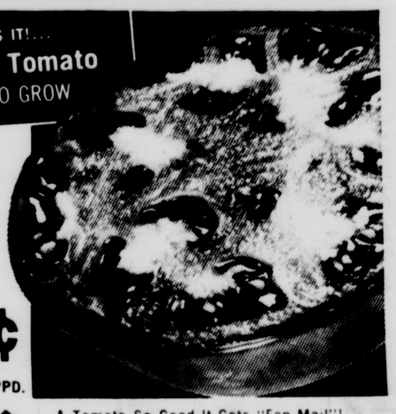
"Hy-X" ONLY HENRY FIELD'S HAS IT!...
Extraordinary New Tomato
GREAT FLAVOR, EASY TO GROW



Less Foliage...More Tomatoes!

HENRY FIELD

Our customers have written us hundreds of enthusiastic letters about HY-X. HY-X plants don't get big or gawky, but grow so compact and sturdy you needn't bother to stake them. Very prolific, too: HY-X starts early, bears abundantly 'til frost. The fruit is deep scarlet, globe-shaped, full of firm yet tender "meat," not just a lot of water and seeds. HY-X won't sun scald or crack. And it grows well 'most anywhere, even in semi-arid regions too dry for ordinary tomatoes. We want you to be a HY-X fan too, so right now we're making a most generous offer . . . more than 100 seeds for only 10¢! That barely covers our postage and handling costs, so don't pass this up—get yours now!

WE'LL MAIL YOU A BIG PACKET (over 100 seeds) FOR ONLY 10¢ PPD.

A Tomato So Good It Gets "Fan Mail"!

Cautious in Jetport Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conservation organizations are cheering an agreement to ban construction of a huge jetport near Everglades National Park in southern Florida but they caution that "the fruits of victory" depend on how the agreement is carried out.

Dr. Anthony Wayne Smith, president of the National Parks Association, said other protective measures must be taken to safeguard the life environment in central and southern Florida.

Dr. Smith and Dr. Elvis Stahr, president of the National Audubon Society, are cochairmen of the Everglades Coalition, a group of 23 national conservation and labor organizations formed last spring to fight the proposed jetport and protect the natural environment of the Everglades.

The Nixon administration this week announced the agreement between the federal state and local authorities forbidding the building of the jetport by the Dade County Port Authority in the Everglades 45 miles west of Miami and six miles from one boundary of the Everglades National Park.

Scientists and conservationists argued that a jetport would damage the ecology of the Everglades and the national park, perhaps irretrievably.

President Nixon hailed the agreement as "an outstanding victory for conservationists."

The Everglades Coalition cochairmen agreed but said "Much depends on how rapidly the present runway is removed to a satisfactory alternative location and how completely the present site is restored to its original condition."

Mark Golden Year

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bredwell

A surprise open house was held Jan. 4 for Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bredwell, 2230 First Street Terrace, in honor of the couple's Golden Wedding Anniversary. Children and grandchildren of the honorees hosted the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Bredwell were united in marriage Dec. 30, 1919, at Shickley, Neb., by the Rev. Arthur Payne, and have lived the major part of their married life in Sedalia.

The Bredwells' sons and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Bredwell, Steve and Marianna, Sedalia, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Bredwell, Kansas City, Kan., were in charge of the celebration arrangements.

Serving were Mrs. Loova Ford and Mrs. Margaret Jonson. Granddaughter, Marianna Bredwell, received the gifts. The honorees received many long distance telephone calls, telegrams and flowers from friends and relatives.

Relatives attending from out of town were, Mrs. Annabelle Anderson, Hebron Neb.; Mrs. Rose Portwood, Fairbury, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. Leland Bredwell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Dodge and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dodge and family, all of Beatrice, Neb.

Celebrate 50th Year

VERSAILLES — Mr. and Mrs. E. L. White, Glenstead, were honored with an open house Dec. 28 at the Methodist Church. The occasion marked the Whites Golden Wedding Anniversary.

The remembrance table was centered with a large white wedding bell which was surrounded with small matching bells and arrayed with a golden '50' numeral.

The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a gold '50', decorated with golden bells and wreaths, and encircled with white swans and gold mums.

Mr. and Mrs. White were united in marriage Dec. 24, 1919, at Versailles, by the Rev. C. W. Kent of Tipton.

The honorees' six children and their families all attended. They are Mrs. Walter Zimmerman, California; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Williams and Miss Juanita White, Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Carroll and family, Bunceton; Mr. and Mrs. Cerlos White and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd White and son, all of Versailles. Mrs. Rosa Ash, Mrs. White's mother, was also present.

Hedgecocks Are Wed 60 Years

KNOB NOSTER — Mr. and Mrs. Vester Hedgecock, Dunksburg, were honored by members of Mt. Zion Church Jan. 4 on the occasion of their 60th wedding anniversary.

The informal program included short talks by Brother Leo McNeall, Sedalia, a former pastor, and Brother William Hilderbarand, present pastor, as well as special music selections.

A pink and white color scheme was used in the decorations. White linen covered the serving table which held a two-tiered cake, decorated with pink and white sugar roses and topped with the numeral '60'. Pink tapers in candelabras flanked the cake.

Serving were Mrs. N. W. Dirck, Mrs. Elroy Schroeder and Mrs. Melvin Collett. Mrs. George Strickland was in charge of the gift table.

Mr. and Mrs. Hedgecock were united in marriage Jan. 3, 1910, at Hiawatha, Kan., and homsteaded a large track of land in North Dakota before returning to Missouri in the early 1920s. They have since resided int the Dunksburg community where Mr. Hedgecock was born.

Among those attending the celebration were the honorees' son, Dr. Loyd Hedgecock, Mrs. Hedgecock, daughter Marta and son, Kim, Kirkwood; and their daughter, Mrs. Lyle Higgins and Mr. Higgins, Lee's Summit. Relatives attended from Oddessa, Indpendence, Lee's Summit, Warrensburg, LaMonte and Knob Noster.

Those attending from Sedalia were Mr. and Mrs. John Welch, Miss Denny Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Leo McNeall and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith.

A Panel Talk to AAUW On Man, Environment

The American Association of University Women held its January meeting at the Farm and Home Building with president, Mrs. Ned Postels, presiding. Mrs. Jack Smith, program chairman, introduced a panel which discussed man and his environment as related to Sedalia and the state of Missouri.

Panel members were Mayor Ralph Walker, moderator, and John Schondelmeyer, sanitary engineer of the Missouri Pollution Board; Robert Cunningham, city engineer; Art Bethke, sanitation officer, and Herb Taylor, manager of the water department.

Mr. Taylor traced the growth of the Sedalia water system from 1872 to present day, using slides to show the many improvements which have been made. He stated that Sedllia has 131 miles of water mains and 500 fire hydrants. All new pipes are sterilized, he said, and tests of the water are made every hour. In addition to water from Spring Fork Lake, he said, the department has three deep wells and future plans include more wells and filters, a new reservoir, a dam on Flat Creek and a million gallon tank on the west side of town.

Pollution of Missouri waterways by improper disposal of waste material, failure to control erosion and check new chemicals, and failure to enact proper legislation were among the items mentioned by Mr. Schondelmeyer. While the federal government is concerned with interstate waterways, he said, the state's concern is to preserve the purity and beauty of in-state waterways. Mr. Schondelmeyer said he believed the objectives and determined attitude of today's youth will lead to vast improvements in pollution problems because many young people are now working toward degrees in sanitary engineering.

Mr. Cunningham explained how Sedalia's sewage system is operated and said Sedalia has 80 miles of sewers, seven pumps, three treatment plants and several lagoons. The treatment plants are using a new plastic filter material which, he said, although in the experimental stage, has been highly successful and out-of-state sanitation engineers have shown interest in it.

The problems of disposal of garbage and trash in Sedalia were discussed by Mr. Bethke who said obtaining areas for landfills has been extremely difficult. Since there is no burning law, he said, the burial of waste materials requires a large acreage which will soon be exhausted. He said Sedalia has seven garbage trucks and four large pieces of equipment at the landfills. If more money was available, he said, additional collections of garbage could be made.

At the question and answer period following the discussion, Mayor Walker said that visitors are welcome to tour the various facilities of the city.

Mrs. Bryan Howe announced plans for the Great Decisions program which begins in February, and Mrs. Postels urged members to attend the Jan. 24 Epsilon Sigma Alpha tea at the Farm and Home Bldg. The DIANA award will be given at this tea, and Mrs. Virgil Ellis of AAUW is one of the five finalists. Mrs. Postels also announced plans for the 1970 celebration of the 30th anniversary of the Sedalia AAUW chapter.

Refreshments were served by the hostess Mrs. Donald Garst, and her committee, Mrs. Jack Smith, Mrs. Tommy Hunter, Mrs. Carl Folkerts, Mrs. Leo Coxon and Mrs. Morris Brown.

Navy Needs More Nurses

The Navy Department, in reiterating the continuing need for additional nurses, recently announced its qualification criteria.

Currently, registered nurses serving in such capacity may be eligible for direct appointment in the Navy Nurse Corps. Student nurses may apply for a commission as a Navy Nurse six months prior to graduation. Openings also exist for male nurses. The grade in which commissioned is contingent on education attained, age and experience.

The service nurse career is carefully planned from the beginning. Generally, it follows a pattern from staff level assignments to clinical specialization and supervisory duties as rapidly as the individual can assume and discharge the additional responsibility. Duty assignments run the complete range of professional nursing practice.

The Navy Nurse is a commissioned officer of the United States Navy, with all the respect and honor due such a commission. But above all, they are nurses, using to the fullest their knowledge and their skill in the care of the sick and wounded.

Serving as a Navy Nurse is a humane, as well as a patriotic privilege. If you are a registered Nurse, or in training, the Navy Nurse Corps is waiting to welcome you. See your Navy Recruiter, 612 South Ohio, for further information.

Altrusa Club Hears Program Evaluation

The Altrusa Club of Sedalia held a noon luncheon meeting recently at Bothwell Hotel with Mrs. Imogene Peoples, presiding in the absence of the president.

The program evaluation for the past six months was reviewed by Mrs. Mildred Goddard, international relations chairman; Miss Opal O'Briant, vocational services chairman; Mrs. Ann Hamilton, a community services committee member; Miss Sue Heckart, treasurer, and Mrs. Peoples, program coordinator.

A report was given on the progress of the club project.

At the next meeting, John A. Sneed will give a report on "Operation Crossroads." The international relations committee will be in charge of the program.

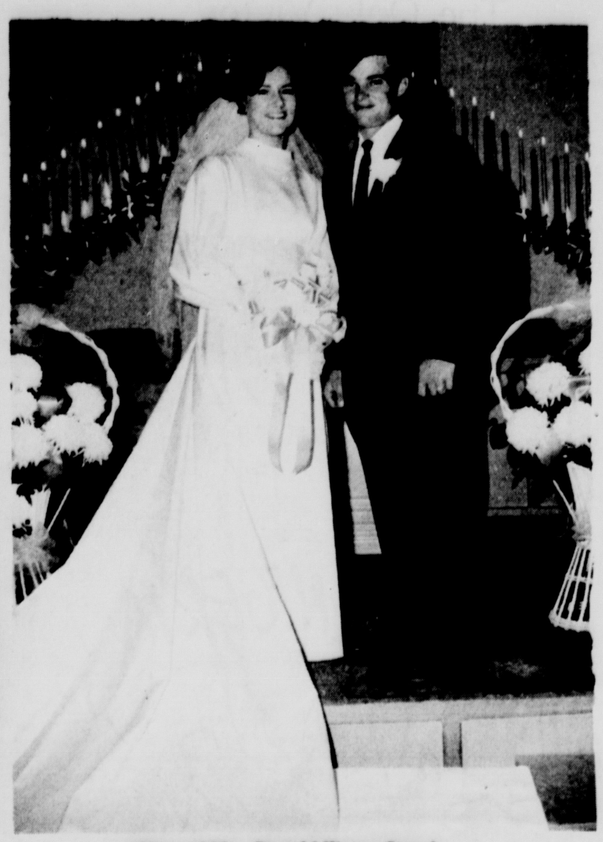
Mrs. John William Emo



Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wayne Storck

Miss Karon Ann Brenner Weds John William Emo

ST. LOUIS — At 6 p.m. Dec. 29 at the Basilica of St. Louis the King of France, Miss Karon Ann Brenner and John William Emo were united in marriage. The Rev. James G. Wheeler, Rockhurst College, Kansas City, officiated at the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Brenner, St. Louis, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Emo, Sedalia.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a floor length empire gown of ivory satin and French lace, styled with scalloped neckline and full bishop sleeves. Matching lace trimmed the cathedral length train. A lace-covered pillbox headpiece secured her full length veil of imported silk illusion and she carried a colonial bouquet of white rosebuds and baby's breath.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Michael Lindhorst, St. Louis, sister of the bride, was attired in a gown of emerald green velvet with ivory lace trim, and carried a sphere of variegated holly suspended from ivory ribbons. Bridesmaids, Miss Mary Burton, Miss Carol Dolan and Miss Gretta Reap, all of St. Louis, were attired in gowns identical to that worn by the matron of honor.

The groom chose his brother, Robert Emo, as best man. Groomsmen were Thomas Hutton, Hollywood, Kan., Greg Leisse and Michael Lindhorst, St. Louis. Guests were seated by James Roe, Washington, D. C., and Arthur Carle, St. Louis.

Master Gregory Lindhorst, nephew of the bride and son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lindhorst, carried the rings.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Brenner selected an aqua crepe gown with gold and pearl trim. Mrs. Emo, mother of the groom, was attired in a gown of powder pink crepe with pearl trim. Both mothers wore white orchid corsages.

A reception was held in the Crystal Room of the Sheraton Jefferson Hotel following the ceremony.

For traveling, the bride chose a coat and dress ensemble of rose colored wool.

The bride is a graduate of Fontbonne College, St. Louis, and is presently teaching in the St. Louis school district. The groom attends the St. Louis University School of Medicine.

The couple will reside in St. Louis.

A surprise shower was given in honor of Miss Brenner by Misses Mary Burton, Carol Dolan and Gretta Reap at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dolan, St. Louis.

Parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Emo, hosted a rehersal dinner Dec. 28 at the Stuart Room of Cheshire Inn, St. Louis, for members of the wedding party.

Did you know that natural sponges cost five times as much as synthetic ones? Of course, they'll give you about five times as much wear.

Miss Hughes, E. Englebrecht Are Married

Miss Deborah Anne Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gail Hughes, California, and Earl David Engelbrecht, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Engelbrecht, were united in marriage Dec. 27 at the United Methodist Church, California.

The Rev. Bill Secoy officiated at the evening double ring ceremony. Organist, Mrs. J. D. Branch, accompanied Miss Sandy Strickfaden as she sang, "If Ever I Would Leave You" and "The Lord's Prayer." Miss Mary Linn Elliott, Arlington Heights, Ill., was the candlelighter.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a floor length empire gown of ivory satin, styled with a high neckline and puffed sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of white pompons, stock and pink roses. The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Met Hughes and L. D. Kauffman, Versailles.

Maid of honor, Miss Mary Kay Hughes, sister of the bride, and bridesmaid, Miss Lana Kay Berry, wore matching gowns of purple velvet accented with pearl trim, and carried baskets of pink sweetheart roses and ivy.

The groom chose David Kilgore as best men. Steve Hodler served as groomsman, and Steve Hughes, brother of the bride, and David Sillilan seated the guests.

Miss Carol Engelbrecht, sister of the groom, attended the guest book.

A buffet dinner was served following the ceremony. Misses Donna Dick and Ellen Hood assisted at the gift table.

The bride has attended Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Tex. The groom is a student at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, majoring in business administration.

The couple is at home in Warrensburg.

Miss Chitwood is Bride Of Donald Wayne Storck

FAIRVIEW, Okla. — Miss Anna Marie Chitwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Chitwood, Fairview, Okla., became the bride of Donald Wayne Storck, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Storck, Knob Noster, Mo., Dec. 27 at Fairview Baptist Church.

The Rev. Vernon Liles, pastor, officiated at the evening double ring ceremony before an altar setting of blue tapers in greenery-entwined candelabras and baskets of white chrysanthemums.

Organist, Miss Oma Wahl, played traditional wedding selections and accompanied Miss Sue Frazer, Chester, Okla., as she sang "More," "The Wedding Prayer," and "Love Theme from Romeo and Juliet." Rober Eitzen was the candlelighter.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a floor length gown of white satin, fashioned with an empire waist, rolled collar and long, full sleeves ending in cuffs at the wrists. The A-line skirt swept to a chapel length train in back. A cluster of satin loops secured her four-tiered veil of silk illusion, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Bob Mackie, Ames, Okla., sister of the bride was matron of honor and Misses Sandy Eitzen and Diana Day were bridesmaids. The attendants wore formal length blue satin gowns in a style similar to that of the bridal gown, and each carried a pompon bouquet.

Miss Sheila Aston, cousin of the bride was flowergirl. Her gown was like that of the other attendants and she carried a basket of blue flower petals. Master Jimmy Fast was ringbearer.

The groom chose Gary Swearingen, Knob Noster, as best man. Groomsmen were Bob Mackie, Ames, Okla., broher-in-law of the bride and Bob Bell, Knob Noster.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Chitwood selected a turquoise double knit sheath dress styled with three-quarter length sleeves. The mother of the groom was attired in a navy knit dress trimmed in white. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages.

Miss Karon Fast and Miss Penny Kusch were in charge of the guest book and the gift table.

A reception was held following the ceremony. Serving were Misses Carolyn Fast and Bonnie Frazer. The bride's table was covered with white lace and centered with a blue and white floral arrangement. The three-tiered wedding cake was iced with blue sugar roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

For traveling, the bride chose a three-piece pants suit of maroon wool and navy accessories.

The new Mrs. Storck is a senior at Fairview High School. The groom, a graduate of Knob Noster High, has served two years in the U.S. Army, spending one year in Vietnam. He is presently employed with the Rock Island Oil Company, Fairview, Okla.

Among the out-of-town guests were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Clark and Mrs. Earl Chitwood, Fairfax, Okla.; the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Selma Haesemeyer, Sweet Springs, Mo. and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bell, Knob Noster.

Mr. and Mrs. John Storck, parents of the groom, hosted a rehearsal dinner Dec. 26 at the Cimmarron Towers Dining Room, Fairview, Okla., for members of the wedding party.

Epsilon Beta Has Meeting

Epsilon Beta chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, met Jan. 12 at the Old Missouri Homestead. Hostesses were Nancy Brown and Shirley Pummill.

Members brought such items as crib sheets, sleepers and bibs which will be donated to the Stohr Home as the group's January service project.

Tentative plans were made for the month's social activity which will be a bowling party Jan. 24 for members and their husbands.

Members discussed plans for the upcoming Valentine Dance and the chapter voted to have a combined dance with the other chapters.

The program for the evening, "The Connoisseur," was presented by Barbara Blaschke, who led a group discussion on personal treasures.

Ladies, easy on the soap, please, especially during the winter months. In fact, it's best to avoid soap altogether, if possible, to cleanse the face. The reason: Soap dries the skin — and not only that, it doesn't deep-clean, so it frequently leaves your pores clogged. The best face cleansers are creams and lotions, applied with cotton.

Jahn-Asbury Wedding Held At Our Savior Lutheran

Our Savior Lutheran Church was the scene of the Dec. 30 wedding of Miss Donna Kaye Asbury and Gordon Lee Jahn. The Rev. James W. Kalthoff officiated at the evening double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don E. Asbury, 1720 South Ohio, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Jahn, LaMonte.

Organist, Mrs. John Seifner, Jr., played "The Lord's Prayer," and "Because" before an altar banked with arrangements of white pompons and pink carnations. Red poinsettias marked the bridal aisle.

Given in marriage by her brother, the bride selected a floor length, A-line gown of white velvet styled with long sleeves of brocade lace. A sequin and illusion crown secured her elbow length veil and she carried a white Bible, topped with an orchid encircled by pink sweetheart roses.

Maid of honor, Miss Barbara Brazos, 281½ South Grand, and bridesmaid, Miss Debbie Asbury, sister of the bride, wore identical floor length gowns of cranberry velvet styled with empire waistline and puffed sleeves. Each attendant wore a cranberry velvet bow and carried a long-stemmed pink sweetheart rose.

Best man was Bill Chevalier, Des Moines, Ia., and groomsman was Keith Jahn, brother of the groom. Ushers were David Gerken, cousin of the groom, and Steve Wheeler, LaMonte. Master Tyrone Blakely, nephew of the groom and son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Blakely, LaMonte, carried the rings.

Mrs. Gordon Lee Jahn

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ashbury selected a light blue A-line wool dress styled with scalloped neckline and sleeves, and black accessories. The mother of the groom was attired in a dark blue wool A-line dress and black accessories. Both wore pink rose corsages.

A reception was held following the ceremony. Serving were Mrs. Garv Asbury, Mrs. Glen Cromley, both of Sedalia, and Mrs. Jerry Blakely and Mrs. Herbert Gerken, LaMonte. Guestbook attendant was Jane Sutherlin, and Linda Schouten, LaMonte, and Gail Austin, Sedalia, presided at the gift table.

The four-tiered wedding cake, separated by swan pillars, was iced with pink roses, topped with a white dove and encircled with pink roses. Cranberry taffeta with lace overlay covered the bride's table which also held matching tapers in candelabras.

For traveling, the bride selected a dark olive coat and dress ensemble, black accessories and a white orchid lifted from the bridal bouquet.

The bride is a 1969 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School. The groom, a 1966 graduate of LaMonte High, recently complete his term of service with the U.S. Army, spending 1½ years in Thailand. He is presently employed with Mike O'Connors.

The couple will reside at 1021½ South Harrison.

Valuable 'Nuisances'

Chronic community critics use a negative sentiment to define progress as merely the exchange of one nuisance for another nuisance.

If Sedalia and Pettis county have been progressing by acquiring such so-called nuisances the past year, then let's have more of them in the industrial and business fields.

Here we are once again not only in the first month of a new year, but the first year of a new decade — the decade of the 70's reference to which already has become somewhat of an overworked cliche. But with our entree into the new decade, The Sedalia Democrat and Capital present their annual Business Review and Forecast.

Within the confines of the news and advertising pages of today's issue we are confronted with words and pictures that should stimulate even the most bilious person to agree that if in the pursuit of progress we have been exchanging one nuisance for another, then let's adopt this method as a permanent civic activity.

Of course we have had setbacks in our development but by and large these have been offset by consistent acquisitions of industry, businesses and new people who like our environment enough to adopt Sedalia as their home town.

Sometimes it seems that an element of the population which perennially downgrades the old home town is more vocal than the boosters. However, a review of the community's accomplishments indicates otherwise. Hopefully, may it never occur that leadership here becomes a "silent majority," an expression which can become distasteful to men and women of action who speak and work for Sedalia's progress.

Down through the years Sedalia has been fortunate having many citizens who maintain confidence in the community's future. There is every reason to expect they will keep the embers of faith glowing during the decade of the 70's.

Achievements in the future will be chronicled with the same measure of consideration and gratitude as The Democrat - Capital gives to those whose accomplishments were spread on the newspaper pages during the years of the 60's.

We Are Posterity

"Posterity?" said the cynic. "Why should I do anything for posterity's sake? What has posterity done for me?"

The question, if it ever had any justification, certainly has none now when the pace of human change is measured in years and decades, not generations or centuries.

Posterity is not something having to do with unborn children or grandchildren, pointed out Lincoln H. Day, associate professor of public health and sociology at Yale University, in a paper delivered at the recent 136th meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Posterity is already with us.

In the United States, for example, we can expect that 85 per cent of us present today will be around in the year 2000. More than two-thirds of the Americans now living will be alive in 2015.

The accelerating problems of massive population growth, environmental pollution and the rest will come to a head long before the latter year rolls around. The actions we take — or do not take — today will affect not some distant posterity but our very selves.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Taxpayers Help Anti-Semitic Play

WASHINGTON — When America's most notorious anti-Semite, Gerald L. K. Smith, sits down tonight to write his hate sheets, he should include kindly words for Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans and Secretary of Transportation John Volpe.

Jack Anderson

For they, at the suggestion of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas, went ahead with a $182,000 federal grant to build a fine road to Smith's "Christ of the Ozarks" project near Eureka Springs, Ark.

They stuck to their decision despite this column's revelation that Smith originated the Ozarks project and that his editor Charles F. Robertson is the "coordinator."

Nevertheless, Stans and Volpe approved the use of the taxpayers' money to pave the run-down road to the seven-story-high statue, thus giving federal support to Smith's project. Then Stans tried to justify his action with what turns out to be a phony "investigation."

The statue of Christ is a mockery of all that the Savior taught, for it was built by the Elna M. Smith Foundation, named after the racist's wife and originated by Smith himself.

For those who have never encountered Smith's literature, it bristles with hatred for the Jews whom Smith calls "Satanic" and for the Negroes whom he describes as "black savages."

Even Robert Welch, founder of the John Birch Society, ordered his members to have nothing to do with Smith's political party, the "Christian Nationalist Crusade."

—Piour, But Willing—

After this column exposed the $182,000 grant, a top-level meeting was called into urgent session at Fort Smith, Ark. Winthrop Rockefeller and the three other governors who make up the Commerce Department's Ozarks National Commission met with Undersecretary of Commerce Rocco Siciliano and the Commission's federal co-chairman, E. L. Stewart, Jr.

All piously agreed they did not like Smith's race-baiting. Stewart was directed to investigate the grant, but Rockefeller said pointedly that if the probe turned up nothing PROCEDURALLY wrong with the project, then Arkansas wanted it to go through.

On January 6, Stewart — still sanctimoniously protesting his dislike for Smith's doctrines — announced the federal funds would be paid out. To smooth down the outcry of the Anti-Defamation League and other concerned citizens, Stans's office also issued a "white paper."

Although the original plans had made no mention of mail and school buses, the "white paper" suddenly seeks to pass off the road to Smith's project as a school and mail route.

Furthermore, the Commerce Department says that it was only "alleged" — not proved — the funds were going to promote a project of Smith's. Yet the evidence is abundantly available.

Stewart admitted that he did not even bother to inquire during his "investigation" whether Smith was in fact the financial angel behind the project.

—Records Revel Facts—

This column, however, has turned up Smith's own records which show that his anti-Semitic party funded the tax-free foundation that built the Christ of the Ozarks statue.

In 1966, the racist group "loaned" $42,300 to the Foundation. In 1967, the sworn records show another $15,125 was channeled to the Foundation. In 1968, it was $27,700, and in 1969, the records indicate the figure will be between $15,000 and $30,000.

Thus, the total for these four years reaches over $100,000. Stewart said lamely he was unaware of this fact.

In the application for the federal grant, the Arkansas sponsors described the statue, tongue in cheek, as a "non-profit Christian shrine complex" and neglected to mention a "Passion Play" which is presented as part of the project.

A. I. Botnick, head of the Anti-Defamation League's regional office, however, told of his visit there in 1968:

"The message is clear; it is that the Jews as a people then and now are guilty of deicide (killing God) ... Actors depicting blood-thirsty Jews hysterically chant 'Crucify Him, Crucify Him.' ... The culpability of the whole Jewish people is the theme of the play and it comes across loud and clear over the speakers."

Smith has vowed the content of the play will not be changed no matter what the pressure.

Stewart said he also had not investigated the content of the play which federal funds now will be supporting, but said he suspected a "possibility" that it might be anti-Semitic. He said his staff had goofed in not advising him before the preliminary grant that Gerald L. K. Smith was behind the project.

Literature at the "Christ of the Ozarks" site, however, clearly says "originated and instigated by Gerald L. K. Smith, husband of Elna M. Smith."

Looking Backward

NINETY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A lady brought into the jewelry store of John S. Landes, No. 111 Main street, a solid brick of pure silver, which is four inches long and two inches wide, and a half inch in thickness. It weighs 15 ounces and was left to be sold. It is a pleasant sight to look upon during these hard times. We'd like to have a brick like that in our hat every day, and two on Sundays.

FORTY YEARS AGO

W. D. Smith, of Sedalia, was re-elected secretary of the Missouri State Fair for the eighth consecutive year at a meeting of the fair board in the administration building here. C. H. Bothwell, of Sedalia, was elected treasurer.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

At an organization meeting of the vestry of Calvary Episcopal church, Percy Metcalf was appointed senior warden by the rector, the Rev. Fordyce Eastburn. The vestry elected J. F. Downs, junior warden; C. W. Hanna, secretary; and Robert M. Overstreet, treasurer.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q—Some of my income is from a little farm, though most of it comes from other sources. Do I have to file my income tax return in February instead of April?

A—The February requirement only applies to those who receive at least two-thirds of their gross income from farming or fishing and who did not file declarationas of estimated income tax and pay the tax due by January 15th.

The farmers or fishermen have to file their income tax returns and pay the balance due in full by February 16th, to avoid an addition to their tax for underpayment of estimated tax.

The Only Victor

Next for Religion: Draw Jewish Brothers Closer

By DAVID POLING

Catholics and Protestants have been enjoying their ecumenical get-together for almost a decade now. It officially started with Pope John XXIII and no one knows where it will end. The other day I looked around in church after the last hymn and there in the back row sat a priest who had ducked into the Presbyterian service between masses. His church is a block away but the distance keeps shrinking all the time.

No one is expecting some big merger. Protestants have enough difficulty getting their own families in line witnout coming up with some marvelous arrangement to make a religious conglomerate out of all Christian bodies. The ecumenical experience for the rest of the century will be pretty much what you see now—lots of co-operation, many joint programs of worship and study but no settlement worked out by the downtown lawyers.

The exciting topic in religious circles is the growing togetherness of Christians and Jews. This has existed for centuries among the scholars but war and politics and irresponsible fundamentalists always crash the party and delay the main event. The Christian and Jew have so much more in common than either has admitted publicly. Not only do they travel the same historic highway but down through the ages the great minds of each group have usually been on the same wavelength. As Martin Buber, the Jewish philosopher and theologian said:

"The gates of God are open to all. The Christian need not go via Judaism, nor the Jew via Christianity, in order to enter in to God." That idea, which may be heresy in some circles, makes music in many Jewish-Christian hearts. And when you think about it, the Judeo-Christian experience is the longest love-hate relationship around. Now is the time for it to bloom.

If we are to realize the high potential of this God-given scene, the Christian community needs to do some housecleaning, like a careful self-examination of all Sunday School materials put out by the various denominations. Too many of these have old-line, unreconstructed comments about the Jews killing Christ and the necessity of bagging more Jewish converts. The majority of our church leadership today no longer believes this doctrine and it is proper to clean it out of the textbooks.

A second area is a new strategy to go after the right-wing fanatics who preach racial hatred against blacks and verbal slurs against the Jewish community. Some of this passes in the guise of Christianity and patriotism. It usually comes on strong with a southern accent and an emotional appeal for more money to keep the crusade going. This, too, can be put down when responsible Christians take decisive action and stop humoring these dangerous elements.

A third area is international affairs. Right now the Jews who want to leave Russia for a new life in Israel are getting the full treatment of stall, delay and rejection. Nearly five million Jews are in Russia and their cause must become ours.

Some immediate moves can be made to help the Russians see the light and relax their unjustified position of harassment.

For instance, the people in Moscow are most anxious to have the 1972 Olympics in their country. Fine, the United States will go along with that request but we will have guarantees that a half-million Jews can move freely to Israel in the next two years. The Russians have been urging greater trade and more jet flights between our two nations. Yes, but another substantial move must be made in the U.S.S.R. in regard to freedom of worship, such as more synagogues.

Even in 1970, there is much to do for your brother.

Opening lead—♥ Q

West had been brought up on all the old cliches that date back to the days of whist.

As a boy he had heard his grandfather tell his father, "Never lead away from a king!" and "When in doubt, lead trumps."

Thus West had no problem with his opening lead. He couldn't lead from the king of spades, he was in doubt about the efficacy of a minor suit lead and there was that impregnable trump holding staring him in the face.

He placed the queen of trumps on the table. South was grateful for small favors. He won with the ace and knocked out the ace of diamonds with his jack. A second trump was won in dummy and South proceeded to run three diamonds in order to discard two losing spades. West could take his last trump then or later on, but South was going to make his contract with an extra trick to boot.

We would like to throw out "Never lead away from a king" in its entirety and to change the other expression to, "When certain, lead trumps."

Thus today's West hand really cried out for a spade lead. North and South had bid all the other suits. West had so much high card strength that he could be sure his partner would hold very little to help him. If that little included either the ace or queen of spades, it was imperative that spades be led immediately.

The lead might conceivably cost a trick but this time it would set up two spade tricks before South had a chance to set up discards and would have beaten the contract.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—In nautical terminology, what is the difference between windward and leeward?

A—Windward is the direction from which wind is coming; leeward the direction wind is going.

Q—What bird has a call that resembles the roar of a lion?

A—The male ostrich. It gives a deep roar like that of a lion, but with a strange hissing sound.

Q—How many electoral votes must a presidential candidate receive in order to win an election?

A—The Constitution requires an electoral majority. At present, the required number is 270.

Who Shall Lead?

O, we had Hippies way back when.
They called them tramps and hoboes then.
They bummed on freight trains all about
And knocked on doors for their handout.
They wore old clothes, were dirty, too.
Just like our today Hippies do.
They lived on kindly people's giving.
They thought the world owed them a living;
And I knew men with beards, too.
Of course there only were a few.
There have been vandals, thieves and all.
The books of history will recall
Yet, when young or old got out of hand
They strung them up, I understand.
And take those generation gaps.
There always have been such, perhaps.
From too strict or lenient mas and pas.
Came up with kids who broke the laws;
Mother who were never home
And let their little youngsters roam,
Had jailbirds and some of them died
With masks around their faces tied.
For each generation has had
Some mighty fine, some mighty bad.
For all of us, we must confess.
The world is in an awful mess.
May the pendulum swing back once more
To common sense we had before.
And it may be the youthful wise
Who'll open up our blinded eyes.
Without depression — this time now.
May we come back to God somehow
Let there be change, I quite agree.
But only a better world to be.
Let us get rid of Satan's curse
To make it worse and worse and worse.
History repeats in generations
And there have been some fallen nations.
So let the higher type of youth
Go forward with faith and truth.
Let them stand up and lead the way
On to a brighter, clearer day.
Let them inspire us and guide
Us to humility and pride.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Dr. Norman Vincent Peale in his sermon at the White House January 11th said that St. Vitus should be the patron saint of the United States because "you can shake yourself to pieces with tension."

Attorney General John N. Mitchell was among the invited guests to hear Dr. Peale. His wife Martha was at home with the flu. The Attorney General said, "I am not much on bugs; I'm too mean to get sick."

Former Secretaries of State don't fade away. Dean Acheson, who served in that position under President Truman, has not only written a best seller, "Before the Creation," but has now joined fashion's Hall of Fame as one of the world's best dressed men.

David Brinkley moderated the program at the National Press Club luncheon when seven of his NBC colleagues gave quick summary of news around the world. He received the customary NPC certificate and tie in appreciation but he did not wear it that night when he said "Goodnight Chet." Robert Goralski, who covers the Pentagon, said the two men who had done the most for Washington were Vince Lombardi and Ted Williams.

Liz Carpenter, former Press Secretary for Lady Bird Johnson whose book "Ruffles and Flourishes" is expected to make a million dollars for her, says the title is not as frivolous as it sounds. It is the name of the official roll of drums and the music that leads into "Hail to the Chief." Liz is hardly the type to wear ruffles but her wardrobe for her whistlestop across the country to sell her book includes two chiffon evening dresses with ruffles, one short and one long.

There will be more postmen ringing twice and walking through rain, ice and snow when the Post Office Department gets its six-city job corps training under way. The postal agency, cooperating with the Department of Labor and the Office of Economic Opportunity, will finance a training program for young people (mostly school drop outs) in the three R's and the mail service. The teachers will be postal employees who have volunteered to teach the trainees.

Somehow on a vacation trip people always want to send cards back to the folks at home. Usually they say: "Having a fine time, wish you were here."

It had been a long trip and she had done a great deal of the driving, so when she started to write a card she wasn't having a very good time because she was too tired.

After she had written some kind of a message she wrote at the bottom of the card: "I am tired."

She looked at the word tired and it didn't look right, so she scratched it out and wrote "tired" again.

That didn't look right either, so she scratched it out and wrote: "I'm bushed."

CURE FURNITURE'S HOLIDAY HANGOVER

By MR. FIX

Holidays and the resultant indoor entertaining can be hard on furniture. So can everyday wear and tear.

No matter how careful you try to be, scratches and other marks will start to appear. Getting rid of them is a matter of knowing the right remedy for the particular ailment.

Scratches and nicks can be the most annoying and they require care and patience in repairing. Sometimes the scratch is so light that it will vanish if rubbed with a cloth dampened with furniture polish to which you have added a few drops of rubbing alcohol.

A fine scratch that just barely breaks the surface can be repaired by softening the finish so that it flows together over the scratch. This requires a steady hand. With a fine brush trace over the scratch with alcohol for shellac, turpentine for varnish, lacquer thinner for lacquer.

Scratches that get into the bare wood are deep enough to need filling. Use a shellac stick which you can buy in matching shades. Sometimes rubbing across the scratch will do it. More often you will have to melt the stick and build up the batch in layers. Rub down and polish with pumice. If the patch shows, stroke on a matching oil stain with a soft brush.

Actual holes should be cleaned out with a knife to remove fragments, partly filled with plastic wood and then — when dry — treated with a shellac stick.

A hot object placed on a varnished surface will leave a milky mark. A gentle rubbing with spirits of camphor will generally remove the offending spot. Polish when dry.

Wet glasses will leave white rings. Try a mixture of olive oil and white vinegar in equal parts. Rub with the grain.

Cream wax will clean up most spots left by cosmetics, ink, wax and milk. Give the spot a vigorous rubbing in the direction of the grain.

Paper that has become damp and then stuck to the furniture (or was under a hot object) should not be scraped off. Soften by covering with olive oil. Allow it to soak and then rub off.

A tabletop burn that doesn't go right through can be eliminated with silver polish. Rub carefully, keeping the polish away from the adjoining surface. Wipe dry and then polish or wax as you usually would.

S-C Tigers Drop Tight Match to Pirates, 67-63

By DAVID RAGES

Hannibal's fighting Pirates stretched their conference record to 4-0 with a 67-63 victory Friday night over Smith-Cotton in a game played on the Pirate's court. Hannibal's overall record is now 9-4 and the Tigers stand at 7-4.

The Tigers gave Hannibal a good battle and came close to handing them their first conference loss. The game was tight all the way as it was tied 12 times. Hannibal opened up an 18-11 first quarter lead but the Tigers came roaring back and were on top 37-33 at halftime. This margin was cut to two, 52-50 after three quarters.

Both teams shot well from the field during the first half. At one stretch during the second quarter 12 straight baskets were made, six by each side. The Tigers hit 16 of 26 the first half for 61.5 per cent and the Pirates were 15 of 35 for 43 per cent. The Tigers cooled off during the second half hitting only nine of 29 for 31 per cent. The Pirates were 13 of 31 for 42 per cent.

Steve Herzberg led Tiger scorers with 20 points but the Pirate's Gary Weathers, was high scorer for the game with 25

In junior varsity competition the Tigers picked up their fourth victory of the year against two losses with a 49-47 victory over the Hannibal jayvees.

The game was decided at the free throw line as Smith-Cotton sank 17 of 18 charity tosses and Hannibal converted only nine of 18.

Hannibal led 11-10 after one quarter and left at halftime with a 24-21 edge. The tigers fought back on top, 34-33, after three quarters.

Don Tatman was leading scorer for the Tigers with 15 points. Terry Bucner sank 13 and was leading rebounder with 15.

Both teams will next see action this coming Friday when they take on the Columbia Kewpies in games to be played on the Smith-Cotton court. If they continue to play the type of game they did against Hannibal they're going to be tough for all conference foes.

Kiss for Bo

Bo Schembechler, head football coach at the University of Michigan, receives a kiss from his wife Millie after he held his first press conference since being named 'Coach of the Year' by the coaches in college football. Schembechler was hospitalized the day of the Rose Bowl game, when he suffered a heart attack. His Wolverines lost that contest to USC, 10-3. (UPI)

LATE RESULTS

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Pete Helmbock drilled two free throws with 41 seconds to play for a four-point lead, but Missouri still had to stave off a furious Iowa State finish to edge the Cyclones 65-63 in a Big Eight basketball game Saturday night.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Drury College shook off Missouri Valley early and waltzed to a 102-53 MCAU basketball victory Saturday night.

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — David Hall led a Kansas State push in the second half which shoved the Wildcats into a 15-point lead and carried them to a 78-71 non - conference basketball victory over St. Francis of Pennsylvania Saturday night.

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Leroy Chalk's tip-in basket in the last second gave Nebraska a 60-58 Big Eight Conference basketball victory over defending champion Colorado before a crowd of 8,536 Saturday night.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Dave Robisch, scored 34 points Saturday night in leading the Kansas Jayhawks to a 64-62 basketball victory over Murray State of Kentucky.

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Drake exploded for 11 straight points midway through the second half and romped to a 63-57 Missouri Valley Conference basketball victory over Cincinnati here Saturday night.

Eldon Tops Skyline

ELDON — In a hard-fought game Friday evening Eldon defeated Skyline 69-64.

Rains and Vernon led Eldon with 17 apeice followed by Jones with 13 points. The Yates brothers scored high for Skyline with 20 and 11 points with Rush dumping in 10.

Metro Bombs Foes

KANSAS CITY — The Kansas City Metropolitan Mustangs raced by Fairbury, Neb. Friday night at Southeast High School in Kansas City, 105-69.

By halftime the hosts had mounted a 63-32 lead.

Phil Whatley was the leading scorer as most of the Metro players got into the figure column. Whatley tossed in 18.

Arlan Andressen of Fairbury was tops for the game with 19 points.

Owls Suffer Loss To Excelsior Springs

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS — The Marshall Owls went down to defeat at the hands of conference foe Excelsior Springs Friday night in Excelsior Springs, 54-51.

Roger Dehn took game scoring honors for the losing Owls with 20; Chuck Davis fired in 13 also in that losing effort.

Larry Johnson was tops for the Tigers with 19; Weader Millentree and Steve Allen also hit in double figures with 12 and 11 respectively.

Weather Forces Change at Stover

STOVER — The finals of the Stover Tournament have been rescheduled for Monday night. The games were set for Saturday, but the weather forced postponment.

Monday night, Lincoln will go against Pilot Grove for the title at 9:30 p.m.

Two early games will also decide the consolation and the third place winners.

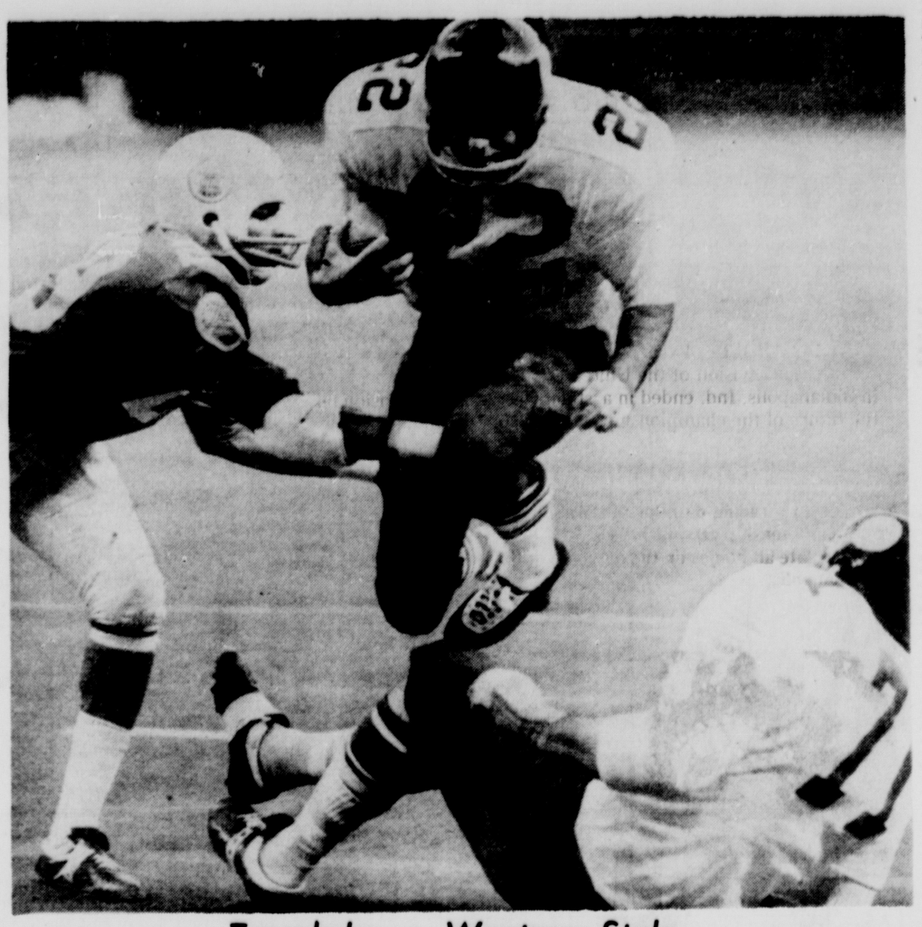
Leeton will face Tuscumbia in an 8 p.m. contest for third place and Green Ridge will battle host team Stover in the consolation game at 6:30 p.m.

Versailles Victory

VERSAILLES — Warsaw went down to Versailles 83-55 in non-conference play Friday evening.

Bill Laurie dumped in 38 big points for the winning Tigers with the next closest scorer, Garber, acheiving 13. The best Warsaw could muster was 16 points from Henderson followed by Hughs and Campbell with 11 points each.

The B game found Versailles in the winners circle again, 36-30.



Touchdown, Western Style

Dick Post (44) of the AFL's West All-Stars, leaps over teammate Ed Budde (71) and scores a touchdown for his team in the last battle on an American Football League gridiron. The West won the game, 26-3. Ken Houston makes an unsuccessful grab for Post as he crosses the goal line. (UPI)

Claim Curt Flood Could Ruin Sport

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Cronin and Chub Feeney, the presidents of baseball's two major leagues, issued a joint statement Saturday contending that a successful challenge of the reserve clause in a suit brought by outfielder Curt Flood would mean the end of the sport.

The statement also points out that Flood, a $90,000-a-year star traded by St. Louis to Philadelphia last fall in a seven-player deal, had violated his contract by refusing to honor the transaction.

Flood contended Friday in filing a civil suit in Federal Court that baseball is a monopoly that places players in a state of peonage and involuntary servitude and operates in restraint of trade.

In his complaint, brought after Commissioner Bowie Kuhn denied his request to negotiate his 1970 contract as a free agent, Flood attacked baseball's reserve clause, which makes a player the property of a club until he is traded, sold or released.

The suit attacks the very foundation of the National pastime, and Cronin, the American League president, and Feeney, the newly-elected National League president, admitted as much in their prepared statement issued at the winter baseball draft.

Listing seven chaotic results that would be created without the reserve clause, the statement listed as No. 7:

"Professional baseball would simply cease to exist."

The statement also quoted a Congressional committee as saying:

"Baseball history shows that chaotic conditions prevailed when there was no reserve clause. Experience points to no feasible substitute to protect the integrity of the game or to guarantee a comparatively even competitive struggle."

The statement said that Flood, in refusing to honor the trade, "violates his contract, in which he agrees that assignments may be made, and he violates the fundamental baseball rules, including the reserve clause, which experience has shown to be absolutely necessary to the successful operation of baseball."

Cronin and Feeney then pointed out Flood was attacking the same rules and making the same charges that have been made before.

The statement went on to take the Major League Players' Association to task for supporting Flood in his action, which, it said: "violates its pledge to the clubs in the basic collective bargaining agreement between the association and the clubs to use its 'best efforts to ensure that all terms and conditions of all uniform players' contracts signed by individual players will be carried out in full."

Cronin and Feeney then said the following would result if baseball had to operate without the reserve clause:

"1. The wealthier clubs could sign unbeaten teams of all-stars, totaling destroying league competition.

"2. Clubs of more limited resources would be stripped of their stars and their ability to field a team which the public would accept.

"3. The integrity of the game would be threatened as players could negotiate with one club while playing for another.

"4. Clubs could no longer afford to spend millions of dollars to scout and sign new players and to subsidize their development in the minor leagues. No club could build with assurance and no intelligent person would continue to invest the large capital required for player compensation, an unmatched pension and benefit plan costing $5,450,000 per year, minor league subsidies and the other costs of operating a major league club.

"5. The minor leagues, which exist only because of major league support, would be destroyed. Professional baseball is the only team sport that finances the development of its players.

"6. Mutually advantageous trades would become impossible if the players' consents were required, thus preventing contract assignments which have been beneficial to both clubs and players and which are exciting to those who support the game of baseball.

"7. Professional baseball would simply cease to exist."

Eagles' Second Win Comes Over Ballard

CALHOUN — After many outings of trying since their opening season's win over the Green Ridge Tigers, the Calhoun Eagles won again Friday night; this time the victory was over Golden Valley Conference for Ballard, 68-47.

The home town Eagles had a half time buldge of 20-19 and went on to score 25 points and 23 points respectively in the third and fourth quarters for the victory.

Dave Edwards paced the attack with 22 points; Brad Steenburgen followed with 11.

For the losing Ballard squad, Engeman was tops with 18.

LaMonte Vikings Drop Sweet Springs

LaMONTE — LaMonte beat Sweet Springs 86-61 in non-conference action Friday night.

Best scorer for LaMonte was Mark Jones, who socked in 26 points. Horman knocked up 13 for Sweet Springs with his teammates Worley and Stockman tied with 10 points each.

The game leaves LaMonte at 10-6 for the season. Part of the successful outcome of the game lay in the 84 percent free throw completion that LaMonte achieved.

The tables were turned in B team play when Sweet Springs scored 53 points to LaMonte's 48. Bredehoeft tossed in 15 points to lead the victors versus Hudson's 13 points for the losing jayvees.

Fifth Annual NAIA Meet To Open in Auditorium

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The fifth annual National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics indoor track meet unfolds in Municipal Auditorium Friday and Saturday nights with Eastern Michigan and Prairie View A&M of Texas expected among the top teams.

Eastern Michigan won the 1969 NAIA indoor championship here, but Prairie View A&M won the NAIA outdoor crown last spring at Billings, Mont.

Other top teams expected to challenge them include Southern University, Texas Southern, Emporia (Kan.) State and Fort Hays (Kan.) State.

The NAIA long jump, featuring Jerry Proctor of Redlands (Calif.) University, is the only event in which the finals will be held Friday night.

Finals in 13 other NAIA events, plus the annual Traders Open Mile and four Missouri high school events will be Saturday night.

The meet has had two stirring moments — in 1966 when Jim Hines of Texas Southern tied the world record with a 5.9-second clocking in the 60-yard dash, and in 1967 when Bobby Beamon leaped 27 feet, one inch in the open division long jump, becoming the first human to crack the 27-footmark.

Proctor, who won here in 1968 with a long jump of 25-2, leaped 26-11¾ to win the NCAA outdoor title last June and could threaten Beamon's record here. Redlands is a member of both the NAIA and NCAA.

One of the top contenders in the open mile will be Jim Crawford, former Harding (Ark.)College star, who last year had a 4:01.2 indoor clocking.

Other contenders in the open mile will be Ian Stewart of Great Britain, the world's fourth-ranked miler in 1969, and two former Kansas collegiate track and field All-Americans, John Lawson, former Kansas University star, and John Mason, formerly of Fort Hays State.

Mason will be returning to defend the open mile title he won here last year.

Last spring, Stewart, 21, posted a 3:57.3 clocking in the mile — the fourth fastest time in the world in 1969.

Also in the open mile field will be Van Nelson, formerly of St. Cloud State College Minn.). Nelson has participated in all four previous NAIA meets. He is a three-time winner of the NAIA two-mile run, from 1966 through 1968, and finished third in last year's mile run.

Pilot Grove Wins Berth With Lincoln

STOVER — Pilot Grove defeated Leeton Friday night to take the other berth in the Stover Tourney.

Quarter scoring was close until the third when Pilot Grove serged ahead with an eight point lead to offset the Leeton team's efforts.

High scorers for Pilot Grove were Watring with 20, followed by Jobe and Twenter with 19 points apiece. The Leeton team saw David Bancroft score 28 hard points and Jon Armstrong sock through 15.

In the consolation bracket, Green Ridge won over Otterville 60-40.

Jackie Stevens tossed through 23 points for the winners, with teammate Harvey Arnett scoring 20. Bishop was high for Otterville with 15 points, with Laudredth stuffing in 10.

The finals of the Stover Tourney were scheduled for Saturday night.

Knob Noster Battles Tigers For Top Spot

KNOB NOSTER — College High of Warrensburg lost to Knob Noster 43-28 in the Knob Noster Tournament Friday night.

The win leaves Knob Noster's record for the season at 7-4, with the loss making it an even 6-6 for the College High team.

Valdez was the high scorer for Knob Noster, with 16 points, followed by Schubert with 12. The only man in double figures for College High was Miller with 13 points.

In the championship consolation playoff, Clinton was victorious over Concordia with a score of 53-40, leaving the mark at 6-5 for Clinton and 4-10 for Concordia.

High men for Clinton were Don Eaton with 24 and Steve Phillips with 10. Tieman scored 19 to lead the Concordia team.

The finals of the tournament were scheduled for Saturday night.

SHHS Tournament Set for Sunday

The consolation, third place and the championship games of the Sacred Heart Freshman Basketball Tournament, scheduled for Saturday night, have been rescheduled for tonight, due to the weather.

The first game tonight, pitting Otterville against Prairie Home in the consolation contest begins at 6:30 p.m.; St. John's of Kansas City will get underway at 7:30 p.m. for the third place honor and Sacred Heart will tip off against St. Mary's of Independence at 8:30 p.m. for the title.

Sedalia's Chances Dim

Little Progress in Current USAC Meeting

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

INDIANAPOLIS, IND. — The Saturday meeting of the competition division of the United States Auto Club being held in Indianapolis, Ind. ended in a stalemate; thus, no decision on the future of the championship style cars on the dirt tracks was made.

This meeting is of particular significance to Sedalians since USAC racing promoter J. C. Agajanian of Gardena, Calif. has requested a racing date for the Missouri State Fairgrounds for the championship cars on June 6.

This date all hinges on the outcome of the current meetings in Indianapolis.

The story actually started last season when it was rumored that a split was in the offing between the championship style dirt cars and the sprints and stock dirt cars.

The proposal within USAC is a Championship Dirt Track Division, consisting of stock cars and sprint cars. The idea is to all but leave the dirt tracks for the sprint cars and stock cars in the points achievement.

In the same respect, the division would all but make history of the dirt style championship cars in the yearly points search; the championship cars would compete almost solely on the asphalt surfaces.

It does not mean that there won't be anymore dirt track races for championship cars, but the idea would suggest that for the most part, no points would be awarded for dirt car competition in the championship division.

The meeting, which started Thursday and scheduled to end Saturday, is now deadlocked and will begin another session this morning at 10:00 o'clock.

Thursday, J.C. Agajanian, who brought a USAC stock car show to the Missouri State Fairgrounds one-mile oval in October, requested that a championship dirt car race be held in Sedalia on the sixth of June, but if the division takes place, it is highly unlikely that the race date for the local facility would be kept, since the race drivers would not be credited with points toward the national driving title.

Some progress was noted in the earlier sessions of the competition meetings.

John Hughes, racing promoter at the new I-70 Speedway in Odessa informs us locally that one USAC date is already definite for that area track.

On June 5, the sprint car drivers of the United States Auto Club will flock to the mid-Missouri race track to test their driving skills on the one-half mile oval.

Another earlier date, either on May 9 or May 23, will see the USAC stock car division drivers perform on the Odessa facility.

A definate date will be established later.

But, to this moment, the chances look dim for the championship division drivers to compete on the Sedalia racing oval, that is unless the division does not take place in Indianapolis today.

Danny Little Bear

Wrestling Team Crown Is on Block

Danny Little Bear and the Stomper, upset because they were unsuccessful in an earlier clash with the Cox brothers, Killer and K. O., will try again Tuesday night to wrest the North American tag team wrestling crown from the rugged pair.

The action will head a four-match Convention Hall ring card.

The Stomper requested the return pairing on behalf of his tandem, pointing out that he and Little Bear were well on their way to victory the last time they bid for the crown, only to lose by disqualification.

That occurred as a result of the Stomper's flare-up, in which he threw both opponents over the top rope. He contended after the match that he shouldn't have been disqualified since both Coxes were in the ring against him.

Little Bear solidly supports the Stomper's reasoning and is anxious to get a second chance. He has the top record among area grapplers and wants to erase the blot created by the disqualification setback.

Natureboy Kirby and youthful Terry Martin will collide in Tuesday's semifinal. Martin testing his speed and agility against the roughing prowess of the muscular Kirby.

In what should prove an outstanding scientific match, former world champion Pat O'Connor will oppose Tommy Martin in the special event.

Tabor Top Pioneers

OLATHE, KAN. — The Tabor College junior varsity downed Mid-America College of the Nazarene Friday night, 103-97.

Rolland Lawrence of Tabor paced the winners attack with 30 points, Jim Harms added 20.

Charles Payne was tops for the Pioneers with 25; J.R. Reeder followed with 23.

Nazarene will battle the State Fair Community College Roadrunners on Jan. 29 on SFCC's home court.

AFL and NFL Equally Represented

NEW YORK (AP) — The American and National Football Leagues were almost equally represented on the 1969 All-Pro team announced Saturday by the Professional Football Writers of America.

The world champion Kansas City Chiefs placed just two men on the first team, but the AFL was represented by 10 players in the balloting conducted before the Chiefs defeated Minnesota 23-7 in the Super Bowl Jan. 11. Minnesota also had two All-Pro berths.

Oakland, which defeated Kansas City twice in regular season play, landed five berths and Los Angeles was represented by three men.

Chiefs named to the first team were offensive tackle Jim Tyrer and linebacker Bobby Bell, while Minnesota was represented by center Mick Tinglehoff and defensive end Carl Eller.

The Raiders' first team picks were wide receiver Fred Biletkoff, guard Gene Upshaw, quarterback Daryle Lamonica, cornerback Willie Brown and safety Dave Grayson.

The defensive line, in fact, was all NFL. In addition to Eller, others up front were David Jones and Merlin Olsen of the Rams and Dallas' Bob Lilly.

FIRST TEAM

Offense-Wide receivers: Lance Alworth, San Diego, Fred Biletnikoff, Oakland. Tackles-Bob Brown, Los Angeles, Jim Tyrer, Kansas City. Guards-Gene Hickerson, Cleveland, Gene Upshaw, Oakland. State Fair Edges Kemper Jayvees

BOONVILLE — "He plays best under pressure," commented Coach Wehking of the SFCC Roadrunners following their 64 - 63 win over Kemper Junior College last night in Boonville.

Wehkings remarks were directed toward freshman guard Darrell Gordon after his two free-throws with twenty-two seconds left in the game.

Gordons points proved to be enough for the Roadrunners to win their ninth game in 13 starts.

All agencies of government on all levels are and have been for quite some time on a tight money schedule.

Funds are tough to come by for school districts also; a prime example is here in Sedalia school district 200.

Each agency or department submits a budget request. The requests are then filled as to their importance once the "fat" is trimmed away.

Being a department in the school system at Smith-Cotton High School, head football Coach Max Fields submitted one article, which he felt was vitally needed for his department: A power rack or as some term it, a scientific weight lifting machine.

The approximate cost of the device was estimated in the neighborhood of $2,700.

When Fields submitted the item on the budget, he himself will admit that he felt that article had little chance of being approved for purchase.

He was right; the item was turned down with the feeling that that money could be used in different areas of the school system.

In many towns and cities, the disapproval of such a device would have meant just waiting until the money for its purchase at a later date.

Not so in Sedalia. A group of energetic and enterprising persons in the community pursuaded the school board to give them approval to purchase the machine on their own and give it to the athletic department as a gift.

Approval was granted and now the athletic departments at Smith-Cotton High School can enjoy the use of the body building aid.

Things of this nature many times go unnoticed, but this is one that shouldn't.

A big hearty thanks should go out to the following individuals and companies.

Fingland Glass, Dugan Paints, Mid-Missouri Plumbing, O.K. Optical Co., Third National Bank, Beatrice Foods, Co., Sedalia Democrat Co.

Tempel-Callison Co., Fitzwilliam Motors, Sedalia Bank and Trust, Plaza Pharmacy, Missouri State Bank, S and M Athletic Goods.

Individuals who also donated include Monty McQuitty, Joann Tharp, Russell Drenon, W. R. Raumaker, George Thompson, Murlan Tharp, Lonnie Tempel, Tempel.

Ewing Gibson, Ron Lovan, Dennis Onwiler, F. H. Giger.

West Stomps East Into Ground 26-3

HOUSTON AP — Quarterback John Hadl of San Diego passed for one touchdown and set up another to lead the West to a 26-3 victory over the East in the 10th and last American Football League All-Star game Saturday in the Astrodome.

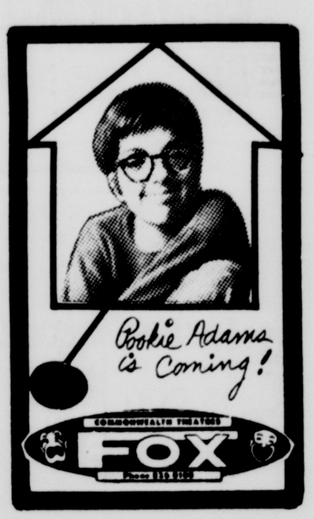
Hadl completed 18 of 26 passes for 224 yards as he guided the West to a pair of first quarter scores against the outclassed East squad.

Hadl fired a 21-yard scoring pass to Charger teammate Lance Alworth and set up another with a nine-yard run to the one where Dick Post, another Charger, carried it over.

Reserve West quarterback Mike Livingston of Kansas City ran 12 yards for a touchdown and Kansas City kicker Jan Stenerud added a pair of field goals to round out the West scoring.

Neither Mike Taliaferro of Boston or Jack Kemp of Buffalo were able to move the East squad and New York kicker Jim Turner avoided a shutout with a 44-yard field goal in the third period.

The nationally televised contest witnessed by 30,170 fans was the final event in the 10-year history of the AFL which next season will be the American Conference of the merged AFL and National Football League.



Chamberlain Disappointed Over Lack of Invitation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pro basketball's all-time greatest scorer and rebounder will be on hand in Philadelphia Tuesday night for his 12th consecutive National Basketball Association All-Star Game—this time, however, as a spectator buying his way into the arena.

Wilt Chamberlain of the Los Angeles Lakers admitted Friday, midway through his extended convalescence following knee surgery, that he is disappointed NBA executives had not invited him to participate at least in some honorary way in Tuesday's classic in his former home town.

"I'll fly back to visit my mother, and I'll buy tickets for the game," the 33-year-old all-time superstar said in the spacious living room of the mountaintop home he leases in the exclusive Trousdale Estates of Beverly Hills.

in daily to regain full use of his leg following an operation Nov 8 which repaired a ruptured tendon below his right kneecap.

"People kid me that I'm getting a little vacation and rest," the 7-foot-1, 285-pound giant observed. "Far from it. I'd much rather be playing ball."

The monotonous routine sometimes is painful, he admits, but necessary if for goal of an early return to active duty.

He drives each morning to the office of Laker team physician Dr. Robert Kerlan for whirlpool treatment under the direction of physical therapist Frank O'Neill, the Lakers' home games trainer. Hydrotherapy helps restore the knee's movement and flexability, Wilt said.

In early afternoon, Chamberlain returns to his home for the first of three daily weight-lifting sessions of an hour each, "resistance" work to restore strength.

"I sit at the edge of a table and lift a weighted boot again and again," he said. "Right after the cast came off (on New Year's eve), I was lifting five pounds. I'm lifting 22 pounds now, working up to 32. After that, we'll just increase the number of repetitions."

Following a bit of rest, or perhaps a swim in his heated pool, Wilt drives half an hour or an hour—depending on the density of Southern California traffic—for six to 10 miles of walking through the heavy, wet sand of the sea shore.

"I usually walk non-stop at a fast pace from near Malibu down to near Muscle Beach (above Santa Monica) and back," Wilt said. "It takes three or four hours, and I keep the pace fast to help get back my wind and stamina."

Then it's back to Beverly Hills for more weight lifting, including barbell sessions for his massive arms, back and chest. Chamberlain, noted as one of the strongest men in sports history, began lifting weights as a Philadelphia teenager, and believes his experience and knowledge of weight training has accelerated his recovery.

Of more concern than any minor discourtesy is the 10 or more hours of work he puts

"That's 10 hours of work a day—a lot more work than when I'm actually playing basketball," he said. "There's pain if I try to run or when I bend the knee too much. And when I get tired, it tends to buckle a little."

Until he went down in an awkward heap while driving for a dunk Nov. 7 against Phoenix, Chamberlain had escaped major injury in a career as noted for its controversies as for its field goals. Now, he notes, his public image as a villain may finally have softened.

"Right after I got hurt," he said, "I had a number of great letters. They were really inspirational. Some of the ones at the first made me feel like getting up and walking, they were so nice.

"My injury has sort of endeared me to the fans because it made me a little more human."

Neither Chamberlain nor Dr. Kerlan predict how soon he'll be able to return to the Laker lineup or what effect the injury may have on his basketball future.

"I don't know how far I've progressed," Wilt said. "I know right now I can't run.

Warrensburg Wins First In Tourney

The final results of the Knob Noster Tournament placed the Championship title on Warrensburg High School in the play off Saturday night in Knob Noster.

Warrensburg beat Knob Noster, 48-41, in the final game.

High scorers for Warrensburg were Driscoe with 16 points, and Harris with 14 points. Knob Noster scored with Schubert, 11 points and McDonald with 10 points.

In the third place game, Windsor beat College High, 53-49 in the Tourney.

Vikes Win on Road

FAYETTE — Missouri Valley College of Marshall won a 97-81 MCAU Conference game over the Central Methodist Eagles Friday night in Fayette.

John White topped the scoring column for the winners with 19; Mike Dowdy for the Eagles however, was the game's scoring leader with 24.

Jr. Olympic State Finals In Sedalia

The recent AAU National Convention held in Miami, Fla., has announced that the 1970 Jr. Olympic Track and Field Championships were awarded to the University of Tennessee in Knoxville and the 1971 Jr. Olympic Championships were awarded to the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Paul Klover, a member of the board of managers in the Missouri Valley Association AAU announced the Jr. Olympic Track and Field events for boys and girls with the local preliminary to be held in Sedalia on June 6th. The State Championships to be held at Sedalia on June 20th and the Missouri Valley Association Championships to be held at the University of Kansas on June 27th.

The University of Kansas has a new 8 lane tartan track, therefore, the four top winners from the Kansas and Missouri state meets will qualify for the Missouri Valley Association Championships in each event and age division.

The age determining date for Jr. Olympics track competitions is May 1 which pertains to all competition from local to national level.

St. Paul's Captures Three Local Events

St. Paul's Lutheran School of Sedalia won three of five sporting events with St. Paul's of Stover Friday evening at the local St. Paul's grade school.

The three events were boys seventh and eighth grade and fifth and sixth grade basketball and one of the three girls volleyball matches.

In the seventh and eighth grade basketball competition, Sedalia scored a resounding 59-18 defeat over Stover.

Two boys for the locals, Jerry Jackson and Ron Ehlers, hit in double figures in the senior victory. Jackson netted 19 and Ehlers followed with 16.

The fifth and sixth grade cage tilt also was won by Sedalia, 23 8.

The fifth to eighth grade girls broke up into three groups and competed in as many volleyball games.

Stover however, won all but one of those contests.

The first game was won by Stover, 15-13, but the locals came back and took the second match, 15-4.

Stover held on in the third match to take their second volleyball win, 13-11.

Seventh-Eight Scoring
Sedalia

Jerry Jackson (19), Ron Ehlers (16), Peter Fiene (8), Steve Knister (7), Mark Harrison (5), Bob Fienen (2) and Jim Morrow (2).

Stover

Mark Roth (7), Curtis Sousley (5), Wayne Nolting (2), Randy Fischer (2), Ricky Brandt (2).

Oak Grove Gets By

ODESSA — Oak Grove picked up its second I-70 Conference win in a row by tripping Odessa on the losers court Friday night, 72-66.

John Simmons and Mike Munson fired in 22 and 20 points respectively for the winners.

Alan Bubalo topped Odessa's scoring list with 16.

Club Federation Explained To Sedalia Garden Clubs

The eight Sedalia garden clubs gather Jan. 9 at their respective meeting places for a luncheon and program entitled, "Know Your Federation." This program explained the advantages of belonging to the Federation of Garden Clubs and of the many works done by the Federation, both as a unit and by individual clubs.

The garden club insignia, a tree with bare roots, is commonly known as a Hawthorne (Carteaegus) throughout Missouri and was chosen because of its strength and toughness. The insignia came into being during 1934, and was designed by a Mr. Harris of Kansas City.

Garden Club No. 1 met at the home of Mrs. Norman Wehmier with Mrs. Fred Rose as assisting hostess. President, Mrs. Rose, welcomed Mrs. Nora Gehlken as a new member. The program was presented by Mrs. Earl Lugen.

Mrs. W. E. Bingaman and Mrs. Paul Killion reported on the committee meetings they attended in the Council, and Miss Philamine Kraus reported on the Council Board meeting held at the Farm and Home building.

Mrs. Zola Palmer and Mrs. Kennie Miller will be hostesses at the next meeting.

Garden Club No. 2 met at the home of Mrs. John Ryan. Mrs. H. M. Anderson and Mrs A. Hugh Janes were assisting hostesses. Mrs. Anderson made and exhibited a topiary tree, and Mrs. Herbert Seifert led the discussion on topiary and espaliered arrangements.

Mrs. Leo Eickhoff, garden club tours chairman, reported that the spring tour would be May 15 and would feature iris. Mrs. Seifert presented the program topic. Mrs. H. E. Linstrom, conservation chairman, introduced Mrs. Robert Fingland who talked on the ways and means of feeding birds.

First place horticulture awards went to Mrs. John Ryan and Mrs. Lloyd Roe. Mrs. H. A. Hite received a special award for her picture made of dry flowers and leaves.

Mrs. Eickhoff, Route 1, will be the February meeting hostess.

Garden Club No. 3 met at the Coffee Pot Cafe. Hosteeses were Mrs. George Emo and Mrs. Harriet Shaw. Mrs. Amy Acker, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Leland Hoback, Windsor, who presented the program topic, using the Garden Club Creed as her opening statement. She noted that she and Mrs. Ackers and Mrs. Ruth Siefert helped to compile the by-laws for the state and national garden clubs. She closed the program with the "Beauty Lovers Creed."

Mrs. Hodges, Mrs. Peggy Hale and Mrs. Faye Boyle will be February meeting hostesses.

Garden Club No. 4 met at the of Mrs. George Lockett, 422 East Fifth. Mrs. Ida Harriman and Mrs. Ted Brown were assisting hostesses. Mrs. Floyd Knerl, president, opened the meeting with "Food for Thought."

Following reports on committees and councils, program chairman, Mrs. Robert Daniels, gave a talk on conservation of the Missouri River and it's chief problem of pollution. She also presented the program topic, and told of her visit to the national headquarters of garden clubs in St. Louis.

Garden Club No. 5 met at State Fair Restaurant with Mrs. Elmer Van Dyke serving as hostess. Mrs. Carl Wehrli gave a short talk on conservation and Mrs. John Zulauf reported on plans for the exchange tables at the May 12 Flower Show at Convention Hall.

Mrs. Ray Brueckner, club president, presented the program topic. Mrs. Bruce McCully, a new member, received a first place award for her topiary exhibit and Mrs. P. L. Strole received second.

Garden Club No. 6 met at the home of Mrs. Charles Matthews. Guests were Mrs. Erma Birdsong and Mrs. Byron Gates.

Club president, Mrs. William Sims, announced upcoming events, including the May 12 Flower Show and the state convention, May 7-9 in Kansas City.

Mrs. Wilson Harbit gave a report on conservation and Mrs. Albert Hynen presented the program, showing a group of pictures entitled "Reminiscence on Past Events."

Garden Club No. 7 met at the home of Mrs. E. J. Thomas, 633 East Ninth for a covered dish luncheon. Mrs. Art Baker and Mrs. G. O. Hawley were assisting hostesses.

Mrs. Paul Read, president, conducted the business meeting and Mrs. M. H. Shelby gave the devotional. Roll call was answered by naming a favorite tree. Mrs. Don McQueen was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. R. R. Conn presented the program topic. First place award in horticulture was given to Mrs. Roy Petty.

Garden Club No. 8 met at the home of Mrs. Cecil Bohon, 803 East Braodway. Mrs. P. Cecil Owen, Sedalia Garden Club Council president, was a guest.

Mrs. Earl Thomas, president, conducted the business session and noted that the club is to furnish flowers for the Sedalia Public Library during the months of January and April. Mrs. Terry Pile was installed as 2nd vice president of the club.

Mrs. Pile and Mrs. George Dryden presented the program topic. Mrs. Dryden urged members to purchase a Garden Club Manual to be better informed.

Mrs. Owen spoke on the upcoming state convention and the role of the Sedalia clubs which will be responsible for table arrangements and favors for the first convention luncheon. Mrs. Owens showed members the kind of containers and type of arrangements to be used and told how to make them.

Mrs. Walter Barnes, 210 South Quincy, will be the February meeting hostess.

WHAT CAN YOU EXPECT

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Officials at the Jefferson County Jail, by a number of escapes, could blame it on the location. The jail is on Liberty Street.

Quotable Women

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"I don't believe women will ever dress like men."—Dress designer Eve Stillman.

"I had more trouble getting roles in school than I've had since becoming professional. When I started I was awful. I was the only one in drama class who couldn't cry."—Blythe Danner, young Broadway star of "Butterflies Are Free."

"I wish we would have more laymen, more women, more minorities and more people under 50. I hate to even mention the chance of delegates under 30."—Dr. Cynthia Wedel, the new president of the National Council of Churches.

"It seems so little, just writing a letter, it seems so little when you've seen your husband come home and throw up his supper. When you bend over to kiss him good night and his pillow is wet from crying because his comrades have been killed for no reason at all."—Mrs. Frank Boyer, wife of a Louisville, Ky., policeman, when a group of policemen's wives was told the most they could do to make their husbands' jobs safer was to write letters urging passage of an anticrime package in the state legislature.

"I've had moments when I've really felt sorry that I was saved from it (racial discrimination). I've had very heavy, serious moments when I felt cheated in a way . . . But overall, I feel the perspective I've had is good, too—I haven't gone through the ghetto experience but I feel very deeply about it. And somehow I almost understand it as if I had been through it. You almost have the taste in your mouth." — Carol Cole, daughter of the late Nat "King" Cole, now making a film in Paris.

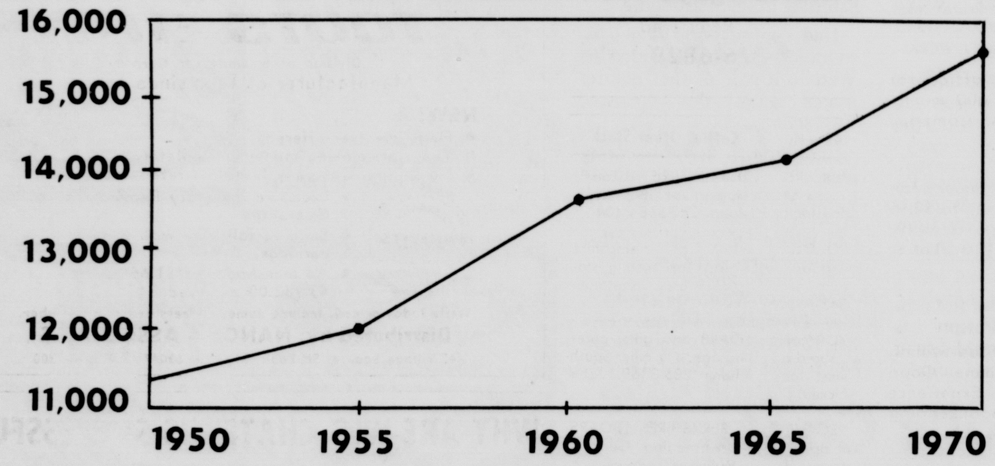
MOVING AHEAD!

The Sedalia Democrat and Capital move forward with the Central Missouri Area.

20 YEAR CIRCULATION GAIN CHART



The healthy circulation growth is reflected in these average circulation figures all of which have been audited by the Audit Bureau of Circulations with the exception of 1969. That audit will be made in April of this year.

A.B.C. Circulation 1950,	11,559
A.B.C. Circulation 1955,	11,812
A.B.C. Circulation 1960,	13,329
A.B.C. Circulation 1965,	13,774
Circulation 1970,	15,160

To many, 20 years seems to be quite a long time, to others we serve, it seems quite short. The twenty year period does demonstrate that Democrat and Capital circulation has maintained a steady growth. We believe this all time circulation high is a reflection of the quality of these newspapers. Today the reader receives more news, more pages, more complete and better coverage of local, state, national and world news than at any other time in history. Our progress in the production departments assures you of receiving a much clearer, more readable paper than ever before.

In the 1970's we shall strive to give you an even better newspaper. We look forward to the challenge of the 70's, and shall move forward at a rapid pace along with all of Central Missouri.

*1969 Circulation is subject to ABC Audit.

Threats Stop Work

ST. LOUIS (AP) — About 60 trash collectors refused to work Thursday claiming they had been threatened with violence if they worked on the anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday.

Refuse Commissioner Wayne Sutterfield said the men who refused to work are assigned to the city's north side incinerator.

Sutterfield said a supervisor, Anthony Petrovic, reported the employes said they heard the threats mainly in North St. Louis restaurants and taverns. He said no particular group was involved in the alleged threats.

Loss of Cattle

Ten per cent of all the cattle in the United States die from animal diseases every year, an annual cost conservatively estimated by veterinarians at $2 million.

WHY ARE WIG CHATEAUS SUCCESSFUL?

The wig business is booming — soon to be a billion dollar industry. Active, modern women don't have the time and want continuous change. The fact is that ladies have turned to wigs.

Women in the cities, women in the suburbs are buying wigs. A WIG CHATEAU boutique franchise is perfect for the non-operator, investor or operator-owner with or without experience, looking for a continuing high profit growth business. Single or area franchises are available.

We have the "package" that consists of wig know how... plus franchising know how.

A WIG CHATEAU investment franchise is a definite plan for success and our present stores prove this point. All of our present WIG CHATEAUS are successful. Minimum cost of a WIG CHATEAU franchise is $16,000.

Catholics and Protestants Will Speak Same Prayers

NEW YORK (AP) — The first steps toward having Protestants and Catholics worship on Sunday with identical prayers in their separate churches will be taken in the United States this year.

Standardized modern versions of certain prayers long recited by all, in one variation or another over the centuries, have been prepared jointly by Lutheran, Methodist, Anglican, Episcopalian, Roman Catholic, Congregationalist and Baptist worship experts from 20 English-speaking countries.

The Lutherans plan to try out a new eucharistic rite of their own around Eastertime, a rite incorporating the new common prayer versions of the Nicene Creed, Gloria, Sanctus and Lord's Prayer.

Roman Catholics get a new English-language Mass soon — for the 48 million American Catholics the initial date is March 22 — and it, too, will include the same prayer wordings except for the Lord's Prayer.

Nine other denominations which have been exploring unity for their 25 million believers since 1962 have also become interested in the standardized prayers for their public worship.

If all were to adopt them eventually, it would mean that close to 100 million Christians in the United States and Canada and many more in the British Isles, Ireland, Australia, New Zealand and other places where English is spoken would be reciting identical prayers even though their altar rites vary.

The standardization is the work of an interfaith body with headquarters in London, the International Consultation on English Texts (ICET). It finished several years of work on the prayers last October.

Each Protestant denomination has its own methods and machinery for legislating changes in worship, usually through annual or biennial delegate meetings, so it should be some years before the major bodies of Protestantism officially adopt the standardized prayers.

The country's 9 million Lutherans belong to three separate bodies. Each will have to act on its own in approving a permanent new rite with revised prayer phrasing.

With the Inter-Lutheran Commission on Worship already having approved the standardized prayers, the three Lutheran denominations in the United States could become the first church bodies to go ahead and adopt them formally.

Foreign Car Ban Lifted in Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Foreign car owners can once again drive onto the sprawling grounds of the U. S. Steel plant at nearby Fairfield.

Plant officials lifted a two-week-old ban on foreign cars Wednesday.

General Supt. Haran Bullard said his decision had been "intended to give emphasis to my belief that those whose livelihood is dependent on domestic steel-making are served best by using American-made automobiles made of domestic steel."

Bullard said the order was rescinded because of the possibility of undue hardships on some persons.

A Diocese Is Headed By Negro

BOSTON (AP) — The Rt. Rev. John M. Burgess today becomes the first Negro to head an Episcopal diocese in the United States.

Bishop Burgess, 60, son of a dining car porter, becomes the 12th bishop of the Diocese of Massachusetts at an installation service at St. Paul's Cathedral.

He succeeds the Rt. Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, who was elected coadjutor bishop of Massachusetts with right of succession in June, 1954, and was installed as bishop Nov. 1, 1956. Bishop Stokes retired upon reaching his 65th birthday Jan. 11.

Bishop Burgess, born in Grand Rapids, Mich., was graduated from the University of Michigan and Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge. After serving churches in Michigan and Ohio, he became chaplain at Howard University, Washington, D.C., in 1956, and later was canon of Washington Cathedral.

Ten years later he came to Boston to serve as archdeacon of the diocese and was elected suffragan bishop, without right of succession, in 1962. He was elected Bishop Stokes' successor at a special convention last June.

Other Negroes have become suffragan bishops in the Episcopal church but Burgess is the first to head a diocese. The Diocese of Massachusetts covers the east half of the state and has 125,000 members.

Of the total enrollment at the University of Missouri-St. Louis, 5,389 are men and 4,209 are women students.

Farm Roundup

Will Open Hearings On Pricing of Milk

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department will begin a hearing next Tuesday in Clayton, Mo., on a proposal to revamp the pricing system for Class I or bottling milk sold under the nation's 68 federal milk marketing orders.

At present, most marketing order prices involve formulas based on averages received by dairymen in Minnesota and Wisconsin for milk used in manufactured products such as butter and cheese, plus adjustments for conditions in local areas.

Under the proposal to be discussed next week, a composite economic index wold be uniformly applied in all order areas which would reflect general price and income changes in each region.

Federal milk marketing orders are legal instruments used to regulate dealings between producers and dealers within a certain area. The orders, initiated and subject to approval by farmers, set minimum prices dealers or "handlers" must pay dairymen for different types of milk.

They do not set wholesale or retail prices.

Department officials said that if the "economic formula" is approved—and this could take many months—the new system "would probably have little, if any, immediate effect on price and incomes received by dairy farmers."

But in the longrun, officials added, the new method "would be to tie the movement of prices and incomes received by dairy farmers" closer to the prevailing ups and downs in other parts of the nation's economy.

The hearing was requested by the National Milk Producers Federation on behalf of member cooperative dairy associations "which represent the majority of dairy farmers" selling milk under federal orders, the department said.

"As proposed, identical bottling milk (Class I) price changes would be made simultaneously in all federal order markets," the department said. "Prices to farmers would be adjusted quarterly, either up or down, in increments of 20 cents (per hundredweight) in line with changes in various economic factors."

Some of the factors proposed for a "composite index" for such a plan included:

—Average per capita disposable income in the United States.

—The average consumer price index published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

—Wholesale prices for all commodities.

—Prices paid by farmers for operating costs, labor and dairy feed.

—Prices received by farmers for beef cattle.

—The rate of U.S. unemployment.

—A dairy product price index based on wholesale prices for butter, nonfat dry milk and cheddar cheese.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of sheep and lambs being fed for the nation's slaughter market in the 26 major producing states on Jan. 1 totaled 2,844,000 head, a decline of 2 per cent from a year earlier, the Agriculture Department said in a report.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has awarded a $251,561 contract to Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., to find ways of interpreting data collected by remote sensing devices on airplanes and satellites.

"Accurate interpretation of remote sensing pictures could provide rapid information on crop species identification, crop health, crop production, range conditions, soils, major land uses, water resources and water pollution," the department said.

The six-month study will be sponsored by the Agricultural Research Service, the department's coordinating agency for remote sensing research financed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration

Will Ask Bids For Building Of Duke Plant

Industrial development director Bill Hall said Friday he will ask the City Council Monday night to call for bids for construction of the Duke Manufacturing Co. plant.

Hall said he will request that the bids be opened on Feb. 2.

Sedalians voted $450,000 in general oblication bonds for the food service equipment company on Dec. 18.

The plant will be located on West Main Street, just east of the new Town and Country plant.

The building will cost an estimated $300,000 of the bond issue, with $10,000 to go for land costs and $140,000 for equipment. Duke will put about $200,000 of their own money up for equipment, according to Hall.

Lewis and Clark Historical Point Is Dedicated

BRUNSWICK, Mo. (AP)—Lt. Gov. William S Morris today dedicated a marker on the banks of the Grand River to recognize a campsite of the Lewis and Clark expedition.

The red, white and blue marker was placed in a point at the southern edge of this Chariton County town, close to the spot where the pioneering crew of Meriwether Lewis and William Clark camped overnight June 13, 1804.

The official journals, Morris said, showed the two explorers were pleased with the countryside and one of their hunters managed to bring in a bear and a deer. Lewis and Clark themselves caught a raccoon.

All 52 campsites on the upriver trip through Missouri have been located and they will be marked for travelers and history buffs who follow along the explorers' Missouri River route.

Environment Will Be Topic At a Meeting

The relationship between man and his environment is the topic of a special informational meeting to be held from 9:30-11:30 a.m. Wednesday, at the First Christian Church, 200 South Limit, under the direction of University of Missouri staff members.

The program will provide an overview of how man is changing his environment and what it's effects are on human health. The meeting is designed for concerned citizens and especially organization leaders.

Featured on the program will be Dr. Carl Marienfield, director of the M.U. Extension Environmental Health Department; Dr. Jim Pierce, research co-ordinator of the University-Wide Environmental Health Center, and Bill Young, extension environmental health agent in Sedalia.

Similar meetings will be held Monday and Tuesday in Clinton, Warrensburg and Higginsville.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

In Combination With The Sunday Morning Capital

Sedalia, Missouri, Sunday, January 18, 1970 — C Section

1970 BUSINESS REVIEW AND FORECAST EDITION

A review of the past . . . a forecast of the future is contained in this special section which tells of the advances and changes which have been made in the Central Missouri area. New industries, businesses and community growth are spotlighted inside this section.

CENTRAL MISSOURI— an area on the MOVE...

PC Plant Here Meets a Need

The Pittsburgh Corning plant here continued operations in 1969 as one of Sedalia's leading industries, beginning production of a new nodule product that promises to be very big in today's increasingly environment-aware times.

Last year the plant began production of small cellulated glass nodules — known as SeaBeads — designed to get rid of oil spills which threaten our marine environment. The glass nodules now make it possible to burn the oil completely off the surface of the water.

Installed in Plant

Production of the SeaBeads is done in a completely new nodule plant at Pittsburgh Corning here, built last year.

Naturally lightweight and buoyant because of their closed-cell structure, the one-quarter-inch diameter gray glass beads float on the water along with the oil. Their textured surfaces become quickly covered with oil as a result of capillary action. The oil can then be ignited with an ordinary blowtorch or other incendiary device.

As the oil burns, capillary action continues to replenish the thin film of burning oil on the SeaBead nodules. They therefore act as a type of wick. Unlike a regular wick, however, they insulate the burning oil from the cold water. And since the heat developed by the burning oil is not lost, complete combustion can take place.

The high temperature "clean" burn induced by Pittsburgh Corning's SeaBeads enables them to be used to burn oils ranging from crudes to fuel oils including Bunker C.

Have a Choice

After all of the oil in a specific spill has been burned, the SeaBead nodules can be collected for use again or simply left in the water to eventually break up from abrasion with each other or with rocks and sand on the shore. Since sand is the major component of glass, as the SeaBead nodules break up, the sand is returned to the ocean floor or beach, and being made from glass, the nodules are chemically inert and non-toxic to humans. They have no detrimental effect on marine plant and animal life or the ecology of the sea or shoreline.

Since the lightweight SeaBead nodules are completely safe and easy to handle, they could possibly be airlifted to the location of the oil spill and dropped from planes or deployed from a ship. The spill could then be ignited with a small incendiary device.

Using the SeaBead nodules, a tremendous amount of oil could conceivably be ignited and safely consumed at sea before wave and tidal action could bring it close enough to shore to endanger beaches and harbors — possibly preventing millions of dollars of damage.

Big in Economy

Advances in Pittsburgh Corning's market continue to be reflected in the local economy. The total annual payroll at the Sedalia plant, including fringe benefits, is now up to $1,750,000, plant officials report. The work force stands at 240 employees.

An indiciation of the volume of work done at the plant can be seen in some statistics on railroad cars of material, both incoming and outgoing, that went through the plant last year.

There are currently 300 railroad cars a year that bring material into the plant, with a whopping 900 per year needed to ship out finished products.

Pittsburgh Corning Corp. is a wholly-owned subsidiary of PPG Industries (formerly Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.) and Corning Glass Works.

Pittsburgh Corning provides a wide variety of insulation materials for high and low temperature applications in building and industry. They also manufacture a complete line of glass block building units and an acoustical correction material.

Pittsburgh Corning Layout

One of Sedalia's early industrial acquisitions, the Pittsburgh Corning plant on West 16th Street continues to pump needed blood into the local economy. In 1969 the plant here began production of a new glass nodule designed to clear up oil spills on the ocean

Stylerite Beauty Shop New in 1969

Stylerite Beauty Salon at 210 South Lamine is Sedalia's newest haridressing shop — so new, in fact, that its owner, Mrs. Mary Bryant, hasn't even decided whether or not to set up the boutiques and extras beauty aids that many other shops devote a lot of space to.

A graduate of the Sedalia School of Haridressing in July, Mrs. Bryant opened her shop in August with one employee, Mrs. Lois Bledsoe. Walnut panels line the walls, and the overall trim is gold and white, with gold and brown draperies at the windows.

Mrs. Bryant specializes in long hair, problem hair, and also deals with wigs and hairpieces. She's kept buys in spite of the fact that bad luck seems to dog her tracks.

Thanksgiving Eve, her home in Cole Camp was gutted by fire, and the family moved temporarily to Ionia, last week, water pipes in an apartment above her ground floor shop froze; when they thawed as the temperature rose, her shop was flooded, and she and her assistant were forced to close the shop for a couple of days to clean up the mess.

Speedy Swimmer

The beaver's speed under water and its lung capacity are truly remarkable. It is able to cover a quarter of a mile in 15 minutes without coming up for air.

Kaysinger Project Into Gear

WARSAW — With the appropriation of $10 million by Congress for fiscal year 1970, major construction will resume on the dormant Kaysinger Bluff Reservoir project. Previously spending cutbacks had forced the project almost to a halt, setting back the proposed completion date to 1977.

The original completion date was 1973.

The huge 55,600-surface-acre lake, next largest to the Lake-of-the-Ozarks, will be formed by the damming of the Osage and the Grand Rivers and Tebo Creek near Warsaw.

Col. R.L. Anderson, Jr., Kansas City district engineer, told the annual meeting of the Mo-Ark Basins Flood Control and Conservation Association last Sept. 12 that with present federal spending cutbacks the completion date for the project had slipped over the last few years.

In November, however, the Senate Appropriations Committee voted to grant $10 million to the project, $3.5 million more than the $6,500 million passed by the House and sought by President Nixon in his budget.

Earlier, the Army Corps of Engineers had announced that it was taking bids for contracts valued at $54 million to be let this spring.

The latest of five contracts, part of State III of the project, calls for the construction of the spillway, power plant, substructure and the completion of the embankment of the dam.

It also calls for the relocation of Highways 7 and KK, the M-K-T Railroad bed is also included as well as some buildings in Osceola.

Stage III of the $213 million project is expected to be completed in 1975.

Funds for the upcoming contracts are to be provided under "continuing contracts," according to the Corps of Engineers, with contractors receiving funds as Congress appropriates them.

The Corps will seek funds from Congress for the project as follows: $20 million for fiscal 1971, followed by $35 million a year for the next three years, then $20 million, $15 million, and $7 million.

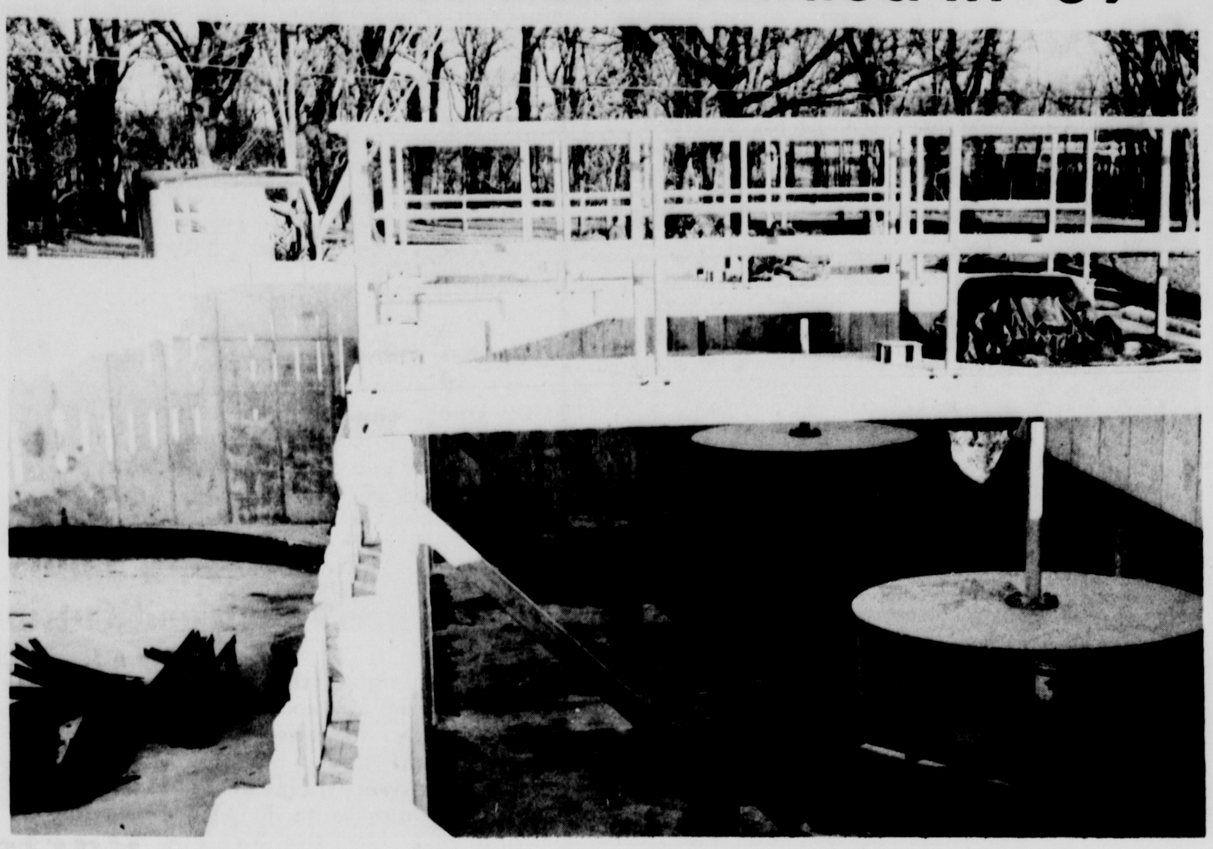
New Water Main Added in '69



Project of Department

Among the facilities being constructed by the Sedalia Water Department at the Flat Creek pumping station is this settling and coagulation basin. The drums in the right-hand portion of the photo will eventually be used for chemical mixing within the water. The tank on the left will be used to remove dirt particles from the water before it is pumped to filters and storage tanks. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

"All of the Missouri Inspection Bureau's recommendations pertaining to Sedalia's water supply system have been met, or are in the process of being met," notes Herb Taylor, manager of the Sedalia Water Department.

Those recommendations which have been totally completed include the installation of 84 fire hydrants to improve fire protection within the city, strengthening the city's water distribution system in 1969 by the installation of 41,471 feet of additional water mains, and the addition to the city water system of a 30-inch, concrete water main from the Flat Creek pumping station to the city distribution system.

The last measure will insure that Sedalia will have an adequate water supply should the old 20-inch, cast iron main rupture or need maintenance.

"For years we have been living under a system which was much more dangerous than most persons realized," said Taylor. "Up until now," he said, "the entire city has been supplied with water through only one, 20-inch main. Should something have happened to that main, the city could have been severely deprived of adequate water for a time."

Through a grant of $393,800 from the Department of Housing and Urban Development and $597,100 which the Sedalia Water Department has collected in past years, the department was able to begin construction early last year on a project which will insure adequate water for Sedalia.

The project includes the building of two settling and coagulation basins, and an additional chlorine room and storage facilities at the Flat Creek pumping station.

Together with the 30-inch water main from the station to the city, $990,900 in contracts were let to the Clinton Construction Company and KaMo Construction Company. The Clinton firm is presently building the plant facilities for $632,000. KaMo constructed the 30-inch line which was put into operation on Oct. 12 for $358,900.

Better than 37 per cent of the plant facilities have been completed and the rest of the project is scheduled for completion by Sept. 23.

When questioned whether the pumps located at the station would be adequate to carry the load of the additional 30-inch main, Taylor stated that the Flat Creek station has two pumps capable of pumping 700 gallons of water a minute and two pumps with a 1,400-gallons-a-minute capacity. At peak capacity, these four pumps could deliver 6,048,000 gallons of water a day.

He noted that the average amount of water used by Sedalia residents last year was 2,300,000 gallons per day, and that the highest amount used was only 3,800,000 gallons per day — or 2,248,000 gallons below daily pumping capacity.

Taylor said that the 30-inch main is connected to the old 20-inch main at 32nd and Washington to act as a safety feature for the water system should something happen to the old pipe.

A 24-inch pipe has been laid from Washington to Grand on 32nd Street and a 20-inch main has been placed from Grand to Highway 65 on 32nd. From this point, a 16-inch pipe will run north to 16th Street. This supply network will, when tied in with the rest of the water system, become the main source of water for the west end of Sedalia.

"It's interesting to note," Taylor said, "that west Sedalia will now be supplied with a water main only 4-inches smaller than the one that used to bring water in from Flat Creek to the entire city."

Bureau recommendations which are in the process of being completed, Taylor said, include the replacing of water mains in the entire city which supply fire hydrants with a six-inch pipe instead of the present, smaller lines.

Wheel Inn Renovated By Owners

The same clientele, for the most part, still circle its parking area — looking for space, or friends — that have done so for the past 21 years of its existence, but since July, the Wheel Inn, 1000 West Broadway, has undergone a major face-lifting job, inside and out.

Jack and Ruth Ann Hawkins, who bought the Wheel Inn Drive-In five years ago, began redecorating last summer, and with scarcely a missed hamburger, have changed it to a place where its most frequent customers, Sedalia's young people, treat it with respect.

"It's very touching," said Ruth Hawkins, who was responsible for selecting much of the decor. "They are as proud as if it were their own home." Many of them spend more time there than they do at home.

Outside, a red neon revolving wheel replaced the large white wooden one, blown down in a storm several years ago, but inside it's a whole new Wheel-Inn. The walls are almost completely glass, the side doors having been replaced by glass ones. Monolite panels outline the walls.

Color is introduced by scalloped, tasselled valances of an ivory background, with a navy and maroon Pennsylvania Dutch pattern.

The long semicircular counter has been recovered with grey Formica, and is ringed with bright red leather stools.

The wall between the serving counter and the cooking area has been pulled down, facilitating service, and the island in the center, also covered with Formica, is decorated with greenery, which the Hawkins hope to replace with a genuine old wagon wheel, to be filled with flowers, greenery, and highlighted by a self-feeding fountain.

Suspended ceilings with new lighting, and brighter lighting outside brighten the whole new Wheel Inn.

Giant Diamond Promotes Peace

NEW YORK (AP) — A 435-carat diamond, the size of a child's fist, will be ground and exhibited to promote world peace, its owners have announced.

The two-inch by two-inch uncut gem, dubbed the "Light of Peace," will be honed to a pear-shaped 150 carats and exhibited around the country with proceeds going to a special peace foundation Zale Corp. said Wednesday.

It was discovered in an undisclosed West African country last year.

At a news conference Zale officials said the cut stone would be worth $3 million to $5 million and will be the second largest pear-shaped diamond in the world.

The world's largest pear-shaped diamond, the Cullinan, weighs 530.20 carats. It is part of the British crown jewels.

Sedalia Drug Doubles Space In New Home

Sedalia Drug Co., one of the city's oldest drug stores, more than doubled the size of its facilities in 1969.

Owner-manager John Banion moved the store from 122 South Ohio, where it had been located for 50 years, into the building at 123-125 South Ohio, previously home of the Sedalia School of Hairdressing.

The move, made last June, resulted in an increase to 3,500 square feet floor space, double the old area, the elimination of the old restaurant section and addition of improved men's and women's cosmetic sections.

Banion, owner since 1967, said the move has made the store a "more complete Walgreen Drug agency."

Reviews The Year At Zephyr

Zephyr Manufacturing Co., 400 West Second, a local manufacturer of brooms, mops and cleaning equipment, saw 1969 as "a year of consolidation," according to Charles M. Huddleston, operations manager.

Huddleston reported one change in the company's packaging operation in 1969. Zephyr products are now packaged in clear polyethylene plastic, rather than the previous brown wrapping paper. Huddleston said the plastic packaging method is faster, cleaner and more efficient, besides presenting a more attractive product to the consumer.

Among the products of Zephyr Manufacturing are mops and brooms, wall-cleaning rubber sponges, household cleaning chemical wool wash, rust removers, window washers, venetian blind cleaners and aerosol products.

A new production manager was hired in 1969. Larry Carter, formerly of Springfield, supervizes production procedures in his position, striving to uncover labor-saving or money-saving productions techniques to help Zephyr create a better product more efficiently.

The Zephyr Manufacturing Co. moved to Sedalia from Kansas City in the early 1930's. In 1941, the company moved from its Main Street location to the present West Second address.

Currently, Zephyr stores much of its production quota at the manufacturing plant. However, the company is considering as future expansion the possibility of a totally separate warehouse facility since the present building is feeling the cramp of growing pains, according to Huddleston.

In 1970, Huddleston said, the company anticipates the addition of a conveyor belt system to create a more efficient production line. Huddleston said the conveyor system would also relieve employees of much of the "heavy" work at the plant.

With the addition of new and better production techniques, Zephyr Manufacturing Co. enters the 1970 business year with an optimistic outlook.

Will Ease Traffic Knots

South Highway 65 Work Is Proceeding in Area

Construction on a proposal to widen South Highway 65, from Highway 50 within Sedalia to the city limits, is approximately 57 per cent complete, according to Jim Homan, resident engineer for the Missouri State Highway Department.

A great deal of the widening on this section of highway has been finished, Homan said, although a portion of Limit from Ninth to 20th Streets still needs work. All of the water, gas and power lines in the area have been relocated, although the telephone company still had some lines to move back from the highway and some sections of curbing have not been completed. The M-K-T trestle widening in connection with this project has been finished.

Outside the city limits, a similar project is being carried on which will widen South Highway 65 into four lanes from Route F in Pettis County to one-half mile south of the Pettis-Benton County line, a distance of about 6 miles.

Here, the proposal is to construct a second 24-foot (two-lane) pavement east of the present pavement to be separated by a 60-foot median.

The limited access highway, when finished, will have a total right-of-way of approximately 250 feet, according to the State Highway Department District 4 engineer, W. H. Dill of Kansas City. Access will be provided at all public crossroads by means of at-grade intersections and cross-overs.

Property which does not have direct access to a crossroad will be provided access by means of entrances or outer roadways located so as not to isolate any property.

The county road from the west, which intersects Route 65 one mile south of Route F, will be relocated a short distance to the south of the present intersection so that an acceptable cross-over can be made.

One mile further south, Route V intersects 65 Highway. At this location, a section of existing pavement will be removed in order to flatten a sharp crest and provide safe sight distance at the intersection.

Other roads will be regraded where necessary in order to meet the new highway grade.

About one-half mile south of the Pettis-Benton County line, the new construction will terminate and a temporary connection to the existing pavement will be built.

This improvement, along with a similar project to the north, will result in a four-lane divided pavement from Sedalia to one-half mile south of the Pettis-Benton County line.

Dill recently stated that all access rights to the proposed highway have not yet been purchased and that a contract has not been let.

He also said that many of the utilities along this section of highway have not been relocated, but that the Highway Department hopes to begin construction in the spring.

The Highway Department plans to relocate Flat Creek Bridge prior to this project.

When completed the improved highway will greatly facilitate traffic in and out of Sedalia, especially during the peak season at the Lake of the Ozarks.

Sheriff to Get Modern Jail

Nearing Completion

The new Pettis County jail is getting closer to completion every day, and should be ready for use in a few weeks. The jail is being constructed on a site just east of the courthouse to make for easier access for the Sheriff's Department and lawyers and court officials. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

The completion date of the coming pride of Pettis County law enforcement officials has been set back to the last of February, barring any further bad weather.

Once expected to be completed by the first of December, 1969, the new county jail will not be ready for use until the last of Febraury or the first of March, according to Sheriff Emmett Fairfax.

Near the Courthouse

The new high-security facility is located just east of the courthouse. The single story building, of brick veneer, has two entrances — one for prisoners and one for general use — both facing Lamine.

The jail will have a 32-prisoner capacity, not including the "drunk tank" and padded cell for mental cases. It will also have a booking room, radio and clerk area, two "day" rooms, two maximum security cells, juvenile male and one juvenile female cells as well as a cell for female prisoners.

It also has a men's dormitory, sheriff's office, interrogation room, attorney consultation room and kitchen as well as a full basement, instead of the once-proposed crawl space. Sheriff Fairfax said the basement will be used primarily for storage purposes and as an emergency radio room.

The jail cells are located in such a way that each section — eight in all — can be sealed off from the others in case a jail break is attemped in one of the sections. Walkways around the cell blocks will allow observation of all prisoners.

For Both Sexes

The two major cell areas for male and female prisoners each have separate day room areas where prisoners can be allowed to walk around, but still be behind bars. At night the prisoners will be kept in their individual cells.

Each cell area has its own toilet facilities and each area is completely separated from the others by walls or spaces between the bars of each cll area.

The building has no windows or skylights. It is set back from the street to allow for some parking spaces in front of the building. The city parking lot immediately behind the jail will provide nearby parking spaces for officials or visitors.

The new jail will provide department personnel and the general public with a much safer system, as transportation of prisoners will be practically eliminated, compared to the system now used out of necessity. Presently long term prisoners are being transported back and forth to other county jails, mostly Saline County, for court appearances here while incarcerated by the department.

Passed By Voters

The jail is being built and equipped with $150,000 allocated by voters in the Nov. 5, 1968, general election following the razing of the old county jail, located at 200 South Lamine. Fairfax closed that structure, which had been condemned since the 1890s, in June, 1968.

The jail bond issue was not placed before the voters until the city hall complex proposal was defeated. County officials explained this by saying thev would have offered to pay the city to use its jail if the complex issue had passed.

After the county's jail issue passed, an offer was extended to the city by the county court and sheriff's department to use the county jail for its prisoners in exchange for paying the cost of salaries for two deputies to man the jail. This idea was opposed by Police Chief William Miller, and after much controversy and several meetings the county court withdrew its offer. Pettis County Court Presiding Judge Henry Lamm said that he hoped some arrangement could be worked out in the future whereby the city could use the county's facilities.

To Use Women

At the present time Sheriff Fairfax is planning to hire four women deputies for the new jail, to save money and manpower. It will cost the county less to hire women than men for the job, and Fairfax said a man isn't really needed to perform the required duties at the new jail.

The four deputies to be hired will be required to keep records, act as dispatchers and keep an eye on the prisoners.

There is no problem with safety or the eligibility of women manning the jail, said Farifax. Several areas around Sedalia and Pettis County are doing so at the present time. Fairfax said that when prisoners were taken to or from their cells, either he or one of his present three deputies would do the actual transferring.

Fairfax said his office in the courthouse will remain open because the statutes require that a deputy from his office keep records of all cases tried in Circuit Court and to keep records of magistrate court proceedings.

Mixed Bag of Luck For County Farmers

Pettis County farmers faced a mixed bag of luck in 1969, depending to some extent on whether they raised crops or livestock.

Among livestock growers hog farmers came out of 1969 in perhaps the best shape, with the price of hogs about 6 to 7 cents per pound higher than in 1968. With fewer hogs grown last year, the price — the best in years — is expected to stay up in 1970.

Cattle growers saw some of their profits, which begain in 1968, taper off some last year, but should still be ahead of the game because of being able to buy replacements in 1969 cheaper than this year's going prices.

Dairy farmers also had a good year in 1969, the result largely of steadily rising prices for milk and declining herds. This trend is expected to continue into 1970.

As for crop farmers, the picture in 1969 was not as good for the most part, thanks to one of the wettest summers on record in Pettis County.

The corn crop was hit hardest, with as much as one-third of the normal county crop being lost to wet weather. Lloyd Lewellen, Extension farm agent, predicts that corn will have to be imported into the county this year to feed livestock.

On the other hand, the smaller crop has boosted prices for what corn is available, with farmers getting 20 to 25 per cent more this year than in 1969.

Soybeans continued to decline in terms of yield in the county, as did prices. Wheat as well is being forced out of the market due to the low prices, with most that is grown being kept on the farm for feed.

Fescue and hay quality was hit hard by the weather as well, and many farmers may have to look elsewhere for quality in these two areas.

Despite the setbacks in 1969, farming continues to be Pettis County's biggest business, and the prospects appear good for 1970.

Hogs are expected to remain high, as well as cattle, although the latter not perhaps as good as the last two years.

The corn crop, barring another weather blow, should be good, and will find an increasing commercial grain market to the south in the Ozarks.

Chamber Manager Calls 1969 a Successful Year

The Sedalia Chamber of Commerce had a busy 1969, according to Charles K. (Chuck) Lawrence, who became executive manager of the Chamber last March.

A graduate of Smith-Cotton, Lawrence returned here after an absence of 10 years.

Last year was highlighted by many Chamber-sponsored events. One of the biggest was the annual banquet held in March. At that time the Chamber presented the 1969 Citizenship Award to Miss Hazel Lang of The Democrat-Capital staff.

Another big Chamber event was the sponsoring of "Hello Dolly" on March 14, starring Yvonne DeCarlo. This was the first time in many years that a stage show production with a nationally known cast had appeared in Sedalia.

The Chamber added 25 new members in 1969. An organized membership drive was not held during the year, but plans for this year include an all-out drive for new members.

The Chamber Agriculture Committee headed by Don Callis played a big part in assisting the Pettis County Dairy Committee in their June Dairy Month program, which included a presentation by LeRoy Van Dyke at the State Fair Agriculture Building.

Another highlight of the year was the September "Shoplifting Seminar" sponsored by the Chamber, at which businessmen learned what to watch for and how to cope with shoplifters and bad check passers.

One of the most active of Chamber committees in 1969 was the Public Relations, State Fair and Convention Committee, which was involved in several regional conventions. Among the most important were the Midwest Stud and Ram Show and Sale, which attracts breeders from all over the United States and Canada; the State Square and Round Dance Association, which draws people from a four-state area, and the Rabbit Breeders national convention which met at the Agriculture Building. Several other smailer groups also met in Sedalia during the year.

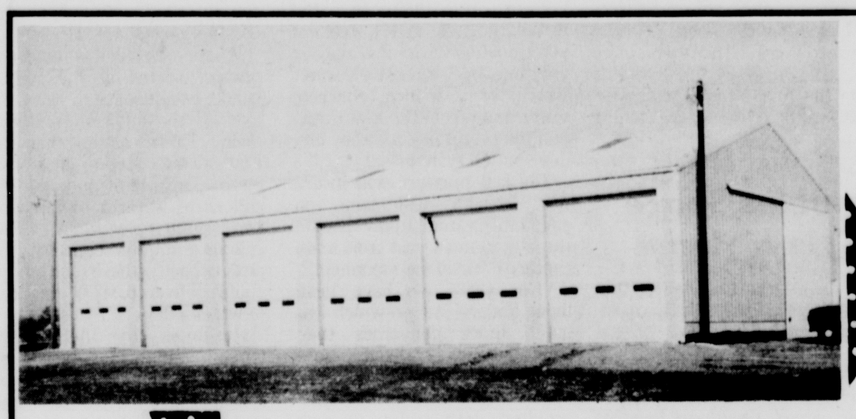
In December the Chamber sponsored the annual Christmas parade, which was considered one of the best ever held in Sedalia. It also sponsored the Christmas home lighting contest.

Lawrence summarized 1969 as being "very successful," adding that he looks for 1970 to be one of the best years the Chamber of Commerce has ever experienced.

President Was Arrested

President Ulysses S. Grant was once arrested for exceeding the Washington speed limit while driving a spirited horse. Grant put up a deposit of $20 and commended the policeman for doing his duty, but he did not appear in court.

The College of Agriculture at the University of Missouri-Columbia will observe its 100th anniversay in 1970.



• Enlarged Facilities
• New Services

Luther Jordan, president of Jordan Sand and Gravel Co., Inc., announces completion of a new 45' x 90' metal building on company grounds at 1300 West 32nd Street. The building will provide additional space for truck repair and assembly work. Six large overhead doors give easy access to the 45' long repair bays. The new building and the present shop building will be utilized in the repair and maintenace of the Jordan fleet of trucks. The shop crew is highly qualified to lengthen truck frames, install equalizing tandems, and mount truck bodies. The present shop personnel will be increased from 3 to 7 employees as soon as qualified people can be employed. Work has already started on the manufacturing of tandem pups and semi-dump trailers, which will be produced on an assembly line basis at a later date.

Grant's Boosts City Retail Sales

Addition to Center

The new Grant's Store at the State Fair Shopping Center is seen in this aerial view. The huge building has been a major addition to the list of retail outlets housed in the shopping center. Many departments, as well as a restaurant, are included in the Grant's Store.

In the large new Grant's Department Store which opened Oct. 30 in the State Fair Shopping Center, shoppers can find anything from batteries to booties, from furniture to footballs, from a cup of coffee to current fashions for all ages.

Its 70,000 square feet hold 35 departments, most of which carry products made by national manufacturers, but Manager Robert Yasgar said the Grant chain, which now encompasses 1,100 stores, intends to stock more and more goods which carry the label Grant-Maid, or Bradford, as appliance manufacturers seek to get out of merchandising and devote their industries to making goods.

The large manufacturers, which include Rival, make goods according to Grant's specifications, but elimination of advertising and distribution by the manufacturers allows the local store to charge lower prices.

Trained mechanics man the automotive center which installs auto parts through a drive-in garage in the building's south side. Auto parts are made by major manufacturers, but carry the Grant's label.

Individualistic departments include the Bradford House, a restaurant which seats 80 persons and serves carry-out meals, and is one of 120 in the Grant chain.

An attractive feature is the "Four Seasons Shop," which changes its stock seasonally, toys at Christmas, patio and gardening in early summer, etc. At the moment, paint and unfinished furniture stock the department, but the enclosed patio, which opens also onto the parking lot will soon hold gardening supplies, seed, and ideas for outdoor entertainment.

A hobby shop, which Yasgar hopes to expand to meet increasing demands, also sells original paintings. Nearby is a complete collection of popular records and tapes, adjacent to handsome television, stereo, portable photographs and tape recorders. Records not on hand, are available by special order, he added.

The entertainment center leads to the furniture section, which carries furniture of all taste, from mod to Mediterranean, and large and small appliances bearing the store's label range from deep freezes to stoves.

Cosmetics, costume jewelry, candy, cards, and gift wrappings, too are available.

Employees now total 125, with part-time help added seasonally, Yasgar said.

Almost half of the store is devoted to clothing apparel — in all sizes, from infant's wear to the heaviest adult sizes. This includes play and work clothes, coats, sheer nightwear, socks, hose, shoes of all types and sizes, and colors.

Begun in 1906 by W. T. Grant, New York, who at 91 is honorary chairman of the board, the chain opened stores at Florissant and St. Charles the same day the Sedalia branch was opened. There are no more planned until this spring, Yasgar said, and added that no part of the store is leased to independent operations.

"We use very little merchandise that carries other than that made to Grant's specification, and we intent to increase or enlarge the present operations we do have," he added.

Business Barometer Is Bright

JEFFERSON CITY — As reflected by one good barometer — activities in the office of James C. Kirkpatrick, secretary of state — business in Missouri was good in 1969.

Securities registered for sale in the state under the blue sky laws set a record of more than $3.1 billion, up by 22.7 per cent over the 1968 total of $2½ billion, which was the previous record.

Applications for registration of new securities were up 27.7 per cent to 1,310 for the year. Applications for broker-dealer licenses amounted to 1,011 an increase of 57.1 per cent over 1968.

New corporations organized or authorized to do business in Missouri exceeded any other year on record — 7,359 new businesses, up 14.6 per cent above the preceding year.

Financing statements filed by the uniform commercial code division came to 23,637, up 7.3 per cent.

The records management division received 23,248,500 documents from state agencies in 1969, up 53.8 per cent over 1968, and destroyed 8,533,250 unneeded documents, an increase of 313.7 per cent. (Since the records management program began, in 1965, it has destroyed 62 million outdated documents).

New notary public applications were up 5.3 per cent to 3,628. Together with 4,932 renewals, the total notary commissions processed amounted to 8,560 for the year.

Requests for information received by the state archives were up 76.5 per cent.

Total revenues from sales and fees to the secretary of state's office amount to $2,008,960, a gain of 5.9 per cent over 1968.

The new $7.5 million University of Missouri-Kansas City School of Dentistry will be dedicated March 1, 1970.

Alaska's Population

When ceded to the United States in 1867, Alaska's population was estimated at 30,000, of whom less than 1,000 were white. In 1967, the population was estimated at 272,000.

About 40 per cent of the 4,000 graduate students at the University of Missouri-Columbia are candidates for doctorate degrees.

Banner Industrial Year In 1969

William H. Hall

Last year was a satisfying one to William H. Hall, Sedalia director of industrial development.

In reviewing 1969, Hall lists several industrial acquisitions, which either began operations or for which bond issues were passed — Permaneer, Duke Manufacturing Co., Brown Trailer Division of Clark Equipment Co., Ashton-Richards and Jensen and Co.

"This is a vast improvement over previous years," Hall said.

With industrial acquisition comes increased employment. Hall reports that a total of 1,100 new industrial jobs have been added over the last three years, 890 of them in 1969.

Success does have its problems, however, Hall points out, in that something of a housing shortage has been created in Sedalia by the influx of new people.

The need, Hall says, is for new homes in the $12,000 to $20,000 price range. He says this would provide housing in the city for many workers who currently have jobs in the city but live outside it. He says that among local industrial workers, 15 percent live outside the city, and of that number 15 percent live outside the county.

Persons having homes for rent or sale should contact the Chamber of Commerce, Hall said, to help meet this need.

Hall points out that one of the greatest assets Sedalia enjoys as far as attracting new industry is concerned is State Fair Community College.

"Industries look not only at a community's land and buildings, but go deeper than that; they look for educational facilities and livability of a community. If an area has a vocational school with facilities to train their people and even go beyond the training state with programs for development of supervisory personnel, the industry is more likely to consider it."

In view of 1969, Hall thinks 1970 will also be a fruitful year industrially and economically for Sedalia. With Sedalia's industrial bonding capacity down to $150,944 (with another $95,000 to be added during the year by principle payments from Town & Country, Rival and Permaneer), 1970 will likely not see the number of new industries obtained in 1969, however.

Hall is quick to credit the community as a whole for Sedalia's progress in 1969. "What we have done here in Sedalia has not been the direct result of any one individual, but of the co-operation, understanding and patience of many people."

Weaverbirds

The weaverbird gets its name from the way it weaves its nest together. The weaverbirds of South Africa build a community roof of grasses and, the underside is divided into apartments, each occupied by two birds.

Most Species of Trees

The area in this country with the most species of trees is the eastern United States, particularly the southern Appalachian Mountains, which was a natural sanctuary from which trees radiated after the Ice Age.

FOR PROGRESS and PROSPERITY

. . . the Chamber and You!

The Sedalia Chamber of Commerce is made up of people and businesses who have a genuine interest and a dedication to do just one job: building a better community in which we can all live, work and play.

The most important commodity that we have for sale is Sedalia. Wherever we go ... whatever we do, be it here or in another part of the state or nation, we reflect the tempo and attitude of our city. At one time or another, each citizen in Sedalia is a salesman for our community. By channeling these selling efforts through the Chamber, significant progress can be made. Join hands with us in promoting your Sedalia.

Looking into the past year, two important industries have become a reality. Permaneer is making great steps toward the construction of their gigantic building. Construction will soon start on the new facility for Duke Manufacturing. New jobs will soon be provided to add to Sedalia's growing economy. You can be assured that the Chamber will continue in their quest for providing new and expanding industry . . . to back civic improvements that will make Sedalia more attractive to visitors as well as its own residents . . . to work as an effective force that will elevate Sedalia to a worthy position in the state and nation.

State Fair Community College Has Promise, Problems as Well

State Fair Community College made it through another year, the school's second, with many new changes as well as a few disappointments.

Enrollment was up—an increase of almost 200 percent over the school's first year of operation. The number of regular day students reached an all-time high of 643, with another 285 adult special classes, to bring the total enrollment up to a phenomenal 928.

The increased enrollment is handled by a staff of 95 persons, who had a 1969 monthly payroll average of $43,500.

SFCC is now a member of the American Association of Junior Colleges, the Missouri Association of Junior Colleges, the North Central Council of Junior Colleges, and the National Junior College Athletic Association. The college is accredited with the State Board of Education and the Missouri State Board of Nursing. This means that any credit earned in approved academic courses or the practical nursing program are acceptable at any college or institution of higher learning in the state.

Because of the defeat of two bond issues to improve and enlarge the facilities, the college is facing a population explosion in its 36,600-square-foot interim buildings, with the Agriculture Building on the State Fairgrounds being used as a gymnasium. These buildings house fully equipped laboratories, business machines, and a 4,000-volume library. The school hopes to expand the number of library volumes to 8,000 during the 1970-71 school year.

In the sports department at SFCC are several new developments. Among these are a new soccor program, a spring baseball program, and a tough new basketball team that will try to uphold last year's great record. Sports play a very important role at the school, and much emphasis is placed on the support of the Roadrunner team, coached by Fred Wheking and Lowell Lucas.

Because of an expected influx of new students next year, Saturday sessions will be utilized during the spring and fall semesters to enable classes that are overloaded to be made available to more students. College officials say that the move to Saturday sessions is a necessary one because of the defeat of the bond issue, which would have provided more buildings and equipment.

New organizatons at the college this year include a new pep club, which is designed to help promote school spirit and help cheer the Roadrunners to victory in their various games. Another new group is the State Fair Community College Singers, which was especially active during the holiday season, with many requests to sing for various civic organizations and clubs.

The vocational-technical side of the college is also represented in organizations. The most notable of these is a group of business students who have formed a club that wishes to be affiliated with DECCA, or the Distributive Education Club of America.

Of course the major setback of the year for SFCC was the defeat of two bond issues that were designed to give the college a permanent campus with new buildings to house the ever-growing number of students. In both elections, voters overwhelmingly turned down the issues.

The fact remains that S.F.C.C. is a going and growing concern. Just how both the quantity and quality of the college is determined in the future will be up to the voters.

College Changing Fast

State Fair Community College had a busy year in 1969, with disappointments as well as progress. No new buildings were erected during the year, but many improvements in the quality of instruction were made. New plans for the school include new courses and other improvements. (Democrat-Capital photo)

Aircraft Training Offered

Last June 18, Wayne Vohs arrived in Sedalia with plans for a flight instruction school and charter service. In September he completed work on a building at Sedalia Memorial Airport on East Highway 50.

The new flight service makes the second for Sedalia. Lane's Flying Club, also located at the airport, has been in operation here for many years.

Vohs owns and operates two planes. A Mooney Mark 21 is used for charter flights and is also rented out, while a Cessna 150 is used for flight instruction.

Vohs explained that completion of the flight course gives a student a private pilot rating, which allows him to fly anywhere in the United States.

The instructor also emphasized that the duration of the course is up to the student. Though the average is four months, some complete instruction in two weeks while others take as long as nine months. This instruction includes 40 hours of flight instruction and 20 hours of ground school.

Vohs has been a pilot for four years now after completing his flight training in Cape Giradeau, Mo. His ratings include commercial pilot, instrument pilot, multi-engine pilot and flight instructor.

"Presently we have a student study area at the airport and the two planes, but we hope to expand our fleet this summer with the addition of a Cessna 172 or another Cessna 150," Vohs added.

New Youth Dormitory

This $378,000 dormitory to house 4-H and FFA youngsters who exhibit and compete at the State Fair was constructed last year on the Fairgrounds. It has facilities for 200 boys and girls. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

In addition to the setting up of a new studio in Mexico, Mo., Fine Arts Studio is acquiring equipment to produce natural color portraits at their photography studio at 410 West Seventh.

Expansion of the residence, bought several years ago when Fine Arts was opened, will be necessary to keep equipment used in color photography on this scale. A deep freeze unit to hold chemicals used in color photography, heretofore used only at weddings and parties, has been purchased, but the new portrait processing will mean added cameras, studios and equipment.

The new studio opened in Mexico this summer required extensive remodeling of a vacant office building. Portraits are taken, and candid shots of celebrations, but processing of film is sent to Sedalia daily. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Talbert run the studio.

About 10 persons, including the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Yuille, are employed full or part-time at Fine Arts Studio here.

Stylarama Improves Facilities

A woman's hair can be her crowning glory, especially when that head of hair rests atop a slim, firm, well-shaped figure. What better way to achieve this end than a visit to a figure salon and the hairdresser — in one trip.

Stylarama beauty salon, formerly in the State Fair Shopping Center, recently moved to its new location at 118 South Ohio. Owner Fran Branson said that the move provided more room for the operation of both the figure salon and beauty shop, and should prove more convenient to patrons. A 17,000-square-foot parking lot at Second and Lamine is also available for customer convenience.

Entrance to Stylarama and the figure salon is through the Tiffany House lobby. The shop, located on the lower level, has been remodeled and includes carpeting and a separate shampoo room, as well as exercise equipment, a sauna bath and massage room in the figure salon. The decor features large oval mirrors in antique green frames and gold accents.

Business hours are 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and presently there are eight full and part-time operators to serve patrons.

Mrs. Branson said tentative future plans include a boutique in connection with the beauty salon.

The University of Missouri Board of Curators has approved preliminary plans for the proposed $13,284,300 University of Missouri-Kansas City Medical School building.

The University of Missouri-Columbia Graduate School offers 138 separate degree programs.

Of the 9,598 students enrolled at the University of Missouri-St. Louis, 6,780 are residents of St. Louis County.

Rival Work Force Is Boosted By 50

Rival Manufacturing Co., one of Sedalia's largest industries, upped its production by 20 per cent in 1969, according to plant manager Vern Rodick.

In addition, 50 new employees were added to the staff in the factory at 16th and Lamine.

The boost in production and staff followed the upward trend displayed by Rival since increasing its plant area to 70,000 square feet with the addition of new facilities and production machinery in 1968.

The plant is a leading manufacturer of electric heaters, meat slicers and hair dryers distributed in the Midwest. Also the Sedalia division produces the plastic moulding and electric motors used with products manufactured at Rival's other plant in Kansas City.

The Kansas City based stock corporation opened its Sedalia branch in 1953 and in addition to adding a warehouse at 304 West Main and the 1968 plant expansion since that time, the manufacturing setup has increased to 12 departments.

In looking ahead to 1970, Rodick predicted a continued rise in production and employment with expansion of facilities a possibility in the distant future.

Rodick also announced plans for new products to be manufactured in the Sedalia plant, although not disclosing the exact nature of the products.

Work on a new Rival division, located in Clinton, is expected to begin sometime this year with September 1971 as the target date for opening.

Research in agriculture has been conducted at the University of Missouri-Columbia since 1888 when the experiment station was established.

Plant is Rebuilt

Pepsi Cola's new building, completed Nov. 1, was built at a cost of $250,000 to replace an older structure which was destroyed by fire last year. Pepsi Cola employes 40 persons and distributes soft drink beverages to the Central-Missouri area. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Pepsi Rebuilds on Highway 50

Slightly over a year ago, on Jan. 5, 1969, a spectacular blaze lit up the western city limits of Sedalia, despite a daylong drizzle which had kept most citizens at home that Sunday.

The fire completely gutted the Pepsi-Cola plant at 1101 South Limit, created a smoke haze which inundated some of the city's handsomest residences east of Limit, and dragged thousands of Sedalians to the site, only to be blocked off in a four-block area.

There was little to see except the blaze ranging through the 37-year-old, 27,000-square foot bottling plant, but the danger of explosion from already packed carbonated drinks ready for shipments created a hazard which the city and county fire departments battled from the time the fire was discovered in late afternoon until the middle of the next day. Estimated damage in loss of the building, eight trucks, and a summer of service amounted to $600,000.

But the Pepsi generation scarcely missed a sip as distributors in Columbia, Springfield, and Kansas City kept the trucking operation in gear from temporary headquarters at the warehouse recently vacated by Jarold Welch Welding Co., two miles south on Highway 65, and the executive offices were set up in a motel near the old plant, which by the time the smoke cleared, offered passing motorists a glimpse of what a victim of a B-52 bomber raid might resemble.

By April, the outlines of a warehouse were adequately completed, so that the distributing department of the Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. could move into its new quarters on four and ahalf acres on West Highway 50. In September, a new 35,000-square-foot building, occupied by the offices of the management and the bottling operation were completed. A 3,600-foot annex houses the advertising layouts and vending machines.

The new main building has a brick-faced front, with sides and back of metal. Insulated and air-conditioned throughout, the soundproof ceilings top office walls lined in pecan and birch, with tiled floors. The bottling machine is separated by a wall of glass.

Last summer the flavored drinks, such as Orange Crush, Grapette, Dad's Root Beer, and strawberry, whose popularity increases during warmer weather, were processed by Royal Crown Bottling Co. and Dunn Beverage, Bagby said.

According to plant manager W. C. Ream, the new building will allow about 30 percent more production.

Keep Pace With Housing Needs

As Sedalia grows in population, so does its need for housing. Letourneau Brothers Construction Co. supplys a large amount of this need, with some of the most popular and vierse types of private housing.

The Letourneau Addition, as it is called, covers 42 acres of land south of Clinton Road, half of which extends to 32nd Street.

South Stewart and South Quincy are already about four blocks long on curving, paved and curbed streets, lined with houses ranging in decor from modern ranch to colonial to the increasingly popular Mediterranean.

The streets are quiet and traffic-free, swarming with children of all ages.

Most of the houses are family-sized, none are smaller than three-bedrooms with a bath and a half, including family rooms, kitchens with dining rooms, living rooms and foyers. They are built to the owner's specifications by the Letourneaus, or by another selected contractor.

Another of Sedalia's first subdivisions, begun in 1955 by the late C. W. Stephenson, south and west of the Sedalia Country Club, has been almost doubled the past year with the acquisition of 83 lots by Letourneau Brothers in 1969.

The land extends west from Skyline Drive to Clarendon Road, and includes the land running south from the westward arm of Southwest Boulevard to Clinton Road.

Much of the land has been developed, with streets and curbing already installed. Several of the lots have been sold, and many homes have been completed.

Leo Letourneau began his construction business in 1960, and was joined by his brother, Al, in 1965, after the latter's graduation from Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg.

By 1969, the brothers had built 36 houses in their south Sedalia subdivision; last year they added 14 new homes, and have contracted new land in Southwest Village; built homes in Walnut Hills subdivision, west of Sedalia; engaged in the remodeling of the old Safeway store at Fifth and Osage, known now as the Professional Building; and have begun construction of a new ice cream restaurant in Camdenton.

Engineering courses have been taught since 1849 at the University of Missouri.

Not Just Food

The Kroger Family Center, which opened March 12, is a completely new concept in the field of all-purpose stores. The store carries a full line of groceries, hardware, men's and women's clothing, as well as a multitude of other general purpose goods. A complete auto-service deparment is also offered to customers. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Kroger Family Center is Booming

The Kroger Family Center, on East Broadway between Marvin and Hancock, has far exceeded its original plan of serving East Side residents who sat patiently by as the West Side of the city bloomed with huge new shopping centers.

The 50,000-square-foot building offers 50 different departments, including the food department, which occupies about one-third of the building.

The rest of the Center offers low-discount varieties of clothing, hardware, sporting goods, giftware, toys, small appliances, records and tapes, an automobile service garage, a pharmacy, and a snack-bar.

Opened in March, the Family Center is the first of six such food and departmental service operations built by the Kroger Co. to utilize common check-out counters.

Store manager Richard Ink said the concept of combining food and general goods had originated in 1963, and that Sedalia's was the sixth such center, most of which are located in the Midwest, South and Southwest.

Tenderay, processed by the company, is the only brand of beef sold, but national brands are also handled in other meats, canned and frozen goods, and fresh produce.

The bakery uses Kroger-baked goods, which are shipped-in daily from St. Louis, but also contracts with local bakeries and dairies.

Ironically, the discount prices on many of the goods handled by the store — especially clothing and shoes — have lured a large following of West Side residents.

Ink, and his food manager, Bob Fluhrer, both expressed their appreciation to Sedalians for "their acceptance of the Family Center in this community."

About 100 full and part-time employees are on the payroll, not the least of which are the carry-out boys, who wheel numbered basketsful of groceries to a pick-up area in front of the store. No parking is allowed next to the store, and customers can drive up to the area from the vast parking lot, and with a matching number handed out by the check-out girls, collect their groceries at curbside.

Classic Studio Provides Complete Photo Service

A building construction delay prevented Classic Studio from opening on their scheduled last April date, but a month later, E. W. Livesay and Ed Brummet began their portrait and commercial photography business.

The partnership operates from studios at Sixth and Kentucky in the old Safeway building. Though all the construction is not finished on their 1,000-square-foot studio, the owners have begun work on all lines of photography.

The studio features ultramodern equipment, with a camera that, besides taking the picture, sets the lights, numbers the pictures and focuses automatically by merely pushing a button.

This time of the year, the studio is working on quite a few senior portraits, but they also feature restorations, copy work, some retouching, and photofinishing. The managers also commented that they can order equipment for customers at below retail prices but they do not stock it.

Brummet and Livesay commented that they were pleased with their reception in Sedalia and were planning future expansions.

Can Keep Her Dog In View of Crime

NEW YORK (AP) — A tenant afraid of burglaries has won the right to keep her small watch-dog although her lease forbids pets.

Mrs. Genevieve Matonis and her schnauzer Snafu will be able to remain together in her Lower East Side cooperative apartment because State Supreme Court Justice Myles J. Lane ruled Tuesday that "the present circumstances of rampant crime" justified her need for a pet.

Landlords have the right to restrict keeping of pets, Myles ruled, but such regulations "must of necessity vary from time to time and place to place."

Business In 'Cycles Expands

Using the skills learned while serving with the U.S. Marines, and indulging in a lifelong hobby interest, Tom Darrah began a radio-TV repair business and a motorcycle dealership in Sedalia.

In the 20 years since its beginning, Darrah's business has expanded and grown from a small shop near his home where his stock of motorcycles ran five or less, to a dealership in Midland Radio and a complete line of Triumph-Bridgestone motorbikes and motorcycles.

Last August, Darrah remodeled and moved into the building once occupied by the Gold Bond Stamp Redemption Center at 11th and Ohio, giving the business over 4,000 square feet in which to operate.

In addition to carrying an inventory of 35 cycles and motorbike models, the shop also stocks a complete line of motorcycle accessories and parts such as helmets, wearing apparel and windshields. Darrah also added a line of mini-bikes, last year. The increase in inventory has added two new employees to the business.

The shop also stocks radio supplies including two-way radios and ham radio equipment, and carries a first class license from the Federal Communications Commission.

Darrah has attended both the Triumph and Bridgestone factory schools and offers customers qualified service on these motorbikes and motorcycles.

Way to Move Cars

DETROIT (AP) — A way to get more cars through a crowded intersection when the light turns green was suggested at the Automotive Engineering Congress Tuesday in Detroit.

Train motorists to stop farther apart at a red light and start as soon as the light turns green, instead of waiting until the car ahead has moved, said retired General Motors engineer Arthur F. Underwood.

Tests indicate that if this was widely practiced, 20 or more cars might safely pass through the standard 26-second green light instead of the usual 15 cars," Underwood said.

Construction in City Reflected

Fourth quarter report from the city building and plumbing inspector reveal a marked increase in construction cost over the same period in 1968.

Estimated cost of construction in the three last months of 1969 was $538,084, $214,000 above the 1968 figure of $324,084.

Although total construction cost is over the 1968 figure, the number of building pemits were down. There were 43 permits issued in the fourth quarter opposed to 55 permits in 1968.

Up also were fees collected in the issuance of building permits. Fees collected in the fourth quarter of 1969 totaled $597, as opposed to $404 for the same period in 1968.

Total construction cost for 1969 was down compared to that of 1968, but the cost of building new homes in Sedalia in 1969 rose one-third over that of 1968.

New homes built in Sedalia totaled 56 in 1969, three more than in 1968. Fees collected for these permits were $1,077 in 1969; in 1968 the figure was $780. The estimated cost of construction in 1969 was $1,007,280, $322,130 more than the 1968 figure of $685,150.

In the commercial building category, there were 37 pemits issued in 1969 opposed to 38 in 1968. Fees collected in the issuance of these permits in 1969 were $897, $6 more than the 1968 figure of $891. The estimated cost of construction for projects under this category were $877,624, in 1969 compared to the 1968 figure of $843,110.

permits were issued in 1969, the same as in 1968, but fees collected in 1969 totaled $215 in 1969, $842 less than the 1968 figure of $1,057.

Residential addition permits were down in 1969 with 97, opposed to 120 for 1968. The total amount collected in fees in 1969 was $248. In 1968, $304 was collected. The estimated cost of construction for residential additions in 1969 was $235,816. In 1968, the cost was estimated at $112,454, 50 per cent less than in 1969.

Total construction cost in 1969 was $2,332,720. This figure is $401,983 less than the 1968 figure of $2,734,703.

State Mineral Wealth Exploited in 60's

(Democrat-Capital Service)

ROLLA, Mo. — The "Soaring 60's" would be an appropriate name for this decade as far as Missouri's mineral production is concerned, Says Dr. William C. Hayes, state geologist and director of the Missouri Geological Survey, Rolla.

With more than 20 internationally-known mining companies exploring in Missouri for new lead and iron deposits and several other companies searching for industrial mineral deposits, this decade has truly been marked by the greatest mineral exploration activity in its history.

Many people think that the days of great mineral discoveries are long gone, contends Dr. Hayes, that all of the large deposits have been discovered and exploited, and that Missouri is "on its last legs" when it comes to mineral wealth. He emphasized that this simply is not true.

In Southeastern and Eastern Missouri where exploration has been concentrated during the "Soaring 60's" for example, many of these prospecting companies have hit the jackpot. With modern equipment, know-how, and techniques, explains Dr. Hayes, minerals have been located and recovered which were not discovered by or were not accessible to early explorers. Today, there are many new lead mines, mills, and smelters in that area; new cement plants have been built; clay plants and limestone quarries are being expanded and the second iron pellet plant in the state has been built.

Production of ores and mineral products gradually reached a new all-time high of $190 million annual value in 1964 — the highest since 1951. Production has climbed steadily to reach the $360 million mark for 1969 — almost double the value of five years ago. This preliminary 1969 production estimate is an increase of $84 million above 1968 and is the largest annual dollar increase of record.

The dramatic rise for the year is not the result of inflationary prices, points out Dr. Hayes, but reflects an actual production increase in nearly all of Missouri's major mineral commodities. The largest increases for 1969 have been in the metals, with zinc production value increasing 186 percent; silver, 136 percent; copper, 117 percent; lead, 86 percent, and iron, 64 percent.

Although Missouri has no silver or copper mines, over a million and a half dollars worth of silver and almost $10 million of copper were produced during 1969 as co-products of the lead ores.

Missouri has been the nation's number one lead producer for over 50 years and the new mines, mills, and smelters in the Viburnum Trend of Crawford, Washington, Iron, and Reynolds Counties should sustain this prolific production for another half century. Missouri leads the nation in output of barite (tiff), chiefly from Washington County; is the third ranking state in production of fire clay, and holds sixth place in production of cement.

It would appear, predicts Dr. Hayes, that Missouri's remarkable mineral production record of the Soaring 60's may reach even greater heights in the 70's.

"Gentleman Boss"

President Chester A. Arthur was widely known for his elegance, his hospitality and his ready quotations from Dickens. These traits were then so rare in a politician that he was popularly spoken of as the "Gentleman Boss."

It's Immune

The hedgehog, a spiny-skinned little mammal of Europe related to moles and shrews, appears to have actual immunity to the bites of some snakes. It has been seen to kill and eat the venomous European adder without suffering any ill effects even if bitten during the process.

Boom in Franchise Eateries

Sedalia is getting its share of the national boom in restaurant franchises, a survey of recent developments indicates.

Franchises sometimes use local residents who buy into francise operations, and less often, franchises establish their own managerships, and staff their restaurants or quick-lunch counters with full or part-time local employees.

One of the most popular of the new ones is Mr. Steak at 1975 West Broadway. Opened May 19 and managed by one of its owners, Ray Mosier, Mr. Steak caters to families — serving no alcoholic beverages and closing its doors seven nights a week at 9 p.m. Mr. Steak is noted for its charcoal-broiled steaks and hamburgers, and as such is highly popular with businessmen.

Other popular items on its menu include poultry and fish dishes, and a children's menu, with reduced prices and servings, printed on a punch-out false face. Mosier bought into the franchise with Dr. Clifford Kateman, Dr. Thomas Howe, and Jerry Labus, from the dealership in Denver, Colo., which has 176 such enterprises in operation and over 200 in the building stage.

All 38 employees are part-time, and most are local college or high school students.

Down the street at 2901 West Broadway, Lum's is another popular franchised restaurant. Though it stays open until late in the evening and does serve beer, its unusual style of cooking with beer, and unique dishes makes it an interesting departure from some of its competitors.

Its employees number only five, and all are, of necessity, over 21. Though no beer is served to minors, it is a popular gathering spot for Sedalia's younger set after dances and parties. Jerry Martin, a former Sedalia police officer, manages the restaurant for the franchise, which is nationwide.

Another new franchise-directed restaurant opened in 1969, part of a fast-growing chain concentrated presently in Missouri and Kansas, is the Jack Frost Donut Shop at 632 East Broadway. Doughnuts, coffee, milk, and orange juice are served.

According to its manager, Joe Hilton, about 20 different kinds of doughnuts are served by Jack Frost's five part-time employees, including Mrs. Hilton, and one part-time high school student.

The city's newest eat and run, "run and eat" as one chooses, is Burger Chef, which opened Dec. 8 at 2909 West Broadway. Part of a chain of over 1,000 units from coast to coast, 100 of which are in Missouri alone, it serves packaged hamburgers, french fries, fish, apple turnovers and drinks from its counter only.

Customers can eat at orange-leather booths in the building, in their cars, or take their orders home. There is no curb or table service, according to the manager, Willie Swan, who came here from O'Fallon, Mo., where his brother operates a similar service.

A conveyor belt carries 1,500 hamburger patties an hour over an open flame. These are packed with condiments to order by 20 part-and full-time employes. The fish and french fries are deep-fried, while the apple turnovers are baked in an infra-red oven. Quick-service and quality meat, with no additives, are the pride of the nationwide chain, Swan stressed.

Other nationwide enterprises which have established within the past few years are Kentucky Fried Chicken, 1513 South Limit, where a boxed lunch for one, or a barrel of varied fried chicken parts can be bought to feed a whole family gathering, with side dishes of gravy, slaw, potato salad or beans.

Across the street at the entrance to State Fair Shopping Center, is Ku-Ku, a quick hamburger-and-coke dispensary and almost nationwide enterprise.

The Pizza Hut, as popular as the local drive-ins for youngsters — is popular with families, too. Established several years ago, it readies in a variety of sizes that most popular American-Italian dish with a variety of garnishes, to be carried out, or to relish with coke, or beer at tables covered with red and white checked tablecloths, and centered with wrought-iron candleholders. Its employees, some full and some part-time, are all, of necessity, over 21.

Sedalia Has Flow Of New Families

Among the ways in which Sedalia's growth during the past year can be measured is in the number of families which have moved into the area.

The Chamber of Commerce reports 232 new families took up residence in the city from January to December of 1969.

E-Z Haul Operation is a Sedalia Success Story

"By 1968 we were like the kid who is to young to cuss and too old to cry," said Mike O'Connor, partner in E-Z Haul Truck Rental Service, discussing the evolvement of the now nationwide service from Move, Inc.

With Parkhurst Manufacturing Co., the O'Connor Chevrolet-Buick-GMC - Opel dealership, held the largest of 20 shares in a Sedalia-based one-way truck rental business that utilized 400 trucks through about 600 locations. This was Move, Inc., which had been in operation since 1960.

Just By Chance

Dissatisfied with the operation, which they felt was not large enough to utilize the facilities of their own major companies, O'Connor, and Richard Parkhurst discussed getting out of the truck rental operation. Then on a business trip to Detroit, a friend in the truck rental business introduced O'Connor to the chairman of the board and the president of National Car Rentals.

The executives came to Sedalia in the fall of 1968, were impressed with the smoothness of the Move, Inc., operation, and decided that Sedalia would be geographically ideal for a center of movement in truck rental in the present-day mobile society in which about 25 per cent of the population moves every year.

In January 1969, National Car Rental offered a 10-year contract to Move, Inc., which changed its name to E-Z Haul, and set a long-range goal of 5,000 outlets. Employment increased from 75 persons to 155 working on E-Z Haul alone. With a total of 700 persons employed by Parkhurst and O'Connor, this makes the interlocking interprise the largest employer in the county.

Met the Demand

"This first year had been a headache," O'Connor said. "National Car Rental launched a $22 million dollar advertising campaign on its trucking rental alone, and we have to meet the demand." The demand led to 1,500 outlets by the end of 1969, with 3,100 trucks, 9,300 trailers, and by the end of next year we plan to deliver 6,000 trucks, and 16,000 trailers."

The bright green trucks and trailers through which local motorists felt they were swimming last year are situated on West Highway 50, and a large section of land near the Menefee Plant on West 16th. Last year, only 18-foot trucks were used, but the company plans on introducing 12-foot sizes this year. In addition are the small trailers.

The chassis is furnished by O'Connor, the truck body assembled and hitches made by Parkhurst and delivery is made by the corporation's drivers to the outlets on demand. Included in the packaged rented deal is a truck with one or two trailers, dollies for carrying heavier equipment or furniture, and padding for protection of the loaded goods.

Delivered to each outlet are trucks containing one or two trailers apiece, and one hitched on behind, for local dealers to rent to on-the-move customers.

Cost is Less

O'Connor explained that the idea was much cheaper to the middle and lower income families who are the most nomadic. "An independent company will charge $1,200 to move furnishings from a six-room house from here to the West Coast," he said. "Using rental equipment, the head of the family can load the truck and the hitched-on trailer, the family car and another trailer, for another member of the family to navigate, and make the same move for about one-quarter of the cost at least. And that few hundred dollars means quite a lot."

So far employment has not been a problem, despite the magnitude of the service. Mostly local people are used — many on a part time basis. One shift from 5 to 10 p.m. employs mainly students, from the highschools, junior college and Central Missouri State College.

A fair share of boys "between directions" are hired, too, those who can't decide whether or not to go on to school, or are awaiting draft call, as well as trained laborers. New boys are assigned to attaching the company's trademark — the two black elephants, which are dubbed "Packy and Tailgate."

Tops in Nation

Long advertised as Central Missouri's largest General Motors dealer, the E-Z Haul truck rental system has vaulted Mike O'Connor into the position as the largest Chevrolet truck dealer in the country.

He and Parkhurst visit the home office of National Car Rentals in Minneapolis two or three days a month on an advisory basis to provide additional information or ideas in the truck rental field.

"Sedalia used to be known as a railroad town — our business will make it a leader in the truck rental supply field," O'Connor concluded.

Zoo's Lion Tamer Enters Retirement

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Jules Jacot the St. Louis zoo's 79-year-old lion tamer, is retiring.

Actually, says Jacot, who has been handling the big cats since 1906, it is more like a firing, although he is being retained as an adviser in animal training.

William Hoff, executive director of the zoo, announced Jacot's retirement Wednesday and said the peppery little lion tamer's big cat act will be replaced in the summer with a sea lion show.

Zoo officials have been concerned about the Safety of Jacot for several years. His arm was chewed by a lion in August 1968 and last August he was injured when a lion closed his jaws on the trainer's head.

Jacot, who usually sports a beret when he works, shrugs off such things.

"I get bit every year," he said.

He told an associate recently "I've made some bad business moves, but no bad moves in the arena. I still have all my fingers."

Klassic Grows With the Times

"By the end of this year, our trade area should extend from the Rockies to the Alleghenies," said Jim Lewis, executive vice-president of Klassic Manufacturing, 32nd and Clinton Road.

With the mushrooming expansion of Klassic's trade area, the number of dealers throughout the country handling Klassic merchandise is also expanding. This was evident at Klassic's annual "Dealer Days" convention held Nov. 2 at Holiday Inn.

Boon To Business

After doubling work facilities in 1968, and obtaining extra working capital after becoming a wholly-owned subsidiary of King Louie, Inc., of Kansas City, Klassic has increased its business by 36 per cent over 1968.

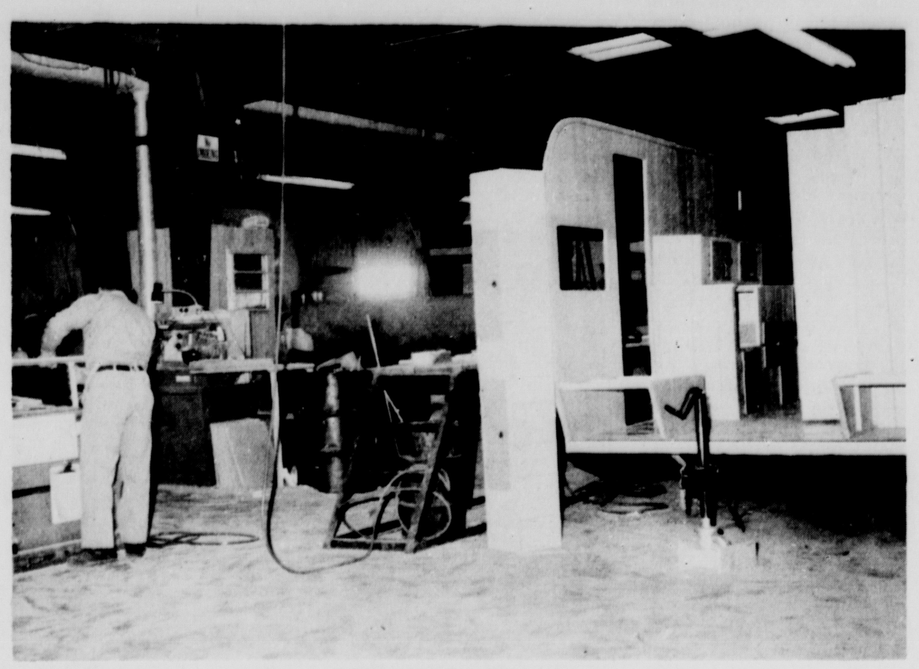
The year 1969 also saw Klassic double its 1968 work force. In peak production periods, more than 60 persons are required to handle the work load, according to Lewis.

Klassic manufactures pickup truck covers, and self-contained coaches and trailers, three items enjoying successful growth in the booming recreational market.

Lewis has found the versatile pickup cover receives many demands for both functional and recreational uses. Klassic receives orders frequently for pickup covers especially designed for transporting hunting dogs to a favorite wildlife area, or asking for a simple shell design with no windows, to assure weatherproof transport of rugged work and farm materials.

Growth in Line

The truck covers have always been a mainstay in the Klassic line, but with the advant of the boom in the popularity of family camping, the local manufacturer now has expanded into self-contained coaches and trailer units. The Klassic line, which now sports eight different floorplans in its coaches and trailers, expanded by three in 1969.



Assembly Line Construction

The "Earl" is the smallest of Klassic's three coaches. Measuring 8 feet, but still capable of sleeping four persons, it comes equipped to fit any pickup bed with a 12-volt electrical system, water storage tank with pump, stainless steel sink, two-burner range, 50-pound ice refrigerator, ICC lights, a city water hookup, gas bottle with regulator, and a roof vent and screen door to insure comfortable summertime circulation.

Just as the "Earl" is the smallest coach or trailer in the Klassic line, the "Baron," also a 1969 addition, is the largest. This 17½-foot travel trailer comes in two floor plans, one with a side kitchen and one with a rear kitchen. Perhaps the most remarkable feature about the "Baron" is that it is capable of sleeping six persons when the optional overhead bunk is chosen. Even without the bunk, this trailer sleeps four comfortably on poly-foam cushions. The "Baron" has a steel box frame, a one-piece aluminum underside, three-burner range and oven with a range hood, double stainless steel sink, a 75-pound ice refrigerator, all solid door construction with an expanse of cabinets and drawer space.

There is a 20-gallon pressure water system, city water hookup, 12-volt electrical system, electric brakes, fold away step, storage bumper, double gas bottles with regulator, roof vent, awning windows with screens, screen door, magazine rack, ICC lights and a rear trunk door.

Part of Line

The "Squire" is the third addition to the 1969, Klassic line. A 14½-foot travel trailer, it too has the sturdy, weather-proof construction of the larger "Baron." The "Squire" comes equipped with a three-burner range, stainless steel sink, 75-pound ice refrigerator, all solid door construction with plenty of storage space, 20-gallon water storage, city water hook-up, 12 volt electrical system, storage bumper, gas bottle with regulator, ICC lights and a rear trunk door.

All three of these new models sport color-coordinated, scotchguarded fabrics, draperies, pre-finished wood paneling and vinyl cushion floors. Klassic's designers have reached a fine point in utilization of space on their models, all warranted for one year. Exteriors are guaranteed for five years against peeling, chipping or crazing.

If predictions for the future are not unfounded and man's leisure time continues to increase, then Klassic Manufacturing can expect its rapid growth to continue.

Bell Telephone Growth in Sedalia During Year

Reviewing telephone expansion in Sedalia, Bob Johnson, manager for Southwestern Bell, cited a growth rate of some 2,800 more telephones in service now than in 1960.

Johnson said about 13,035 telephones were in service in the Sedalia exchange in 1960. Today the total stands at approximately 15,835.

As for telephone growth in 1969, the number of telephones jumped by more than 500 over 1968.

Johnson also noted construction expenditures in the exchange for 1969.

Construction expenditures of almost $700,000 helped to provide "our Sedalia customers with the best telephone service possible," he said. Projects covered by the expenditures in 1969 included more underground cable and additional switching equipment.

In his review, Johnson noted that Direct Distance Dialing began for four-and eight-party customers in the Sedalia exchange in 1969. DDD, which was already available to one-and two-party telephone users, enables a person to dial his own station-to-station long distance calls.

Bob Johnson

The manager also stated that in 1969 residents of Sedalia made 68,118 local and more than 11,200 long distance calls on an average business day.

"This large volume of calls together with the increasing demand for more telephones and up-to-date service kept the telephone company busy in 1969," he said.

Johnson said Southwestern Bell is preparing now for additional expansion in the new year and on into the 1970's.

"We're looking ahead to the world of the 70s and beyond. We intend to keep growing with Sedalia," he said.

Employment Service Fills Need

Sedalia's first professional employment agency officially opened when Mayor Ralph Walker clipped a ribbon at the door of the Baker & Baker Employment Service on Dec. 1.

Attending the ceremony and visiting the new offices, located in third National Bank Building, on opening day were some 75 Sedalia businessmen, industrial plant managers, city, county and state officials and others who expressed their interest in the new business.

Baker & Baker's Sedalia offices are owned and operated by two former Sedalia newspapermen, Ralph H. Jones and Peter F. Daniels, under a franchise agreement with Baker & Baker Employment Service, Inc., headquartered in Nashville, Tenn.

Before opening the new offices, Jones and Daniels attended an intensive personnel placement training course at Baker & Baker's corporate offices in Nashville, and both earned certificates as counselors. The course included all phases of modern personnel placement along with state and federal laws relating to such activities.

Prior to opening the new Sedalia business, the owners consulted with dozens of local and area businessmen, industrialists and employees. These consultations confirmed what Baker & Baker's officials knew all along — that in this area, as well as nationwide, there is a lack of communications between employers and employees. Employers often do not know how to effectively go about finding personnel to fill their needs. On the other hand, prospective employees do not know how to find the job for which they are actually suited.

Baker & Baker Employment Service has successfully bridged this gap.

Baker & Baker decided to locate in Sedalia because it had, for many years, been the rule with employment agencies to serve metropolitan areas. However, when the B & B parent firm was formed five years ago in Athens, Tenn., a town of 16,000 people, it was decided to follow a different course. They would bring professional employment agencies to the smaller cities and suburban communities.

"We feel that we are in a better position to understand the needs of our people and businesses than some agency in another community," Jones and Daniels said.

"Instead of emphasizing placement of engineers, scientists and executives, which we place, too, we will serve all the employment needs of businesses and industries in this area by placing semi-skilled, skilled, clerical and professional people, as the need arises," the Baker & Baker franchise owners said.

The Baker & Baker system now has more than 200 offices in over 14 states, and by concentrating on service to smaller, but growing, communities, has in five short years become known as the fastest-growing employment service in the industry.

The parent Baker & Baker company was recently purchased by United Service Systems, Inc., a newly-formed Nashville Company.

All B & B offices are connected by "Tele-System," through which local offices can fill the needs of virtually every employer in the area.

Since the local office opened here, reception from the Sedalia business community has exceeded expectations and shows promise of becoming an even more beneficial relationship than originally anticipated, the owners said.

Own New Franchise

Ralph H. Jones, left, and Peter F. Daniels are the owners of the new Baker & Baker Employment Service in Sedalia. The firm is part of a growing national employment network based in Nashville, Tenn. It is Sedalia's first employment service.

Introduce New Idea At Lamy

Lamy Manufacturing Co., 103 West Pacific, once again experienced a year of full production under contract from Levi Strauss & Co., San Francisco, according to John Pelham, secretary-treasurer of the local industry.

Lamy's has been running at full production since 1949, when the first contract with Levi Strauss & Co. was signed.

In 1969, however, Pelham said the company increased its work force by about 50 to more than 300, thanks to the implementation of a new single-needle construction method as opposed to the old double-needle procedure. Pelham said the single-needle method requires more work hours, but produces a finer finished product — in this case, blue denim jeans or Levi's.

Pelham cites the continued popularity of blue denim levis as durable work clothes and fashionable leisure attire as the basic reason for Lamy's sustained full production output.

The firm grew out of a small shop operated by Ernest Lamy, back in 1886. It was organized as Ernest Lamy & Co. in 1893 at its present location. Since that time, several building expansions have created the existing facility.

One of Sedalia's largest industries and employers, Lamy Manufacturing now has its Levis shipped on an international basis to such faraway places as Thailand, Australia and the European countries. Even the Soviet Union recently opened its doors to Levis.

With no end in sight to the contract work for Levi Strauss & Co., Lamy Manufacturing, according to Pelham, looks forward to continued full production output in 1970.

Nautical Theme To Barbershop Set to Open

"Ben's Den," owned and operated by Ben Pummill, barber and hair stylist for men in Sedalia for the past 11 years, will open Jan. 20 at 1421 South Limit.

An overall nautical theme will predominate, with color accents of blue, gold and brown. Barber chairs will be modern in design of a gold color, while chairs for waiting patrons will be captain's chairs of brown oak. Draperies will be deep blue.

One wall will be covered with a nautically-designed vinyl paper, and a shelf containing a coffee dispenser, will be held to the wall with a ship's rope, with a hurricane lantern hanging above.

The main light fixture is a ship's helm.

Pummill will be assisted by Jack Smith in the three-chair shop, and plans to hire a third barber soon.

Kim Originals Outgrows Home

Expansion is the key word describing Kim Originals over the past year. The company continued to prosper throughout 1969, and the results can be seen nationwide.

Over an 8-year period, Kim Originals has grown from a small business in a Midwestern town to a nationally known operation. The first location was in the basement of L.F. Cline's home, where a small work force engaged in artificial flower-making.

Expansion nationwide includes the opening of a permanent showroom at the Atlanta, Ga., Gift Market. Temporary showrooms being established for 1970 will be located in the Dallas Trademark, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha and Minneapolis. Various distributors for Kim Originals will be making private appointment showings.

The 1969 sales force grew to cover distribution in Missouri, Georgia, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin, Tennessee, Kentucky, Louisiana, Arkansas, New Mexico, Texas, Florida, Illinois, Ohio and Indiana. To cover this large area, nine sales representatives are employed. The local work force has increased to 33 employees.

With sales increasing, working space became scarce. To alleviate the problem, a new addition was built last year. The 60 by 80-foot expansion doubled the working space. The new area is used for pottery make up and warehouse space, and half of the employees work there making artificial floral arrangements.

Not long ago, Kim Oiriginals introduced what soon became a best seller — handbrushed antiqued fruit and vegetable arrangements. Business has since increased 45 per cent, all of which is attributed to the new fruit. According to Bill Cline, owner, "The fruit is of excellent quality, unusual, and something competition has not yet equalled." It is the only such line in the country, Cline believes. The Spanish and Mediterranean look in home furnishings has increased the popularity of the new product, he added.

Expanded Operation

Kim Originals enlarged their building to the east in 1969, providing needed room for their ever-expanding line. Bill Cline, owner, says he is especially pleased with his East Sedalia location, and recommends the area to other businesses. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Though Kim has become known nationwide, Cline expressed gratitude to Sedalia for its success. "Sedalia has given the help and support needed. We still concentrate on the Sedalia showroom and are grateful to the Chamber of Commerce and the people of Sedalia who have made us the success we are."

Cline added that he finds the East Side location "great," and recommends the district to other considering building or expanding.

Stars' Colors

Colors are indications of star temperatures and also tell which of the elements make up the stars. As a rule, the blue and the white stars are the hottest, while the red ones are the cooler stars.

Variety in Wigs at New Shop

Want to see how you would look as a blonde without doing anything permanent? Want the glamorous look of long, flowing locks without the upkeep problem? Try a wig or fall.

Last March 20 the Wig 'N You, 102 West Fourth, opened its doors. Mrs. Wayne Templeton manages the shop, which currently employs seven people. Cal Bormann is shop stylist. Expansion plans are in the near future, according to David Curry, principal owner.

In addition to paneling and thick red carpeting, the store's decor also features lush red velvet drapes, which provide an elegant atmosphere in which to shop.

The Wig 'N You carries a complete line of both 100 percent Indonesian human hair and the latest in synthetic hairpieces. Available in addition to popular wigs, wiglets and falls are such items as individual curls and the new Afro wig. The shop also stocks hair accessories.

The customer is offered high quality hairpiece goods at inexpensive prices because the shop buys directly from an importer.

Wig 'N You serves Sedalia and the surrounding area, and offers two innovations for the wig owner and prospective wig buyer. In addition to the 24-hour sytling service available at the shop, interested persons can have wig parties in the privacy and comfort of their own home with the help of a shop representative.

Hair to Match

The Wig 'N You, 102 West Fourth, specializes in all types of hair pieces and wigs, with a complete selection of both. Wigs are fitted and carefully styled to suit the individual's head to insure a perfect fit every time. Pretty assistants, such as Kal Bormann, above, are always on hand to lend their assistance. Missouri Shoe Makers Discount Foreign Trade

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Missouri's shoe manufacturers say the growing number of foreign-made shoes entering the United States each year has not been a substantial influence on their production.

Imports, primarily in the women's shoe market, have forced some small east coast companies out of business.

Spokesmen for Missouri's two shoe manufacturing giants, International Shoe Co. and Brown Shoe Co., say they favor some federal legislation that would set up a variable quota system on imports. However, the St. Louis companies believe such legislation is unlikely and say they are meeting the challenge of imported shoes with domestic products of better quality at competitive prices.

Charles A. James, director of research for the regional industrial development corporation in St. Louis, says recent studies by his organization show Missouri shoe manufacturers have shut down no plants and made no cutbacks in working hours.

"Missouri shoe manufacturers have solved the import problems because their plants are located for the most part in small communities where costs and labor are much lower than metropolitan areas," James said.

"In addition, Brown and International have acquired some foreign shoe manufacturing plants, thereby entering directly into the import shoe business," James explains.

Brown Shoe Co. recently opened a pilot plant in St. Louis. However, the bulk of its manufacturing is done in the smaller Missouri towns of Mountain Grove, Brookfield, Potosi, Bernie, Charleston, Union, Owensville, Fredericktown, Caruthersville, Dixon, Versailles, Ironton, Pieddont and Steelville.

International Shoe Co. maintains one plant in Jefferson City. Its other plants are located in Belle, Herman, Jackson, Marshall, Perryville, St. Clair, St. James, Salem, Sikeston, Sweet Springs, West Plains and Windsor.

Julian Edison, director of merchandising for a group of retail stores in St. Louis, says as long as women favor the bulky look in shoes the import business will present a challenge to domestic shoe manufacturers.

But Edison says if American companies continue to produce a better product at about the same price as imports, retailers will buy the domestic shoes.

"If the women like a certain style show, it doesn't matter if it's foreign or domestic. We can stock American - made shoes faster than the imports, and naturally we favor the domestic brands," Edison said.

Center For Tractors

Owned and operated for 23 years by Everet Stevenson, Stevenson Tractor Co. opened for business in their new location on West Highway 50 March 22. Business has increased because of the larger parking lot and better access to the new building, where Ford Tractors and equipment are on display. The new structure also houses a paint and storage shop. (Democrat-Capital photo)

90 YEARS ----of Growing With SEDALIA

. . . it all began back in 1880 . . . a time when Sedalia numbered it's people in the hundreds, not in tens of thousands.

McLaughlin Bros. has grown with Sedalia and Sedalians from the first store located on West Second Street to our present modern store located in the downtown business district.

We've served a lot people, too . . . in fact, it is a point of pride with us that we are now serving the fourth and fifth generation of our original customers.

There have been many great changes in these years of serving Sedalians . . . but there has never been a change in our basic principle: Giving our customers America's finest quality home furnishings and appliances at reasonable prices.

We hope to serve another 90 years!

Computer Service Finds Market

With the installation of its IBM 1450 machines last March 10, the Sedalia Computer Services Center opened for business, marking Sedalia's entry into data processing on a large scale.

The service is located in the basement of The Democrat, in an area specially built for the computer service, with a raised floor under which the cables are stored. At the present time only one-half of the area is in use, but Larry Lawson, computer programmer, explained, "We are hoping for growth and expansion and will eventually use the extra room for more keypunch operators."

The service's first customer was State Fair Community College, which uses the computer to make out its payroll. Now the center boasts a clientele of 13 companies. Included in this group are Olin Conductors, Howard Construction, Parkhurst Manufacturing, and companies in Carrollton and Fayette.

In making out payroll checks for the computer, the company submits a worksheet with employees' names and other vital information and the hours each employee worked. At the service center, the computer employee keypunches the sheet, feeds it in the reader which passes it on to the master file, and the computer makes out the checks showing deductions, take-home pay and yearly income. The entire process takes a fraction of the time normally devoted to payrolls under the usual system.

In addition to payroll checks, the computer handles checking accounts for Sedalia Bank & Trust and some for Missouri State Bank. The checks carry a magnetic ink code which the computer reads, enabling it to update every checking account each night.

Changes are then recorded and put back on file in the computer's memory bank.

Lawson explained that the computer uses magnetic disc storage, and that each pack stores two million characters. This means that an enormous amount of information can be stored in a small area.

The computer service center has five full-time employees and one part-time employee. Larry McRoy is the manager with Lawson, programmer. Two operators and a keypunch operator complete the crew.

Persons need not have a college degree to become a computer programmer, Lawson noted. All that is required is an aptitude, with a background in math helpful. Lawson added that employers are currently considering the college degree less and aptitude more when selecting computer programmers.

Modern Equipment

Actress Files For Divorce

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Former film actress Jean Peters has announced that she plans to divorce Howard Hughes, the billionaire recluse who owns much of this gambling center.

Miss Peters, now 43, and the wealthy ex-moviemaker were married in 1957 and are childless. He is 64.

The secret marriage ended a highly successful decade of film-making for the dark-haired actress, a onetime Canton, Ohio, farm girl who won a trip to Hollywood in a campus popularity contest in 1946.

Miss Peters probably is best remembered for her role in "A Man Called Peter," in which she portrayed the wife of a crusading minister who rose through many tribulations to become chaplain of the U.S. Senate.

She had other leading parts in "Viva Zapata," "Apache," and "Three Coins in the Fountain." All told, she had more than 15 screen credits.

Her divorce plan statement said: "Our marriage has endured for 13 years, which is long by present standards. Any property settlement will be resolved privately between us . . . This is not a decision reached in haste and it is done only with the greatest regret." She was unavailable for further comment.

Hughes has vast holdings in Nevada hotel-casinos, plus aerospace, movie and oil firms, and is believed to be worth more than $1.5 billion.

Each had been married once previously. Hughes was divorced in 1928 from socialite Ella Rice of Houston. Miss Peters is the former wife of oil man Stuart W. Cramer III.

Friends of Miss Peters have said she adjusted to the Hughes way of life even though he personally controlled her outside contacts and specified the length of her absences from home.

Growth is Rapid At State Farm Agency Here

The development of the State Farm Insurance agency in Sedalia has had a rapid growth in keeping with the progress of this area. In 1953, there was one representative in Sedalia. In 1969, this had grown to a district office with five agents, three claimsmen, a district manager, and four clerical and stenographic personnel.

In the 16 years, the Sedalia agency for State Farm has increased from 1,300 policyholders to approximately 6,000 policyholders insured in auto, life, and fire. The office, located at 2111 West Broadway, was built in 1963.

According to William C. Hopkins, district manager for Central Missouri, State Farm has been the largest writer of both automobile and homeowners insurance in the United States for several years. The Sedalia agency surpasses the national averages in these two lines. State Farm is also rated as the fastest growing major life insurance company in the country.

Prized as Delicacy

Guinea pigs were once prized for their delicacy as a meat in Europe and by the Indians in parts of South America.

Served as Model

Hospital Adds Equipment, M.D.'s

Last year saw many improvements at Bothwell Hospital, according to Don Feeback, administrator of the hospital.

In May, the hospital acquired trailer units for office use. This addition added 1,800 square feet and permitted modification of the X-Ray department. Presently over $100,000 worth of X-Ray equipment is being installed.

In addition to new X-Ray supplies, the laboratory department is being modified. New equipment is in use now for additional testing. Also the intensive care unit, which had been discontinued because of lack of personnel, has been put back into operation.

The hospital also established a pediatric ward this year. It consists of seven beds for children up to age 12.

Equipment purchased during 1969 included a new operating table, five suites of patient room furniture, new intensive care unit beds and a new laundry dryer.

The medical staff at Bothwell Hospital also was upgraded in 1969 by the addition of three specialists, a surgeon, pathologist and internist.

Dr. Robert L. Glass, 36, returned to Sedalia last year after serving a tour in Vietnam with the Marines. Dr. Glass received his A.B. and M.D. degrees from Washington University, St. Louis, and interned at St. Luke's Hospital there. Most of his surgery residency was spent at St. Louis City Hospital No. 1.

Currently serving two academic appointments, Dr. Glass is clinical assistant in surgery at Washington University and assistant professor of surgery at the University of Missouri.

Dr. John Owens, 34, joined the hospital staff as a pathologist in 1969. A native of Independence, Dr. Owens took both his A.B. and M.D. degrees at the University of Missouri-Columbia, where he also interned and took his residency at the University of Missouri Medical Center.

Bothwell Hospital has obtained Dr. Owens' services through a contract with Boyce and Bynum, Columbia pathologists. The Columbia center provided Dr. Owens to the hospital and performs all required pathological services for the hospital.

Dr. Jerome Block, 31, a specialist in internal medicine, took his A.B. degree from Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., and his M.D. from New Jersey College of Medicine.

His internship and residency were spent at Los Angeles County General Hospital. While in California he was also a clinical instructor in medicine at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Dr. Block is currently assistant clinical professor of medicine at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

With ever-increasing costs, hospital room rates also increased last year. For a private room they rose from $32.50 to $36, for semi-private rooms from $27.50 to $31, and ward price changes rose from $21.50 to $23 and from $24 to $27.

The board of trustees embarked on a major improvement of the hospital when it accepted a report from Dr. Thomas Weil and a University of Missouri planning board which recommended expansion of the hospital. The master plan actually proposed an entire new hospital but gave expansion as a second choice.

The second phase of the master planning, block layout, is currently underway by Medical Planning Associates of Malibu, Calif.

In accordance with the need for improvement, plans for a 1970 bond election for about $2 million have been firmed up. The money would provide an extension of the hospital to the west and provide needed beds and facilities to accommodate the hospitals growing regional constituency.

Space Put to Use

Western Auto Returns With a New Store Site

After a year's absence, Western Auto, a nationwide retailer of automotive equipment, hardware and household goods, has returned to Sedalia.

On Sept. 27 of last year, the new Western Auto store, located at 1715 West Broadway in the old Kroger building, opened for business, bridging a gap of one year in which the national franchise was not in existence here. It was in September of 1968 that the old franchise closed.

Since that time Western Auto had been seeking to reopen their store here, but at a different location which afforded plenty of free parking in a busy part of town. Parking at the old Main Street store, as many may remember, was in limited supply.

The vacant building at 1715 West Broadway seemed ideal to the needs of Western Auto, and after extensive renovation to the inside of the structure, Western Auto was once again open for business in early fall.

The new store is managed by Wayne Mucke, formerly a Belton grocer for 23 years. Mucke lists four fulltime and two part time employees at the 5,600-square-foot store. He estimates approximately 3,500 items are in his inventory.

The doorway is flanked by hot water tanks on one side and water skis on the other. Western Auto, whose trademark is automotive parts, has an installation center where customers can have tires, batteries, mufflers and other purchases installed.

The items found in Western Auto's stock include sleds, bikes, easy chairs, washers, ranges, refrigerators, stereos, sporting equipment, toys, hardware goods, household equipment, tools, garden accessories, and of course, the familiar line of automotive parts.

"We were very pleased with our Christmas business," Mucke said. "In fact, business in general has been very promising. We passed our projected quota for the first quarter long before it was anticipated."

Apparently, many people missed the Western Auto franchise during its one year absence. If this is the case, expansion could be possible in the future.

The White House

The gray sandstone walls of the Executive Mansion were painted white to cover smoke stains after the building was burned during the War of 1812, and thereafter it began to be popularly known as the White House. This name was first used on the president's stationery during the administration of President Theodore Roosevelt.

Dental students at the University of Missouri-Kansas City will begin attending classes in the new $7.5 million UMKC School of Dentistry building on Feb. 2, 1970.

Plenty of Turkeys At Swift Hatchery

A new addition to Sedalia in 1969 was the Swift's Turkey Hatchery, with L. K. Potter, production manager, in charge.

Turkeys hatched in the Sedalia plant are distributed within an area of 100 miles of Sedalia. The hatching eggs are also produced within a 100-mile area. Egg hatching is done through mechanical means; throughout a 28-day period the eggs go through Robbins incubators, lifters, Robbins hatchers, fumigation and finally distributed to the various dealers. During one week, 100,000 eggs can be set.

The total egg capacity between incubators and hatchers is 400,000 eggs. During a season, two million eggs go through the plant.

The hatchery itself is one of the cleanest places in town. Floors and walls are hand scrubbed with disinfectant, rooms are fumigated two to three times a week, and separate fresh air and air exhausts are in each room to prevent diseases from reaching the young poults. Every precaution is taken to prevent bacteria from entering the plant.

At the peak of production — January to July — 22 employees are on the job. The building occupies a space of 9,200 square feet and is fully airconditioned.

"We have met our goal for the first year and are looking forward to a prosperous 1970," Potter said. "We are happy with the decision to move to Sedalia, and wish to thank the people for their cooperation, goodwill and hospitality."

Mortuary Improves Facilities

An extensive remodeling and redecorating program was completed last fall by the Heckart-Gillespie Funeral Home.

One wall was removed to give the chapel a seating capacity of 150 persons. Overflow crowds are seated in the south wing, allowing seating for an additional 200 persons. A closed-circuit television is provided for persons not seated in the chapel.

Redecorating included new furnishings, new carpeting, seamless flooring in the operating room and new paneling in the office.

The exterior was remodeled and includes two new cupolas in the east wing, three new overhead doors, three new entrance doors, wrought iron railings, new concrete driveways and sidewalks.

A new heating and air-conditioning system has been installed to provide the interior with year-around climate control. A new Cadillac funeral coach and a limousine have been added to the fleet of cars.

A unique feature of the Heckart-Gillespie Funeral Home is that all the facilities are on ground level. Six private state rooms are provided as well as a large selection room.

Defense Pact

In 1280 B.C., the Hittites and the Egyptians concluded the first nonaggression and mutual defense pact in world history. The good understanding was cemented at top level by the marriage of Rameses II to a Hittite princess.

University of Missouri-Kansas City's radio station KCUR-FM is one of 73 public broadcasting stations in the nation qualifying for Corporation for Public Broadcasting (CPB) support.

Set Up Hatchery

A new addition to the Sedalia scene is the new Swift's Turkey Hatchery, Broadway and Harding. Over 2 million eggs are sent through the plant, and turkeys hatched from the Sedalia plant are distributed over an area of 100 miles surrounding Sedalia. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Utilities Usage is Up For Sedalia Over '68

All three Sedalia-based public utilities showed increases in the number of customers served, and water, gas and electricity consumed in 1969, as compared to 1968.

The Missouri Public Service Co. had a total of 107,009 gas meters in service in 1969, compared to 105,017 in 1968. There were 1,888,408 units of gas consumed last year, compared to 1,846,747 units in 1968. The units of gas are measured as 1,000 cubic feet.

M.P.S.C. had 67,204,172 electrical customers this past year, compared to 60,996,925 in 1968, with an increase of over 6,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity used.

The Sedalia Water Department reported it had 8,430 water meters in service in 1969, compared to 8,392 the previous year. These figures do not show 498 fire hydrants located throughout the city.

. . . bright with hope and full of promise

In the dawn of 1970, a new day begins, and on the horizon we behold the prospects of a brighter, better future. There are challenges ahead, problems to meet and conquer, difficulties to overcome . . . yet there is also the bright promise that, with the efforts of all, we shall achieve a community, and a world, richer in progress and prosperity, inspired by the even greater assets of kindliness and friendliness. Together, we shall realize the great potential that the decade ahead holds for us.

Clark Equipment Co.

Support for E-Z Haul In Two New Industries

The Brown Trailer Division of Clark Equipment Co. and Ashton-Richards Co., Inc., both established plants here in an industrial park on North Grand at Highway 65 late in 1969.

Although neither company is connected with the E-Z Haul truck operation of Parkhurst Manufacturing Co., both complement the rapidly expanding enterprise. Parkhurst owns the buildings and grounds in the industrial park, which are leased to them.

Ashton-Richards occupies an 8,000-square-foot building where they mount roll-up doors on Clark cargo-van truck bodies for Parkhurst. There are 15 people employed at Ashton-Richards.

Brown hampered somewhat by completion of their facilities, is still in its training period for the 17 persons now employed there.

Don Raines, plant manager, said that another 23 employees will be hired and the plant will start working two shifts by the end of January.

Brown manufactures 18-foot truck body kits, including both sides, the front, top and the rear door frame.

After the kits are completed, Parkhurst moves them to its location on West Broadway where they are mounted on Chevrolet trucks supplied by Mike O'Connor's and then taken back to Ashton-Richards for installation of the doors.

Brown's quota is 24 of the kits per day. In the future Brown may expand its operation, said Raines, because of the central location of Sedalia.

Clark Equipment Co. has operations in Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Delaware, Texas, Washington and Canada. It is one of the largest corporations in the United States with a 1968 shareholders equity report totaling over $183,000.

Papa Jake New Location

Last October Papa Jake's Donut Shop moved down the street from 108 South Ohio to the old Sedalia Drug building at 122 South Ohio. With this move and the addition of new equipment, "Papa Jake" Siragusa commented that he is now able to serve a product "equal to and better than before."

Siragusa pointed out that Papa Jake's is still basically a donut shop, but since the move three months he has gone into the sandwich business as well. "We try to specialize in the best sandwiches and the unusual, such as hot pastrami," the owner added.

Papa Jake said he is pleased with the new large quarters. He said that besides increasing the seating capacity from 12 to 48, the new facilities are easier to keep clean.

New equipment came with the move, a new fryer and glazing table of stainless steel were purchased. "These are both very clean and sanitary," the owner commented.

"There is a definite need for a shop like this in this part of town," Siragusa emphasized. Other "Papa Jake's" are located at 16th and Park, and 111 West McPherson in Knob Noster.

Confidence Grows On Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is growing more confident it can write a balanced budget without new or increased taxes, one official says.

As a result, he indicated President Nixon has decided not to ask for increased excise taxes on liquor, cigarettes and gasoline as the Treasury Department recommended, and will not request a speedup in collection of gift and estate taxes.

But the source, an informed Treasury official, cautioned against concluding Nixon has made a final decision about taxes for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The President still has more than two weeks until the planned delivery date for his budget message to Congress—now scheduled for Feb. 2 instead of Jan. 27—and the matter has been discussed before, and tentative decisions made.

"This thing's gone around the corner several times in the last few weeks," the source said.

However, he said, the President would like to balance the budget without tax increases if he can, and it "probably can be done."

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Wednesday Nixon had ordered further cuts in the budget presented to him by the Budget Bureau at a three-hour Cabinet meeting early in the week.

Until then, he reportedly had been aiming for a budget in a range of $202 billion to $203 billion, compared to his $192.9 billion self-imposed spending ceiling for this year.

Now he reportedly would prefer to see a $200 billion budget.

The main purpose of balancing the budget, and if possible showing a surplus, is to help in the fight against inflation. Administration sources have indicated Nixon feared excise tax increases would hurt rather than help the campaign by possibly causing price increases.

A budget surplus has the dual anti-inflationary virtue of allowing the government to trim its borrowing, thus relieving pressure on the already overburdened bond markets and hopefully reducing interest rates, and taking money out of consumers' pockets so they can't spend it.

Valuable Painting

There is no way to fix a money value on the famous Mona Lisa painting. A drawing by Leonardo Da Vinci, owned by the Royal Academy in England, is valued at almost $2.5 million.

New Bookmobile Serves Patrons

Besides the usual increase in books, in 1969 Boonslick Regional Library added a new $19,432 Bookmobile to their inventory. The Gerstenslager vehicle was purchased with money raised from the library tax.

Richard Parker, head librarian, reported that the new library van holds 2,800 books as compared with 2,200 in the old bookmobile. The van measures inside 20 feet long, 7 feet high, and 7½ feet wide. "It also features a magazine rack, some adjustable shelves, a coat closet, extra space for records, and an electrical heating system under the floor to dry the indoor-outdoor carpeting," Parker added.

The library employs two Bookmobile personnel. Lee Young, 1315 South Harrison, is the driver, with Ella Swink, 500½ South Quincy, the Bookmobile librarian. They travel Cooper, Pettis, and Benton Counties, checking out books free to the three-county citizens. Anyone living outside the area or in the Sedalia city limits must pay a fee for use of the facilities.

Parker pointed out that during the winter months, the Bookmobile visits most of the schools in the area such as Green Ridge School, Houstonia R-I, Lincoln School, and Striped College. Also included in the itinerary are many downtown areas of cities in the three-county district.

In the summer when there is no school, the Bookmobile makes stops at churches and patron's homes to keep the service going.

Parker said he hopes that the new Bookmobile would be able to increase circulation in the area and thus serve more people.

Budget Filings Suggested For All Townships

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Public Expenditure Survey said today all local governments should be required by law to file their budgets at each county seat and at the state capitol for public inspection.

The survey, a taxpayers' organization, said after a study it is not uncommon for the same piece of property to be taxed by five or more governmental units—county, city, school district, junior college, nursing home or draining district.

Their budgets should be available, the survey said, so taxpayers can know how these local government units are operating. Now about 103 rural counties file their budgets at the courthouse.

The survey said there are 2,687 local governments in Missouri, including 840 cities, 760 school districts, 269 special districts, 344 townships and 114 counties.

The average property tax in 1968 was $5.43 per $100 valuation, up an average of $1.41 from 10 years earlier.

The 1969 property valuation in Missouri was approximately $10.7 billion, up about $400 million from the year before, the survey said. The primeary reason was sharp assessment increases in 38 counties.

For Cattle Breed

Charolais cattle exhibited at the Missouri State Fair will now have their own shelter, thanks to this metal building put up just inside the Fairgrounds last year. The breed is becoming increasingly popular at the fair. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

The last four months of the year are misnamed. September, October, November and December, meaning 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th, got those names because the old Roman year started March 1. The months were named after the Latin numerals.

There's happiness built into The Counter That Cooks.™

Very Much "1970"

Corning guarantees it.

Corning knows that something new can catch a woman's eye. And then bring questions to her mind.

Even when it comes to a beautiful new cooking invention like The Counter That Cooks.

So if you buy The Counter That Cooks and you're not satisfied with it after 60 days, we'll remove the unit. And we'll return what you paid for it.

That's how sure we are that you'll be happy cooking on the smooth, easy-to-clean glass-ceramic surface. Without coils, burners or grease traps to get in your way. Or to clean out.

We know you'll be happy with all the extra counterspace when The Counter That Cooks is turned off. And you'll love using the four thermostatically controlled cooking areas when it's turned on.

In fact, with so much built into The Counter That Cooks to make a woman happy—we can guarantee you'll be happy.

Come see an amazing demonstration of The Counter That Cooks.

Addition to Plaza

The Green Stamp Redemption Center was a new addition at Miller's Park Plaza in 1969. The small but tastefully done shopping center is located at West Main Street and North Highway 65. The plaza was built by George H. Miller, Sedalia realtor. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Transform Safeway Building

Several buildings in Sedalia have undergone a facelifting and renovation during the past year. One of these is the old Safeway building at 505 South Kentucky.

Once unused, wasted space, the structure has been remodeled and is now the Professional Building. It is an example of how what was essentially a downtown liability was transformed into an attractive asset.

Leo J. Letourneau, president of the board of directors, and Dennis L. Onwiler, treasurer, as L and O Enterprises, Inc., originally purchased the building last May. Letourneau Brothers Construction Co., did the remodeling work, and leasing of offices began in July.

Keith S. Yount and Alfred G. Letourneau later joined the operation and are board vice-president and director, respectively.

Businesses now occupying offices in the Professional Building are Classic Studio, Farmers Insurance, Federal Crop, Pettis County Farm Bureau, Town and Country Claims, Yount Insurance Agency and the Shelly Lynn Figure Salon. The offices of Boyce and Bynum Laboratory and attorney Bob Fritz are also located in the building.

Three additional offices are scheduled for remodeling in the near future.

Plant Into Full Swing

The Olin Conductors plant, located about 4 miles west of Sedalia on Highway 50, reached its authorized level of employment in 1969 of 156 persons. The highly-automated plant manufactures electrical wire and cable for industrial uses.

Olin Plant Employment Increases

The Olin Conductors plant on West Highway 50 reached its announced level of employment in 1969, with the work force increasing from 99 to 156.

Remaining manufacturing equipment was also installed and placed in operation. Olin Conductors manufactures electrical wire and cable for industrial uses.

Another advance in 1969 was the selection of 13 machine operators for training and promotion to supervisory and administrative position. The group, largely Sedalians, has exhibited excellent capabilities, Olin executives report.

Olin Conductors expects another big year in 1970, as the electric industry will continue to require transmission conductors of higher voltage and more conductors suitable for underground and direct burial type applications.

Pill Researcher Says Criticism Not Too Strong

BOSTON (AP) — One of the researchers who developed the first oral contraceptive says condemnation of the pill based on the results of animal experiments is not well founded.

"It is well known that metabolic reactions in other species are not easily transferable to humans," said Dr. John Rock, a Harvard gynecologist.

Rock, 79, professor emeritus at Harvard Medical School, developed the pill along with the late Dr. Gregory Pincus.

"Effects contraceptive materials have on laboratory animals are not at all indicative of how they work on humans," Rock said Thursday.

He said that because there are individual reactions to the oral contraceptive "the oral contraceptive can never be an over-the-counter item."

"It must be dispensed by personnel who will remain in close contact with the patient," Rock said.

New Outlook

This new exterior now greets shoppers at Dora's Fashion Shop, 206 South Ohio. Remodeling work, both inside and out, was started last spring, and completed in July. The expanded space allows the store to carry a larger inventory, which in turn, has increased the number of store employees. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

New Dora's Facilities in 1969

Modernization and expansion are words frequently heard and used in business. When applied to a ladies clothing store they hold the promise of the very latest in styles and a wide, varied selection.

In the spring of 1969, Dora's Fashion Shop began to remodel and expand their present quarters at 206 South Ohio. In July the project was finished, with several innovations provided for customer convenience.

What was once almost two separate stores became one large store with added floor space, better lighting and a double entrance.

Renovations inside the building include mirrored columns, new air conditioning system and a larger central cashier station. The store has also added a shoe department which carries a line of Bopp shoes.

With their expansion and remodeling, Dora's has been able to add a larger lingerie department, a greater variety of sportswear and more sizes and styles in the dress department.

The ability to carry a larger line of merchandise has also increased the number of employees, both fulltime and part-time. Mrs. Mae Arnold, manager of Dora's, noted that the working force during Christmas was almost double that of Charistmases past.

Plenty of Merchancise

Roth's Department Store, occupying what was once the Mall at the Thompson Hill's Shopping Center, opened Oct. 1 with a full line of men's, women's, and children's clothing. Manager Ed McCormick proudly displays the varied selections in the men's department. (Democrat-Capital photo)

Clothing For Family At Roth's

Roth's Department Store in the Thompson Hills Shopping Center has converted several small shops, dealing in various lines, into one large department clothing store for the whole family.

In May of 1969 remodeling started on the former Colonial Shop, Mall Dress Shop, a barber shop and one or two small businesses.

Paul Stoehr, assistant manager, said that most of the expansion was completed in August, with the expansion of displays the major addition anticipated this year.

Roth's is one of a chain of six stores located in Missouri and Indiana. There are Roth's stores in Poplar Bluff, the home office; Kennett, and Columbia as well as Boonville and Mt. Vernon, Ind.

There are eight departments in Roth's, served by the store's 23 employees. The departments are for men, women and children, besides a gift department which features glassware, towels, costume jewelry, perfumes and colognes.

Stoehr said that the store features most major brands and that they are constantly adding new lines and dropping older ones to stay on top of current fashion trends.

Still in Commission

The battleship Arizona, sunk at Pearl Harbor, is considered still in commission by the Navy because 2,403 of her crew are still aboard — entombed when she was sunk.

Negro Ballplayers

Negroes have been playing professional baseball since 1885, when the Cuban Giants of Long Island were organized. The Negro National League was set up in 1920 and the Negro Eastern League in 1921, inaugurating a "world series" in 1924.

Flower's Improves Services

Last May 29, the C. W. Flower Co., 219 South Ohio, acquired the 103-year-old business establishment next door, Bichsel's Jewelers. Though under new management and ownership, much the same line of name brand, high quality merchandise is still carried and no major remodeling has been done.

About the same time, Flower's began to renovate and remodel additional space upstairs and last October a gift shop was opened for Sedalia shoppers. Customers visiting the gift shop are greeted by the quiet, tasteful decor which features beige carpeting, glass shelves and white and gold accents.

Within this one area, a customer may purchase gifts imported from many countries, including Italy, Germany, Spain and England, as well as the Orient. Among the unusual gift ideas are the Gouda rock figures from Sweden.

With the additional space, Flower's is now able to offer customers a more complete line of all the merchandise they now carry, as well as the new gift items, and has been able to increase its sales force.

The C. W. Flower Co., now in its 66th year, is locally owned and operated by Jim Callis and Damon Hieronymus.

Hobby Shop's Sales Moving Up in State

Smitty's Hobby Shop, 703 South Ohio, a familiar gathering place for high school students, came under new management last July 11.

Formerly known as Thelma's Hobby Shop, it was bought by Ken (Smitty) Smith, a well-known Sedalian who is active in Little League Baseball and Khoury League Soccer.

Hobbyists of all ages can find models and crafts at Smitty's. Future plans for the store include instituting art and leather supplies at the store as well as organizing model airplane, railroad and car clubs.

The store has moved from 42nd to ninth in sales in the state since he took over the store, said Smitty. He attributes this in part to promoting hobbies among adults. His slogan is, "Relax with a hobby and live longer."

Smitty's is the only hobby shop of its kind in an 80-mile radius, the closest being in Kansas City and Columbia.

Future plans also include enlarging the store area by utilizing unused floor space at the rear.

Gifts Abound

Safety Helmet May Ease Woes

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP) — No one seems to be able to get the ceiling of Carthage's 63-year-old post office repaired, so a group of business men has done the next best thing—presented postmaster Glynn Evans with a safety helmet.

The shiny helmet, engraved "Pipeline Evans" was presented to the postmaster by 25 members of a mid-morning coffee break club which includes Evans. The name Pipeline originated several years ago when Evans used some iron pipe to protect himself against an assailant.

A news item on condition of the post office prompted the gift.

"The GSA got the cracks in the lobby fixed quick," one of the donors explained, "but they seemed to feel the employes were a hardy breed who could face up to a bit of plaster falling."

The 853 evening students at the University of Missouri-Rolla's St. Louis Graduate Engineering Center represent 108 St. Louis area companies.

Shelly Lynn Takes It All Off

"We are here for the men of Sedalia," Harold Piper, owner of the Sedalia Shelly Lynn Figure Salon located at 505 South Kentucky said.

The figure salon opened Nov. 3 and is designed to accommodate the needs of the Sedalia woman in obtaining the figure and weight that she desires.

"We feel very pleased with the business we have had so far," Piper said, "and we are looking forward to very successful coming years."

The salon is equipped with a variety of equipment to help women lose weight. This includes a flat board, rollers, vibrators, bicycles, inclined boards, a beauty bar and a beauty bench. Also, a medical weight scale is available to document the progress of each participant in the program.

The average work-out takes about an hour. This includes the use of all the equipment available.

At present there are 150 persons enrolled in programs at the figure salon.

Piper said he owns one other salon in Columbia. He picked Sedalia as the location for his second salon through traveling. He decided that Sedalia was a prosperous, clean looking town that lacked an effective business of this kind.

The salon is managed by Diane Thompson, and Rhonda Cook is assistant manager.

"Flappers"

The young girls of the 1920s were named "flappers" because they thought it was cute to wear their overshoes unbuckles — thus they flapped.

Israel's Growth

When the state of Israel was created in 1948, the population was estimated at 720,000. Within 10 years, more than a million persons had emigrated to the new nation from Europe, Africa and America.

The electoral college originated when the framers of the Constitution thought that a convention of qualified electors would be the best way to choose a president.

Dugan's Facelift

Dugan's Wallpaper and Paint Store, 116 East Fifth, put up a new store front and added an additional 13,824 cubic feet of storage space during the past year.

The new modern-design front on the store appears to be large slabs of concrete set in steel crossbars with Dugan's in script letters across the front.

Their new warehouse, directly behind the store and across the alley, is a metal building used to store carpet, linoleum and tile materials. The old warehouse in the McLaughlin Brothers building is now being used strictly for glass, due to the large increase in glass sales at Dugan's.

Dugan's will celebrate its 100th anniversary in 1971, and has been a family-owned business since its founding.

Lost, Anyway

First losing presidential candidate to poll over 20 million votes was Wendell L. Willkie, who polled 22,304,755 votes in 1940, when he ran against Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Bookstore Doing Well

The Maplewood Book Store, 612 South Ohio, opened last June, and since then has seen an ever-growing volume of business.

The store is owned by the Maplewood Church, a Village Mission church located on Route TT, just north of East Highway 50.

Maplewood Book Store features Bibles, Christian literature and gifts. It is managed by Mrs. Pat Fullerton.

Although the shop has been open little more than half a year, Mrs. Fullerton said business "has been very good, we're real pleased."

Lincoln's Sobriquet

John's Shoes Makes Move

Just as a family can outgrow a house, so a business can outgrow its allotted space. That is what happened to John's Shoes, formerly located at 107 East Third. The tiny quarters became too cramped for the expanding inventory.

In June, John's Shoes moved to its present location, 404 South Ohio, in space formerly occupied by the Coachlight Dress Shop. The quarters were remodeled, walls were paneled, and a larger, more pleasant shop was opened.

John's Shoes was founded by John Schlaffer approximately 25 years ago. For the past four years it has been owned and operated by Charles Keller. The store carries such name brands of women's shoes as Jacqueline, Connie, California Cobblers and Paris Fashion.

Keller stated that with the new location and larger quarters, John's Shoes would be able to offer customers an increased amount of merchandise and a greater variety in shoe styles.

Lunar Quarantine Not a Necessity

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — "There is no need to impose quarantine on the crews, the lunar samples or equipment on subsequent Apollo missions," official advisers told the space agency Thursday.

As a result, Dr. Thomas O. Paine, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, is expected to discontinue the 21-day periods of isolation required for astronauts and lunar samples returned aboard Apollo spacecraft.

The quarantines were imposed to prevent exposure of earth dwellers to any possible germs brought from the moon.

Junior League Football Was Sports Gain in '69

Sedalia Junior League Football, a program that did not get organized and off the ground until late September, could take great strides by the close of 1970.

Jim Hurst, newly-elected president of the board of directors of the organization, stated recently that they expect upwards of 400 boys to be involved in the program this fall.

Although the program did not really get started until late last year, with the first game taking place less than one month later, close to 100 boys participated in the organization.

The plan, when first originated, was to build as many teams from the participants as possible. As a result, two teams were formed from the sixth and seventh graders and three teams were composed of fourth and fifth graders.

The initial idea of the organizers was to allow the boys to play a variety of "red flag" football rather than tackle.

But, as the short season progressed, the older boys were allowed to play tackle with their two out-of-town opponents, Odessa and Grandview.

The younger boys however, played strictly flag football.

Next season will find both divisions playing tackle instead of red flag.

With the early planning the directors are currently involved in, they hope to have the foundations laid for a much better operation next fall. The plan will be open to all boys, including fourth through seventh graders in the parochial schools, as well as those in the public school system.

Board members currently are contacting prospective sponsors for this year's program.

It is estimated that the cost per boy to outfit him with suitable equipment will range between $20 and $30.

Hurst stated that hopefully 18 to 22 boys would be on each team, but this can't be finally set until the season rolls around to see just how many boys are involved in the program.

As it stands at the present time, the sponsor would be expected to outfit each player. To date, 12 sponsors have joined in the effort to promote the Junior League program this fall.

Sedalia school authorities have shown a deep interest in the program, since there is no longer an intramural program in the public system.

Hurst stated that as many games as possible with out-of-town teams would be scheduled.

One of the largest problems the league will face is finding places for the boys to practice and play. Although there was little problem with this last year, an increased number of participants will put a premium on space.

Hurst went on to say that, "Many of the boys in the initial program also participated in Khoury League Soccer."

"Although," he continued, "we are not trying to take over the entire membership of this fine sport (soccer), we feel that football and basketball are the primary sports in the United States."

Hurst added that the fine training the boys would receive in the Junior League Football program, would prove to be beneficial once they entered high school and continued pursuit of the sport.

New Scope Of S-C's Athletics

Officials at Smith-Cotton High School expressed great pleasure and satisfaction toward the revamping the athletic department made in eighth grade basketball and football, during 1969.

Up until this season, the eighth grade had been represented by one team playing various towns and cities in the Central Missouri area.

Last fall, the eighth grade gridiron slate was made up of intramural games between four teams formed of the eighth grade participants.

In talking to Earl Finley, principal of Smith-Cotton, it was learned that more than 80 boys took part in the football program, thus enhancing the Tigers future chances for finding players.

"The whole thing was to get more kids interested and participating," Finley stated, "and it seems to have worked out very well."

The basketball program for eighth graders is being operated in the same manner.

Teams are made up of those interested boys of which about 65 are currently participating; they also are playing on an intramural slate, as did the schedule during football season.

When asked if he felt the plan would be continued this year, Finley responded with an optimistic, "yes."

Racing Story Tops '69 Sports Scene

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

It would be hard to say what the most important sports event was on the local level during 1969.

Four or five top events do pop into the minds of many when a question of this nature arises.

First of all, The Big S I R, which later turned out to be the "big flop" of the year, was announced by George O. Weatherly Jr. of Kansas City in late May.

The new drag strip, which would have hosted the World Points Finale in September, is currently one-half finished and its future is still uncertain.

The Jaycees Memorial Day Race must be highlighted as one of the top events for Sedalia during the past year. A crowd of over 11,000 witnessed the race, which attracted drivers from eight states.

Also in the field of auto racing, Jerry Blundy of Galesburg, Ill., won an unprecedented third straight victory during the Missouri Futurity for sprint cars at the 1969 State Fair.

In addition to the large purse Blundy captured, he was also presented a trophy in honor of the Democrat-Capital's late sports editor, D. Kelly Scruton.

The Sedalia American Little League All-Stars, who ended up only one step away from the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa., also highlighted the local sports scene during 1969.

If one event had to be singled out as the top one of the year, my vote would have to go to the United States Auto Club's 100-mile stock car race held on the Fairgrounds' one-mile oval in mid-October.

J C Agajanian of Gardena, Calif., brought to the mid-Missouri racing area one of the finest fields of cars that fans in this area have ever seen: A. J. Foyt (the race winner), Al Unser, Roger McCluskey, Butch Hartman and many, many more.

The reason this event holds such importance in the sports field for Sedalia is the possibility that USAC may add the Fairgrounds' track to either their stock car or their championship car circuit.

Although the crowd was held down due to the cold, wet weather, Agajanian was pleased with the show and the reception of the fans in the area.

Certainly many lesser events grace the minds of Central-Missouri sports buffs, but the possibility of Sedalia being added to the "big name" racing organization must hold down the top spot.

Research expenditures at the University of Missouri-Rolla totaled $3,658,082 during 1968-69. Research is funded by grants from state, federal and private sources.

Little League Growth is Rapid

Of all the advances of local athletic organizations in Sedalia last year, probably none could match the quick growth of the Sedalia Little League.

The Little League baseball program is growing both in numbers and financially.

Rise in Budget

In 1968, the organization had a budget of $8,900. In 1969, the budget jumped to $17,359. This year, the budget is in excess of $20,000.

Officials commented recently that the increase in the budget over the last two years is due almost directly to the park improvements that have been made.

Last year, more than $4,455 was spent in this area alone. This year, another large percentage of the budget will be used for improvements of the playing facilities.

A sizeable increase was noted in the 1969 enrollment figures in comparison to those of 1968. Around 700 boys were enrolled in the program last summer in Sedalia. This year that figure is expected to rise to around 760.

May Add Teams

Fifty-four teams made up the Little League structure last year; if participants rise to the expected 760, the program will have to add more teams to accommodate the increased numbers.

The success of all things is measured in the end result or the finished product.

Last season, area residents may recall the Little League All-Stars from Sedalia went on to represent the city in two out-of-state tournaments in the playoffs toward the Little League World Series.

They were successful in the winning category until the championship game of the Ottumwa, Iowa, tourney, when a team from Elyria, Ohio, defeated the locals in the final step before Williamsport, Pa., and the series itself.

This is the measure of success.

Seen in Performance

The coaching and schooling these youngsters were given through the Little League program here in Sedalia benefited them on their winning trail to Ottumwa.

Many anticipated goals are being planned by the current Little League board of directors in Sedalia. Probably the most impressive is the hopeful addition of a proposed tournament park on South New York Avenue, near Centennial Park.

Under consideration by the board is the construction of a single facility that would be used solely to host tournaments.

Local officials say that it would be second to none in the Midwest, once completed.

The representatives of the league headquarters will come to Sedalia sometime in February and inspect the playing facilities for tournament play this coming year.

Similar to Joplin

The type of tourney that would be held here in 1970 would be the same type held in Joplin, where two or three states would be involved.

According to local board members, if the tournament park is built Sedalia would be in line to host much larger tournaments, such as the one that was held in Ottumwa, where a 16-state area was represented.

Another possibility that is being toyed with by the board is that of instituting the senior division of Little League, which would possibly replace the current 13-15 Babe Ruth League.

The operations of Babe Ruth are basically the same as those of the senior division of the Little League organization, but the biggest point would be that the boys would be able to participate in a much better organized group, rather than the so-so functioning of the local Babe Ruth League.

Could Man Teams

It is felt that if the senior division is formed, there would be enough boys for eight teams.

Turning to the national level, recently the Little League headquarters in Williamsport, Pa., divided the United States into four equal divisions for the purpose of administration and for closer contacts between ruling officials and local organizations.

Missouri is in the Chicago region, which is made up of some 13 states in the Midwest.

With the current anticipated growth of the Little League setup in Sedalia, even greater expectations are seen in the coming year

Go-Karts Come Back Strong

A sport that used to be very popular, go-kart racing, has all but vanished in most parts of the country.

Today, go-kart racing is only done on a limited basis.

Due, however, to the effort of a handful of people in Sedalia, kart racing is anything but dead in Central Missouri.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Richards of 411 West 23rd Street and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Greener of 2705 West 11th have almost, single-handedly, revitalized the sport for the remaining fans in this area.

Formerly known as the Central Missouri Kart Club and operating at the asphalt track south of Sedalia across from the Catholic Community Center, the organization began holding weekly Saturday night races last spring.

Later in the season, to try to boost the participating drivers and the attendance figures, Richards instituted what came to be known as the "money features."

His idea was that drivers would turn out in greater numbers if money was involved in the payoff, rather than trophies.

His theory proved correct, and the drivers were turning out as strong as they did years ago when the sport was in its heyday.

Late in the racing season, Richards made plans to purchase the property the track was on, with yet another purpose in mind.

Since 1963, the Central Missouri Kart Club has leased the property from Richard Warren. The old CMKC had held races at the location, but not on a regular basis until last year.

Last October, the track was purchased by Richards and Greener and on Oct. 17, the formal dissolvement of the Central Missouri Kart Club took place.

Richards stated that the track was going to be set up to suit the drivers.

Other than the track improvements, the rest rooms have been improved, a new announcers stand will be built in the pit area and the bleachers will be remodeled.

The new organization is known as Central America Shooting and Karting, Inc.

OUR MANY VALUED CUSTOMERS ARE OUR MOST IMPORTANT ASSET!

It's no wonder Sedalia Bank has grown in so many ways!

And while Sedalia Bank progress can be measured in terms of customers by the thousands and dollars by the millions, statistics alone don't tell the whole story of our success and growth.

The real measure of our move-ahead spirit is the way in which those dollars have matured into the better things of life for so many people.

New homes . . . new automobiles . . . college educations . . . security for the golden years of retirement. These are but a few of the life-enriching things that are happening to Sedalia Bank customers every day.

And there is a host of reasons why. At Sedalia Bank, your hard working dollars start right in growing, thanks to our money multiplying interest which is compounded daily. At Sedalia Bank and Trust, they're insured for safety by an agency of the U.S. Government . . . and conveniently available, too.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR VIRGINIA KNAUER, President's Adviser on Consumer Affairs

Why isn't the nutritional information put on such foods as canned or frozen fruits and vegetables?—Mrs. Mary Jane Henika, Charlottesville, Va.

● The laws applicable to the labeling of such products do not require the positive declaration of the nutritional qualities of the food. If there are special nutritional claims on the label of the product, however, the regulations of the Food and Drug Administration are quite specific with regard to the manner and content of the special dietary information which must then appear.

FOR MARIO ANDRETTI, auto racer

Do you use a special fuel mixture in your racing cars, or do you use the high-octane gas found in gas stations?—J. F. Buxton, Appleton, Wis.

● In my championship car I use alcohol, many times mixed with 10 nitromethene; in my group-7 sports car I use 115-octane aviation fuel.

FOR WALTER CUNNINGHAM, astronaut

Are you or any of the other astronauts superstitious?—Mrs. Ernest Ross, San Bernardino, Calif.

● Neither I nor any of the other astronauts are superstitious.

FOR ROBERT WAGNER, star of "It Takes a Thief"

Who designs the clothes you wear on your television show?—R. N. Phillips, Austin, Texas

● They are my own clothes, and I buy them in men's shops in Hollywood.

FOR GUNILLA KNUTSON, author of "Beauty and Health, the Scandinavian Way"

Why do Scandinavian women have the reputation of being strong and serene?—P. T., Waco, Texas

● It's their closeness to nature that brings that joyful combination of qualities. From it stems passion for fresh air, exercise, and her love of natural foods—fresh fruits, vegetables, milk, and fish. Inevitably, it shapes her no-nonsense approach to beauty and good health without sacrificing glamour.

FOR ARNOLD PALMER

What are the details (wind factor, slope of fairway, etc.) of your 400-yard drive in the 1969 Byron Nelson Golf Classic?—William M. Connor, East Lansing, Mich.

● The drive was on the par-five third hole. The hole was played downwind, and the fairway was level and rather hard. I then reached the green with my next shot, a three-iron.

FOR FLIP WILSON, comic

I heard a rumor that you were skyjacked to Cuba. Is this true?—Cheryl Cullin, Farragut, Idaho

● Yes. In the spring of 1967, after finishing an engagement in Las Vegas, I flew to Miami for a few days' vacation. But instead of touching down in Miami, I found myself in Cuba. I wasn't afraid at all, except when one of the guys had his gun pointed in my face, and I got to thinking I'd rather not get shot, even for the publicity.

FOR DR. JAMES I. CALIFF, director, Reading Clinic, Mississippi State College for Women

What are some of the causes of reading problems in so many children?—Mrs. Richard Harrison, Frisco City, Ala.

● A child learns to read well if the visual-auditory-motor areas of the brain are organized properly. Improper organization of these areas leads to a loss of reading ability. Although the primary cause of reading disability is usually brain disorganization, reduced practice in reading, poor instruction, and attitudinal problems may increase the amount of the disability.

What in the World!

What's In a Vane? The use of weathervanes goes back centuries and has always indicated the way the wind blows—in more ways than one. Many early Americans designed theirs to depict farm animals—while churches had more sedate ones ever pointed toward the Promised Land. Indian-shaped vanes were very popular in Pennsylvania and New York State. In pioneer days, locomotives displayed the Indian figure prominently atop the train when traveling through hostile Indian territory. Some vanes were shot at by hunters or stoned by small boys. This 1835 upstate New York Indian was one of the few that escaped. Maybe that's why it's priced at $3,500 at the Winter Antiques Show in New York City.

1835 Indian Weathervane

Blue Humor Alfred Hitchcock, who, at 70, has just finished directing his 51st motion picture, "Topaz," used to be known for his practical jokes. "Not any more," he told us. "They got a bit too expensive." For instance? "Well, I gave a private dinner party in a hotel. All the food was colored blue. Blue soup, blue trout, blue chicken, and blue ice cream." Did the guests feel pinked or were they dismayed? "It was very successful. If I may say, the idea came out of the blue."

Starry-Eyed Students British astrologer Katina Theodossiou, director of research for the Time Pattern Institute, says college students are turning to astrology as part of their "revolt against traditional materialism and an advanced technological society." As an indication, she points to computerized horoscopes, now a hot item in 2,000 college bookstores. "Alienated, spiritually rootless young people find a meaningful anchor and guide in astrology," Miss Theodossiou says. It gives youth a security it currently lacks, she adds—and also a chance to thumb noses at the Establishment, which scoffs at horoscopes.

Respect Gap Folksinger Janis Ian (born on a farm in southern New Jersey) has published her first book of poems at 18, entitled "Who Really Cares." Often called a spokesman for her generation, Janis philosophizes, "People just don't let kids get the respect they need, so they must convince themselves that they're important. There's no generation gap. It's a respect gap—which extends from both sides. Kids need heroes to give them self-respect. But persons we believed in, like the two Kennedys and Martin Luther King, have been assassinated. I have a lot of faith in my friends, and when they get political power, there will be changes. My generation may not be any better than the present one—but it does offer a hope for change."

HIS HOUSE stands on a high hill north of Sumner, Washington. Far in the southeast, the apex of Mount Rainier clings above clouds in its floating beauty—lilac, marshmallow, ice.

The Rev. W. A. Moore, pastor of the Roosevelt Heights Church in Tacoma, has just driven home with his wife from a luncheon with friends. Normally he takes a nap at this hour, but today the quiet glory of roadsides tinted with pale purple of wild sweet peas has engendered an excitement in him.

The world is so filled with charm that he can't bear to lie down. Instead, he goes into his library and sits behind a wide desk rimmed with bookcases. Yes, he'll take that nap later; but right now he shall jot down notes for the sermon next day.

He gazes out of the window at the marvel of Mount Rainier suspended in color and cream, then turns to his work. Picture of a preacher in a rural area adjacent to Tacoma, preparing his sermon for the morrow.

You ask, "Anything unusual about it? Wasn't this perhaps happening to thousands of ministers all over the United States?"

No, nothing unusual about it. Except that the Rev. W. A. Moore was 100 years old last July 24.

He is believed to be the oldest minister occupying a regular pulpit in the United States or anywhere else in the world. It is quite possible that he is the oldest representative of any religion, anywhere on the face of the globe, actively exhorting his people in their embracement of a Faith.

When exactly was that year in which Reverend Moore first saw, not the light of Conversion—but the light of day? The Chicago fire had not yet burned. The Custer massacre at the Little Big Horn was years ahead. Ulysses S. Grant had been President only a few months.

Reverend Moore has lived in this nation under 19 different Presidents. Come to think of it—Millard Fillmore, Franklin Pierce, and Andrew Johnson were still alive at the time of his birth.

"When I was eight years old," said Reverend Moore, "I became convinced that you could trust God."

He'd been having some very bad dreams, the way small children do. The unmitigated evil which whirled in those nightmares made him fearful of the very act of going to bed, of yielding to sleep.

"I was next to the eldest in a family which in time grew to include eight children. Of course, they hadn't all come yet, since I was only eight myself. But even so small, I worked. All of us worked. It was a very happy family. We had utter trust in our parents," he recalled.

"Just a meager farmhouse on the Iowa prairie, but there was a lot of love exchanged. I think back now, and I cannot recall ever having heard a quarrel in that household. Oh, we kids fussed in normal fashion from time to time, of course, but I mean a real quarrel. Never heard a word of such stuff."

He had been christened William Atwell Moore; thus his boyhood nickname was Attie. Little Attie considered what would happen to him if he didn't get any sleep. How would he have strength to do his chores? Chores were a necessary way of life.

"Suddenly it came over me: why not ask God for help? Our mother told us enchanting stories about a Good Man, and the stars—the wondrous works of the heavens—the Father and the Son. Our own father read to us daily from what we called 'the Picture Bible.' It was a huge volume with entrancing illustrations. We'd crowd around his knee to look at those remarkable pictures and have Pa explain them.

"So it seemed like a logical thing to do. I prayed very hard, as hard as any eight-year-old ever could.

"And don't tell me that God doesn't hear little boys pray! Ninety-two years have gone by since that night, and I've not had a frightful dream in all that time."

When Attie was 11, the Moores moved to another farm near the town of Panora. During high-school years the boy held his first job away from the farm. He served as janitor at the local school and proudly carried home his wage of $10 per month.

At 16 he was baptized into the faith of the Disciples of Christ. "We were called Campbellites, but nowadays it's generally termed the Christian Church.

"As for myself, I am by no means a sectarian. I think that's one of the great mistakes which religionists make: hundreds of different sects, all trying to attain the same goal. What matters it what avenue people are urged to travel? They all want to get to the same place!"

Actually it was a Methodist who gave Will Moore (he was bigger, now, and the name Attie had fallen by the wayside) his motivation toward the ministry. The man's name was G. W. E. Hill; he came from Des Moines with a vigorous reputation as a temperance lecturer. Will's father invited the stranger out to the Moore place to spend the night. It fell to the youth to drive G. W. E. Hill to the railroad station next day in a light farm wagon.

"I had heard his discourse the night before and was deeply affected. As we jogged along toward town, Hill turned to me and asked, 'What is your ambition, my boy? What do you plan to be?'

"For the first time I held the thought and spoke the words, 'I'm going to be a preacher.'"

He says, "Reverend Hill was silent for a time, although I could feel him looking at me. Finally he leaned over and touched my cheek with his hand. 'God bless you. Now, when you come to Des Moines to the ministerial school at Drake, you shall stay in our home. Won't cost you a cent.'

"They were bountiful people, those Hills. They took me into their home, knowing that I had no money. I tended furnace, gardened, cut the grass—did everything that I could think of to help out around the house. And make myself worthy unto them."

Nightmares made him fear sleep.

Not everyone approved so highly of the would-be parson's ambition. Once, during a visit back home, Will Moore was invited to substitute in the local pulpit when the minister was called out of town.

The high-school principal approached, glowering. "Can it be true, what I hear? That you are planning to preach?"

Will, recalling certain boyish derelictions during school years, wriggled uncomfortably but had to admit that that was the plan.

The principal glared. "If I were going around shooting preachers, I wouldn't waste an ounce of powder on the likes of you," he roared and marched away in dudgeon.

After he was ordained, Reverend Moore received a call from the village of Lewis in Cass County. Actually no congregation had yet been organized: it was merely that a number of Campbellites longed to have their own church, if they could secure a capable minister.

"It was January, 1893. There wasn't any place for me to preach when I reached Lewis except in the Masonic hall. Well, they invited me to come to them. Get a congregation together and—Heaven willing—build a church.

"They said that they could manage to pay me $800 per annum. I almost fainted. I couldn't believe that it was really right in the sight of the Lord to accept such an enormous sum of money for my ministry. But, bless their hearts, they persuaded me to accept, and I stayed four years. Then I went on to Webster City, then to St. Louis. I've served 10 churches in five States, every one a joy."

Nowadays, people address him as "Reverend Bill," and he likes that. Having attained centenarian status he is by no means a quaking relic. He's still all man, even though he must use a cane to assist in walking. His face is stout and full; it lies in solid planes; hairline has receded a bit, as compared with pictures taken 25 years ago. But the mop of iron-gray hair would be envied by many persons—or parsons—one-half or one-third his venerable age.

He used to worry about the Roosevelt Heights congregation. Were they just keeping him on to be nice to a patriarch? Again and again he offered to resign his pastorate. Surely they must need a younger man!

Finally in solemn conclave a mandatory retirement date was set: the year 1991. By then, W.A. Moore will be 122 and will have rounded out a full century as a minister!

In 1895 he wedded his first wife, Kitty Nance. They had hoped to equal the jollity of that household in which Will grew up, with an abounding brood of their own.

But their only child was a baby boy who died at birth. Kitty died in the summer of 1936, and the minister was alone for five years until Eva Heslop came into his life. She is a former secretary—a sturdy woman with high-piled hair, dedicated in great eagerness to sustaining her husband.

"I've had the best there is." He beams. "Not 'perfect preachers' wives' —but perfect wives for a humble preacher."

On Sunday morning the Moores drive over from Sumner to Roosevelt Heights, a distance of 15 miles. The Heights is a hilly area on the southeast side of Tacoma. The region is dotted with homes of retired persons, with some younger families.

Reverend Bill prefers to arrive by 10 a.m. There isn't any Sunday school, but it pleases him to be available to youths of the community whenever they drop in for advice.

The miniature building has dignity and a gray-green innocence of its own. Groaning of harbor whistles and mutter from the Tacoma Freeway reach it but faintly. The interior is plain, decorated in tan and white. There are eight rows of pews which will accommodate nine people on each side of the center aisle. The national Colors and the Christian banner stand on opposite sides of the platform, and a choir loft is filled with singers.

Promptly at 10:45 W. A. Moore comes through a door leading from the vestry room and takes his place behind the pulpit. He announces the first hymn, to be followed by a responsive reading: another hymn and then the first prayer.

Many years ago, Reverend Moore may recall, he and a friend, one G. D. Edwards, were taking a walk on the Edwards farm, and the host's tiny son, a boy named Corwin, accompanied them. They followed a winding path across fields and came to a wooden bridge.

This bridge had fallen apart in places. They reached the first gap where one wide plank was missing. Edwards signaled to Reverend Moore not to assist the child. He wanted to see just what his son would do.

Corwin observed first his father, then Reverend Moore, as they stepped carefully over the gap. The little boy took a deep breath, nerved himself for the effort, and leaped across.

They came to a larger breach, wider and more frightening than the other had been. Nevertheless the two men crossed with comparative ease. What about Corwin?

The child examined the situation. He did not whine or cry, he merely reached out his little hand with confidence. "Pa," he said, "you'll have to help me this time."

Reverend Bill tells his listeners, "I like that story, and that's just the way it happened. The lesson to me is this: some difficult places in life you can get over easily, alone. But there are other places where you've got to have help.

"How wonderful it is to have a Father we can trust, when we reach one of those situations! Let us never forget: put up your hand as high as you can, and that Big Hand will come down to help you."

The Moores go often to their shack in the Crooked Creek region, half-an-hour's drive from home. The homesite comprises only seven acres, but there are 70 up there in the forest. They find excitement in everything from a fresh-grown vine to the enormous mossy stumps of ancient fir trees, which were logged off long ago and are now replaced by thick greenery.

Reverend Bill and Eva are planning a porch at the rear of their little cabin. "Just the place," he says pleasantly, "for me to sit and play chess with friends."

As with the best of the old hymns, his is a philosophy which never negates or mourns. Religion to Reverend Bill is an optimism, a hearty rapture.

This belief is reflected in the unusual birthday cards he sends out daily. They begin as ordinary printed cards one buys at the post office, but when they are carried into the Moore home, they blossom and brighten under the hands of W.A. and Eva, they are transformed.

"Happy Birthday," you read at the top. Then, "My hobby: A Birthday Friend for Each Day of the Year. How good to live, love, laugh, and lift! Congratulations!" reads the message, and usually a personal note is written beneath. There is recourse to crayons . . . the little message fairly tingles with its coloring and underlining. In the four corners are noted favorite Scriptural texts . . . the birthday boy or girl, man or woman, who receives such a card may have the pleasure of looking up the texts.

Whatever manner or service this minister performs, it is not lip service. On Sunday afternoons there is no going home for a nap. Instead, he travels among the nursing homes of Tacoma and its suburbs, calling on bedridden inmates.

At the age of 100 years?

"Oh, you know. So many of those poor, sickly old folks haven't got anybody to come and see them. So I like to go around, and cheer them up."

I said to Reverend Bill, "Please tell me. My mother has been dead for 38 years. But—tell me. What was she like as a girl, when you united her in marriage with my father—back in Iowa, in 1899?"

His face lighted up. "How well I remember Effie! She was beautiful. You were so fortunate, to have had such a mother!" Ah, yes. ✦

- Grows With Tropic Ease — Indoors!
- Foot-Long Exotic-Shaped Leaves Add Unique Decor to House
- Produces Fruit Up to 10 Years
- Bears a Colorful Array of Flowers from Spring to Fall, Followed by Hundreds of Plump, Juicy Red Tomatoes

FROM NEW ZEALAND'S FAMOUS HORTICULTURE RESEARCH GROWERS COMES AMAZING NEWS! WELLINGTON'S RARE — EXOTIC — ASTONISHING TREE TOMATO is now available in the U.S.A.!

And in a newly-developed super-hybrid variety that harvests up to 40 lbs. (hundreds of tomatoes) year — thousands of tomatoes up to 10 years — FROM ONE TOMATO TREE!

An astonishing South American tomato fruiting tree that gives stunning blossoms for months, blooms yearly even in the North, grows as a tree outdoors and with tropic ease indoors, now is perfected and made available by New Zealand plant scientists, to you in the U.S.A.

What Happened In Palliser Bay!

The growing fields of Southern Auckland are located in Palliser Bay and there New Zealand's Horticulture Experts married Brazil's tree tomato to the fertile rain forests of New Zealand.

South America's luscious tree tomato was discovered by Brazilian Indians; brought to richest, fullest flavor and lushness by Portuguese missionaries; and hybridized to a super-resistant super-easy-to-grow variety.

There are 30 different varieties of tree tomatoes in South America but only one is the lushest, most delicious and easiest-to-grow of them all! And that one was made over after four years of hybridizing at Palliser Bay — working with various universities — discarding weaker, keeping stronger strains — until the final super variety was ready for you.

Who Put All Those Tomatoes In That Itty Bitty Seed

Imagine one seed does produce over 400 lbs. of tomatoes in one lifetime.

And New Zealand's super Tree Tomato is so easy to raise that 80% of normally-planted seeds take. So easy it will grow inside anyplace a philodendron will grow! So easy that outside in actual tests seeds thrown at random in plowed fields, it grew naturally with no human care.

Each seedling grows to 3 or 4 ft. indoors or up to 8 ft. outdoors or you can stop the growth of the tree at any height you wish between 3 and 8 feet. It is super disease-resistant.

Imagine stunning exotic-shaped leaves up to one foot long! Imagine the constant changing show. First the lovely leaves — then a shower of delicate, fragrant flowers — and finally a beautiful array of juicy luscious tomatoes.

And so prolific that as one crop ripens, Mother Nature sees to it that another crop is taking it's place, and this fruiting period goes on for five months.

A Family Delight

Show your children nature's mysterious way of bringing a New Zealand fruit-bearing season right into your own home and reversing the U.S. season. Surprise and delight your friends.

Enjoy delicious, mouth-watering salads, freshest sauces, special jams and deserts — all winter long. See huge hanging clusters of succulent red and plump and juicy tree tomatoes in successive waves month after month.

Grow indoors. Pluck your dinner tomato from the tree. Grow on the patio or in the garden. Indoors or outdoors, see a colorful array of flowers from Spring to Fall.

Each Tomato Costs Tiny Fraction of a Cent!

Winter—A Great Time for Hunters!

SOME OF THE best hunting occurs across America after most hunters have put their guns away for the season.

The winter weather must be to blame—certainly there's no lack of opportunities!

In a number of northern states from New England across country to Puget Sound the season on cottontail rabbits and snowshoe hares remains open. These animals are great to hunt—and great on the table any time. But the hunting is never better than when snow covers the ground and with a beagle to chase the bunnies across the white landscape.

The ruffed grouse, a native of much of North America, is one of the greatest game birds on earth, and in recent years the species has been abundant.

As a result, open seasons have been extended, and in many places the bird can be hunted through most of the winter. Ohio's season, for example, runs until the end of February. Grouse hunting is also better with snow on the ground and with all foliage off the trees because then it is easier to find and see the wily birds.

All over America coon hunting is traditionally an after-dark sport, best on mild autumn nights. But sportsmen along the Atlantic seaboard from the Carolinas southward, and all along the Gulf Coast, hunt the tidal flats in daylight.

If any wintertime hunting can be classed as the most exciting of all, it would have to be for red foxes. This is a game in which the hunted most often is the winner. That's true even if there is snow on the ground, which helps the hunter.

Foxes are hunted in three ways. First is with hounds which trail the quarry, hopefully past hunters waiting on stand. Any fox is so cunning and long-winded that a single chase may last all day, and the hunters have little more than brief glimpses of the animal vanishing in the distance. A second method is to tempt the fox into shooting range with a call which imitates the squeal of a rabbit in distress. At times this works very well, especially in the western half of the United States.

The most challenging way to hunt foxes is to wait for a fresh snow and then track the animal on foot. This isn't a method recommended for all outdoorsmen. But it could be a stimulating sport for a very rugged and determined hunter.

Mountain lion hunting in the Rockies from Arizona to Montana is at its best in winter, and this also can be a challenging way to spend a holiday, usually in a saddle following hounds over formidable landscapes. However lions are becoming rare, and it is the true sportsman who only shoots films of his trophy.

More than 2,000 commercial shooting preserves scattered all over the country have special facilities for sportsmen throughout the winter. Shooting on southern preserves is mostly for bobwhite quail. In the north, ringneck pheasants are the main attraction. Many preserves also offer shooting for mallard ducks. Most provide guides, trained dogs, a clubhouse, and facilities for dressing and processing game. Fees range from $25 to $75 per day of guaranteed gunning.

(A directory of all these bird-shooting preserves can be obtained free from Shooting Sports Foundation, 1075 Post Road, Riverside, Conn. 06878.)

The newest thing in shooting preserves is the opportunity to hunt exotic big game. A number of places in the Southeast and East—from Vermont to Alabama—offer wild-boar hunting.

Best known of the big-game preserves, however, is in the Southwest—the YO Ranch at Mountain Home, Texas. Here it is possible to hunt European fallow deer, sika and axis deer from Asia, blackbucks from India, Corsican rams and aoudads or Barbary sheep from Africa. Shooting is possible the year around and is best in midwinter.

But no matter whether the target is a native bunny or a blackbuck, winter is a good time for the sportsman. Just dress a little warmer, and you may enjoy the best shooting of the year.

WILL YOU SMOKE MY NEW KIND OF PIPE

30 Days at my Risk?

All I want is your name so I can write and tell you why I'm willing to send you my pipe for 30 days smoking without a cent of risk on your part.

By E. A. Carey

My new pipe is not a new model, not a new style, not a new gadget, not an improvement on old style pipes. It is the first pipe in the world to use an entirely new principle for giving unadulterated pleasure to pipe smokers.

I've been a pipe smoker for 30 years, always looking for the ideal pipe—buying all the disappointing gadgets, and never finding a single, solitary pipe that would smoke hour after hour, day after day, without bitterness, bite, or sludge.

With considerable doubt, I decided to work out something for myself. After months of experimenting and scores of disappointments, suddenly, almost by accident, I discovered how to harness four great natural laws to give me everything I wanted in a pipe. It didn't require any "breaking in." From the first puff it smoked cool—it smoked mild. It smoked right down to the last bit of tobacco without bite. It never has to be "rested." AND it never has to be cleaned! Yet it is utterly impossible for goo or sludge to reach your tongue, because my invention dissipates the goo as it forms!

You might expect all this to require a complicated mechanical gadget, but when you see it, the most surprising thing will be that I've done all this in a pipe that looks like any of the finest conventional pipes. The claims I could make for this principle in tobacco enjoyment are so spectacular that no pipe smoker would believe them. So, since "seeing is believing," I also say "smoking is convincing" and I want to send you one Carey Pipe to smoke 30 days at my risk. At the end of that time, if you are willing to give up your Carey Pipe, simply break it to bits—and return it to me—the trial has cost you nothing.

Please send me your name today. The coupon or a postal card will do. I'll send you absolutely free my complete trial offer so you can decide for yourself whether or not my pipe-smoking friends are right when they say the Carey Pipe is the greatest smoking invention ever patented. Send your name and mailing address to me today. As one pipe smoker to another, I'll guarantee you the surprise of your life, Free. Write:

Here's why you get better growth with Jiffy Pots:

- Porous construction allows pot to breathe.
- Improved aeration brings faster, heavier growth with less water.
- Roots quickly penetrate sidewalls as well as bottom of pot.
- Jiffy Pots are made of long-fiber Norwegian or Danish peat and virgin wood fiber. Not newsprint!
- Jiffy Pots are odorless – contain no harmful matter.

GENUINE JIFFY POTS

at low, low prices!

START YOUR SEEDS AND CUTTINGS in Jiffy Pots for the best plants you've ever grown! Get fatter, juicier tomatoes; see your chrysanthemums bloom larger and more beautiful than your neighbor's. The 2¼" diameter Jiffy Pots have plant food right in the walls. When it comes time to move plants outdoors, you just plant the pot! Transplanting shock is virtually eliminated and your plants are off to a faster, more vigorous start. Use Jiffy Pots for any seeds or cuttings that you'd ordinarily start in old-fashioned flats.

This remarkable book is the largest, clearest and most valuable pictorial history of the Civil War published in one gigantic (10¼" x 13¼") volume. Reproduced exactly as the precious, sought-after and long-out-of-print original 1895 edition . . . It has 1,185 illustrations of every possible kind—priceless Brady photographs . . . battle scenes . . . maps . . . cartoons . . . songs of the Union and the Confederacy . . . and many rare photos of Jefferson Davis, his cabinet, even his bodyguard . . . of Lincoln and hundreds of leaders and generals of both sides . . . But this is more than a pictorial history; its long, lucid text, accented by vivid, revealing pictures, gives a soul-stirring panorama of every aspect, every momentous event of the Civil War—the causes; the violent land and sea battles; the strategy; an honest appraisal of the military leaders and the fighting foot soldiers. This monumental pictorial narrative makes you an eye-witness of every fierce campaign; also supplies fortifications and prisons. It also shows and describes the Sanitary Commission, the nurses, the field hospitals in action, and the wounded who died in them . . . You can read about it all, and then see it all in photographs and etchings revealing a fascinating, brave and sometimes forgotten era of our history. We are proud to offer this stirring pictorial record of the Civil War to commemorate the 102nd Anniversary of The Great War's ending. You will surely treasure CAMPFIRES AND BATTLEFIELDS as a true collector's item, a valued heirloom. It will provide young and old with the magic spell which only a great gallery of breathtaking photographs, maps and rare documents of the Great Conflict could generate . . . So sure are we that you will be thrilled and delighted that we ask you to accept book on approval for full six months! And keep Giant CIVIL WAR PICTURE MAP FREE in any case! Ready-to-Eat Cereals in Everyday Dishes

MELANIE DE PROFT
Food Editor

Ready-to-eat bran cereal and whole kernel corn add flavor and texture enhancement to these attractive sausage squares.

■ The crisp texture, characteristic flavor, and nutritive value of each of the many ready-to-eat cereals available make them a perfect foil for other foods. Here are just a few examples of their wonderful versatility in family meal preparation.

Supper Sausage Squares

- 1½ lbs. small pork sausage links (about 24)
- 1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1½ tablespoons sugar
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 can (12 oz.) whole kernel corn, drained; reserve liquid
- Milk
- ½ cup whole bran cereal or bran buds
- 1 tablespoon instant minced onion
- 3 eggs

1. Put sausage links into a large, cold skillet. Add a small amount of water; cover and cook over low heat 5 min. Remove cover and pour off fat. Continue cooking, turning to brown on all sides. Drain on paper toweling. Reserve ¼ cup drippings.

2. Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt together; set aside.

3. Add enough milk to reserved corn liqlid to measure 1½ cups. Combine with drippings, whole bran cereal, onion, corn, and eggs; beat well. Add dry ingredients and beat until batter is smooth.

4. Turn batter into a greased 15x10x1-in. jelly-roll pan. Arrange sausage links in batter in a uniform pattern.

5. Bake at 450°F. about 20 min. or until golden brown. Cut into squares and serve warm with maple-blended syrup.

8 servings

Peanut Butter-Cereal Crust Pie

- ⅓ cup peanut butter
- ½ cup corn syrup
- 2 cups rice krispies
- Your favorite ready-to-serve canned or refrigerated pudding

1. Blend peanut butter and corn syrup in a bowl. Add the cereal and mix until well coated. Turn mixture into a buttered 9-in. pie pan and press firmly and evenly on bottom and sides. Chill until firm.

2. Fill chilled pie shell with pudding. Chill about 2 hrs. Decorate with whipped dessert topping. One 9-in. pie

Note: If desired, cover the pie filling with a crunchy topping: a mixture of crushed rice krispies, flaked coconut, sugar, and ground cinnamon tossed lightly with melted butter or margarine.

Chocolate Cereal Crust

Melt 1 cup semisweet chocolate pieces and 2 tablespoons butter or margarine over hot, not boiling, water. Mix in 2 cups presweetened corn flakes. Press into a buttered 8-in. pie pan. Cool until firm. Fill as desired. One 8-in. crust

Puffed Rice-Nut Clusters

- 1 cup lightly packed brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon light molasses
- ¼ cup light cream
- ¼ cup milk
- 2 tablespoons light corn syrup
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 4 cups puffed rice
- 1 cup salted nuts (Spanish peanuts, pecans, or mixed nuts)
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract or imitation maple flavoring
- 1 cup miniature marshmallows

1. Combine the first 6 ingredients in a deep, heavy saucepan. Stir to blend thoroughly. Place over medium heat; cook to simmering and insert candy thermometer. Continue cooking until thermometer registers 220°F., stirring several times to prevent scorching.

2. Meanwhile, spread rice cereal and nuts in a shallow pan and set in a 300°F. oven about 15 min. Just before syrup is ready, transfer the cereal and nuts to a large lightly buttered bowl; toss to mix well.

3. When syrup is ready, remove from heat and quickly stir in flavoring and marshmallows; stir only until blended. Quickly pour over warm cereal mixture and toss gently to coat evenly.

4. Grease hands lightly and form mixture into small clusters; place on waxed paper to cool. Store in tightly covered container in a cool place. About 30 clusters

PROBLEM PERSPIRATION SOLVED

even for thousands who perspire heavily

A different formula has been found to keep underarms absolutely dry—even for thousands who perspire heavily. A formula so different it has far more anti-wetness agent than it is possible to put in any aerosol can. By anybody. After decades of common "deodorants," it took a chemical invention to make this truly effective protection possible — with the same safety to clothing—the same skin mildness as popular "deodorants." Called Mitchum Anti-Perspirant, it is the product of a trustworthy 57-year-old laboratory and guaranteed by Good Housekeeping. By the thousands, women with problem perspiration are finding the protection they need—and never could find before. And fully effective as a deodorant, too, of course. If you perspire more than average—even heavily — get the positive protection of Mitchum Anti-Perspirant. Your choice, liquid or cream. Ninety-day supply, each $3.00. Available at your favorite drug or toiletry counter.

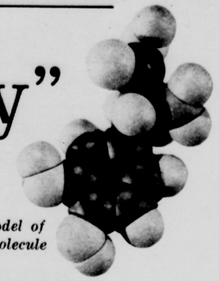
The Drug That Saved Me from "Shaking Palsy"

how levodopa to a normal, productive life

A sufferer of "incurable" Parkinson's disease tells restored him

By WILLIAM B. JANOVER



Model of L-dopa molecule

FOR TEN YEARS I suffered from "shaking palsy," the crippling Parkinson's disease that afflicts over a million Americans. Today, thanks to a remarkable experimental drug, I feel as if I'm reborn, rescued from a wheel chair or worse.

This new drug, called levodopa (or L-dopa), has been hailed as "one of the most important contributions to medical therapy of a neurologic disease in the past 50 years." I am lucky to be one of those who has benefited dramatically from it.

I first noticed the symptoms one evening at home while reading a book. Suddenly my face flushed and my heart raced wildly. I was afraid it was a heart attack. After our family doctor gave me a shot of morphine, I felt better. But there was a tremor on my right side, and my hands and legs trembled. For a week I stayed home from my job as guidance counselor at Northport (N.Y.) High School.

As the tremors continued, I saw a neurologist, a nerve specialist. His diagnosis: Parkinson's disease. As he explained it, the disease usually gets progressively worse, until most victims are badly disabled or paralyzed. At that time, 10 years ago, there was no effective treatment.

I did not fall into a depression. My philosophy was not to bemoan the fact that I'd been stricken. I was determined to be realistic and fight back in every conceivable way. I don't believe in escapism or sitting at home brooding. I continued to work. The future (I'm only 44 now) did not look black to me, though I was well aware it would change. If I had surrendered to the awful disease, I would probably have become virtually helpless.

My wife Mildred, who later had to drive me to work, was always cheerful in front of me. In private, I know that she had moments when she broke up.

Some five years ago, I heard about Dr. Irving S. Cooper, of New York's St. Barnabas Hospital, who had perfected new surgical techniques for Parkinson's by using a freezing probe. His method destroys certain areas in the brain center involved in the disease. Only about one out of 10 are good candidates for this surgery.

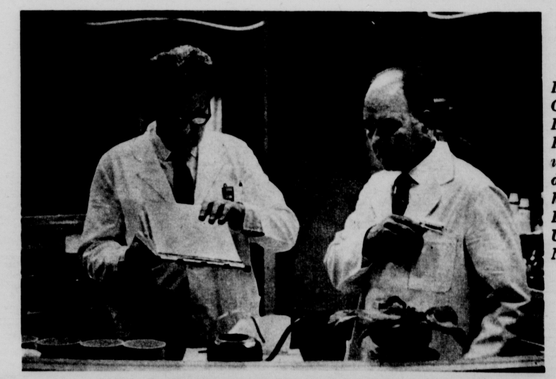
The operation was performed on me. The shaking on my right side did stop. But in the months that followed my left side began to shake.

Year after year, I gradually went downhill. The signs were typical of the disease. I was shuffling along, dragging my feet. My facial muscles tightened, causing my face to appear somewhat like a mask. With my throat muscles constricted, it was difficult to swallow, and sometimes I choked on my food. My voice softened, so that speaking to someone across a room became a real effort. I had great difficulty even in cutting my food. It was impossible to turn over in bed.

Doctor Cooper's staff was willing to do a second operation, but there loomed the possibility of serious side effects, so I decided to wait.

Meanwhile, I no longer mowed our lawn or went bowling and gave up driving our car. At work, preparing reports, my speech was slurred when I used a tape recorder and writing came very slowly and illegibly.

Then, two years ago, I read that Dr. George C. Cotzias and associates at Brookhaven National Laboratory in Upton, N.Y., had developed a research drug that might decrease tremors and rigidity. It was L-dopa, a potent amino acid. Many symptoms of Parkinson's are caused by lack of a body chemical called dopamine, which is necessary for transmitting impulses to and from the brain. Levodopa crosses the blood-brain barrier and is converted to the needed dopamine.



Dr. George C. Cotzias (left) and Dr. Paul S. Papavasiliou at work on levodopa drug in Brookhaven National Laboratory, Upton, New York.

Through Doctor Cotzias' secretary, I was told that Cornell University-New York Hospital was trying out the drug on selected patients. On an unforgettable day in September, 1968, I was granted an appointment. That day I could hardly propel myself and figured that in a month I'd be in a wheel chair.

At the hospital I was impressed by the very personal way in which patients were handled: doctors themselves came out to the waiting room to greet us by name. Dr. Fletcher H. MacDowell, my physician, has that calm warmth and empathy which is so comforting.

After the most comprehensive examination I ever had, and some nine hours of tests, I was considered qualified for the levodopa program. Of course, I was elated. My wife and teen-age daughter Helene, who had reached the point where they didn't dare to hope, at first felt wary of any new pills. I was the one who exuded great optimism.

I'd been cautioned about the drug's possible side effects: nausea, sweating, stomach upsets and, in some instances, hallucinations. But during my first week on the pills, I wasn't even nauseated.

As the dosage increased, miraculously my face muscles began to loosen up. My shuffle changed to a limp, and then gradually my stride lengthened. Stretching muscles in physiotherapy suddenly seemed easier. I could take deeper breaths.

Now, after more than a year on levodopa, remaining symptoms are few and only occasional. Now and then, my left leg gives me a little trouble. Sometimes I experience a mild twitching, and there may be involuntary movements of my neck or foot.

Once, sitting in my office with students, my arm suddenly shot up. I pulled it down but it shot up again. I had to lock my hands behind my head. But when the levodopa dosage was adjusted, such symptoms faded away. I understand that as the drug is purified more, there will be fewer side effects.

The other day Doctor MacDowell said I didn't have to see him for 10 weeks. That must mean I'm getting along fine. Now I can even play volley ball. I go swimming (my favorite sport) for as long as an hour at a time.

Recently, when relatives came visiting, my aunt stared at me as I strode over to meet her. "I can't believe it," she burst out. "What a difference!"

As for other patients on levodopa, medical reports show that improvement is evidenced in three out of four cases. Results vary from "modest" to "moderate," "marked" and "impressive."

I guess mine is impressive. Maybe it's because I was treated before the condition became far more devastating. Still, according to the latest study at Cornell University Medical College, patients with all degrees of severity tend to improve.

As I write this, the drug is still officially regarded as "experimental." It's now being tested at 24 medical centers across the nation and is not generally available. Perhaps the Food and Drug Administration will approve it for prescription within the year.

My immediate prognosis, I'm told, is excellent. Doctor MacDowell says I'm "pretty close to normal." That is, at times if I were examined by a neurologist who didn't know my case, he couldn't tell I had Parkinson's. Five or 10 years from now? No one knows. It's still too early to predict; thus far, only a few patients have been on the drug for as long as three years.

I'm happy, living for now. To Doctors MacDowell, Cotzias, and all the other medical investigators striving to rescue the million of us from the ravages and anguish of "shaking palsy," I can only say, I'm profoundly grateful—and bless you. ●

Parting of the Waves

Among the pleasures that women treasure,
To which their hearts respond,
How few the delights that can compare
To spotting the dark at the roots of the hair
Of a honey blonde!

—Georgie Starbuck Galbraith

QUIPS AND QUOTES

A meat-market owner tells about a society matron who swept up to the counter and ordered 18 pounds of ground sirloin. His labors completed and the meat piled on the scale, the butcher told her that the tab was $14.40.

"Oh, I don't want to buy it," she said. "I lost 18 pounds in the last 10 weeks, and I wanted to see what it looks like in one lump."

—William Lodge

A kid down the street is so hip he dropped out of school rather than study the square root.

—Bill Copeland

"What are you going to tell your parents about your grades?" one little boy asked another as they wended their way home, each with a report card tucked between his books.

"I'll just say the teacher has a grudge against me," said the second lad. "It always works."

The first boy sighed. "I'm afraid that won't work in my case. My parents will never believe six different teachers have the same grudge." —Lane Olinghouse

Nothing makes your wedding presents so useful as having friends who get married.

—Franklin P. Jones

A tough lieutenant was inspecting his men, who were to go on dress parade, looking for the slightest flaw. He came to one GI whose tie was askew.

Leaning over, so that their faces were very close, he bellowed, "Straighten that tie!"

Obligingly, the new recruit reached out and straightened the lieutenant's tie.

—Dorothea Kent

My Wife's Checking Account

Begged and coaxed to keep the stubs,
What does she advise me?
She thinks it's always much more fun
To surprise me.

—Hal Chadwick

Generation Gap?

You think my generation, child,
Wore halos on our hair?
Were free of instincts daft and wild?
In short were square?
My generation wasn't meek—
Heavens to Betsy, no!
Whenever we danced cheek to cheek
We did it head to toe.

—Gloria Bier

The movie producer was determined to produce the greatest screen epic ever presented to movie audiences.

For the book, he chose the New Testament. For the cast, every notable actor in the Western world. He spared no expense, and the movie gave every indication of being truly supercolossal.

The director then described to the producer one of the final scenes —the Last Supper. "It will be beautiful," he said. "Jesus surrounded by the 12 Apostles."

The producer blanched. "You're fired! I hired you to make the greatest picture in the world. And what do you do? Use only 12 Apostles in the biggest scene!"

—James Shurluck

"Suspect has long brown hair, was last seen wearing low boots, flowered sweater, tight lavender bell-bottoms, and love beads."

If COUVERT can hide every line and wrinkle of this 46-year-old Indian grandmother...

imagine what it can do for you!

Before After

Invented to fool the super-critical eye of color TV, a totally new kind of make-up... almost invisible, easy as lipstick to apply, more effective in keeping aging stars young looking than the efforts of the best make-up artists in Hollywood.

Forget everything you've ever heard about make-up. Suddenly there's a totally new kind of make-up. A make-up as new as color TV...and just as exciting. A make-up from the world of make-believe in Television City, Hollywood, that can make every woman's dream come true, banish lines and wrinkles from sight, dark circles, any and every flaw.

A make-up so feathery light in tone and texture, so perfectly matched to your own complexion, that nobody will ever know you're using it. A make-up designed to be used under blazing color TV lights, so it stays beautiful hour after hour, for as long as 16 hours.

Cameras don't lie... but the eye can be fooled.

Better than words express, you can see for yourself in the dramatic unretouched photos what this wonderful new make-up can do. Those aren't just lines and wrinkles, they're furrows deeply etched by years of outdoor living. Now look at the after picture. It proves beyond a shadow of doubt that cameras don't lie, but the eye can be fooled. And now you, too, can create this remarkable illusion...as simply as you put on lipstick.

Two Simple Steps, Three Little Minutes

Couvert comes to you in two small tubes. Each performs its own share of the magic. Together they take no more than three minutes to apply...together they take 5, 10, even 20 years off your appearance.

Couvert No. 1. A feather-light, skin-tone liquid make-up base that comes in 4 shades, one to exactly match your complexion...

Couvert No. 2. There is nothing else like this. It doesn't mask, coat or cover up. It hides! That's right, like a magic cloak, it makes every single flaw invisible to the eye. Lines, wrinkles, circles, enlarged pores, crow's feet.

There is, of course, a sound scientific reason why this miracle takes place. It's called light refraction. Nobody knows you have lines or wrinkles because nobody can see them. But all the explaining in the world won't mean as much to you as the results you see with your own eyes. Therefore, you must see the results spelled out below, or we will return your money with no questions asked.

Three-Way Money Back Guarantee

First, wrinkles, mouth lines, crow's feet, complexion flaws must disappear from sight completely...

Second, you must see an immediate glow, a smooth flawlessness, an alluring young radiance that you didn't dare dream you'd ever see again...

Third, this magical illustration must last all day, all night—even under the harshest lights—for as long as 16 hours at a time...

or Elan Corp. International will return your money—no questions asked.

Inexpensive Because The Man Who Invented Couvert Wanted It That Way

The man who invented Couvert is a famous make-up artist. He is also a rich man. Up until now he's only been able to help the wealthy or the already beautiful. That's why he wanted his discovery to help as many women as possible. The way he put it was, "I'd like it to get rid of every ugly line and wrinkle in the whole world."

That's why we got the exclusive rights to Couvert. Instead of the $10, $15, even $50 other people were suggesting as the selling price, we recommended selling Couvert for only $5.00. (With the unconditional money back guarantee.) We figured that at this price every woman could afford to try it ...and go on using it year after year.

So, behold an amazing transformation in just three minutes. See your face unlined, unwrinkled, visibly smoother, younger-looking than it has been in years—just like the stars you see on colored TV who look so young though you know they're over 35. Return the coupon below right now.

. . . but just look at her now!

When Su May first came to our Home in Hong Kong, the other children called her "Girl-who-will-not-laugh."

And there was a reason for her sadness. Her parents were dead, her relatives didn't want her. It seemed that no one in the world loved her.

So why the big smile now? Well, Su May has discovered that someone does love her. She lives in a pretty cottage along with her new "brothers and sisters"—and has loving care from a housemother, especially trained for the difficult task of being a mother to youngsters like Su May.

And just look at her now. She doesn't have a worry in the world—but we do. Because, you see, we must find a sponsor for Su May. A sponsor who will help provide food, clothing, education—love.

And Su May is only one heartbreaking case out of thousands . . . boys and girls who are neglected, unwanted, starving, unloved. Our workers overseas have a staggering number of children desperately waiting for help—over 15,000 youngsters, that will just have to survive the best they can until we find sponsors for them.

How about you? Will you sponsor a child like Su May? The cost is only $12 a month.

Please fill out the sponsor application below—you can indicate your preference, or let us assign you a child from our emergency list.

Then, in about two weeks, you will receive a photograph of your child, and a personal history. Your child will write to you, and a housemother will send you the original and an English translation, direct from overseas.

Won't you share your blessings—and your love—with a needy child?

Countries of greatest need this month: India, Hong Kong, Taiwan (Formosa), Brazil, Thailand and Philippines.

READ ALOUD AND EASY READING PROGRAM®

Selected Picture and Story Books for Little Listeners and Beginning Readers

Most mothers and fathers frankly acknowledge that they haven't either the time or the perspective to choose precisely the right books for children not yet ready to read or who are just beginning to read. That is why parents are happily turning this problem over to the highly qualified editors of Parents' Magazine, by enrolling their youngsters in the Read Aloud and Easy Reading Program for Little Listeners and Beginning Readers.

Membership brings to your home each month an outstanding, carefully selected book which you may read to or along with your little one. Each book will charm and captivate your child—from its bright, colorful cover through its gaily illustrated pages, with a story appealing and understandable to even the youngest mind.

Save up to 50% —and more!

Besides the assurance of good entertainment, and the wonderful read-together sessions each selection provides for you and your child, you will be pleased by the savings on every book. Member's price is only $1.59 each (plus small mailing charge) for books regularly priced up to $3.95.

Mail Postpaid Card for Introductory Package

If your child is of "beginning reader" or "read to me" age, enroll your youngster now—and receive the introductory package shown above FREE, plus "The King with Six Friends" as the first Program selection. You must be convinced of the pleasure and benefits this highly praised Program offers your child—or you may return the books in 10 days and owe nothing. Parents' Magazine's Read Aloud and Easy Reading Program, P.O. Box 161, Bergenfield, N. J. 07621.

PRAISE FROM KINDERGARTEN AND EARLY GRADE TEACHERS

Every year thousands of kindergarten and first and second grade teachers make a special effort to introduce their pupils' parents to Parents' Magazine's Read Aloud and Easy Reading Program. They like the quality of books offered through membership; they note the enthusiasm which greets each new book's arrival, and the beneficial effect on reading skills and general school work.

YOUR CHILD'S FIRST SELECTION
"A TRULY ENGAGING LITTLE TALE"

"The King with Six Friends" by Jay Williams, illustrated by Imero Gobbato. Young King Zar loses his throne and goes job hunting, aided by six resourceful friends. He regains not only a kingdom but a lovely princess for his Queen as well. "A truly engaging little tale." Daily Press, Newport News, Va. "...humorous story...lively multicolored illustrations." Library Journal. Publisher's price $3.50 ...price to members only $1.59

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

by HENRY FORMHALS

T.M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

IT'S MORNING! TIME TO WAKE UP!

YOU'VE GOT TO BE KIDDING---- I'VE BEEN AWAKE ALL NIGHT!

PLAYING INDIAN WITH HONEYBEE WAS THE MOST RIDICULOUS THING I EVER DID!

SHE ONLY WANTED YOU TO LEARN ABOUT INDIANS!

I HAD A ROCK FOR A PILLOW, AND I THINK MY BED WAS MADE OF PORCUPINE QUILLS!

COULD YOU SLEEP?

NO, IT RAINED, AND THE TEPEE LEAKED. THE RAIN PUT OUT THE FIRE, AND IT STARTED TO SMOKE!

THEN THIS CONFOUNDED FEATHER STARTED TO DROOP, AND TICKLED MY NOSE ALL NIGHT!

WELL, DO YOU THINK YOU LEARNED ANYTHING ABOUT INDIANS?

I SURE DID!

NOW I KNOW WHY THEY WENT ON THE WARPATH!

EXCUSE ME, SIR. DO YOU HAVE A MINUTE?

OF COURSE, MY GOOD MAN!

I'LL BET YOU'RE REALLY RICH, HUH?

WHY, YES! AS A MATTER OF FACT, MY ANNUAL INCOME IS $25,000-A-YEAR. THAT'S $12.82 AN HOUR AND 21¢ PER MINUTE.

GOSH! COULD YOU SPARE A DIME FOR A POOR FELLOW WHO IS DOWN ON HIS LUCK?

CERTAINLY, MY GOOD MAN! CONSIDER IT YOURS. HOWEVER, MY TIME IS VALUABLE, AND BY THE TIME WE FINISH THIS CONVERSATION I SHALL HAVE GIVEN YOU A MINUTE —— SO THAT MEANS YOU ONLY OWE ME 11¢.

DEAR POLLY—To prevent milk bottles from rattling against each other in the refrigerator, place a wide elastic band around the widest part of each bottle. —DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY—Save that leftover piece of chain link fence. It will be great for wrapping around the shrubs to keep them out of the way the next time the house is painted.—LINDA

DEAR POLLY—Instead of making a soap lather when I shave my legs I use a liquid detergent. Just squirt a small amount on the legs, spread it around and then shave. This is so easy. —K. S. G.

Polly pays a dollar for every idea used. Send them to her, care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—When my sister finds her children's belongings scattered around the house she puts them in a special box that is marked "Dog House." The owner of any items must do an extra chore to get an object out of the box. This is an easy way to teach youngsters to put away their possessions.—MELANIE

DEAR POLLY—When making seams, darts and so on, I keep a small piece of cloth (3 x 1 inches) handy. First I sew over the narrow end and then go on with the seam. After sewing the seam clip off the cloth and reuse it again when completing the end of the seam. This keeps the thread from slipping out of the needle when starting and also saves thread that is ordinarily pulled out when stitching is completed.—MARY

DEAR POLLY—I make liners out of old sheets and put them in sleeping bags to keep them clean. Cut the material to fit in the bag and attach with ties. When the liner gets dirty just remove it and put in the washer. You are saved the cost of having the entire bag cleaned.—VIRGINIA

DEAR POLLY—Campers will find that a handy container for holding utensils and food is one of those metal cans in which bakeries get shortening. They usually can be bought for a small amount. The lids fit tightly, making them waterproof and ant proof. We find ours large enough to hold frying pans and dishes, yet fit in our car trunk. —ZITTELLA

DEAR POLLY—Our brother made a hard-to-remove scuff mark on the floor every time he walked across it while wearing his new rubber soled shoes. We applied clear nail polish on the corners of the shoes. This worked so well we have no more marks on the floor.—GAIL and TERRY

DEAR POLLY—When having company and you do not have a pad that fits under your best tablecloth all you have to do is put a sheet on the table as you would a cloth. Bring the edges under the table and tape them in place. (Polly's note—If you want better protection from hot dishes substitute a clean bed pad. If the cloth is transparent cover the pad with a sheet and then put on the cloth.)—CHARLOTTE
